Europeans Find Much Fault With U. S. Policies, but Stay Grateful

By JAMES F. KING

LONDON (AP) — The image of the efficient American is as bright as ever in European eyes—but the image of the United States is clouded and confused.

The war in Vietnam, a summer of riots and reports of an alarming crime rate have raised mixed reactions and emotions.

"You people have taken over the world leadership we once had and you're welcome to it, mate," a Cockney cabbie in London tells his American passenger.

A Gaullist Cabinet minister in Paris warns against "the Americanization of French life."

An Italian clerk in Rome says: "I feel sorry for the Americans and we owe them so much."

British officials feel the United States is preoccupied with promoting its own interests, notably in Asia where the chief challenge has arisen.

On the economic front, there is concern that huge U.S. companies will gain control of science-based industries that hold the key to West Europe's future.

Sir Paul Chambers, head of Britain's giant Imperial Chemical Industries and an advocate of British entry into the European Common Market, warned against U.S. domination becoming "a menace to the whole economy of Western Europe."

Britons still look at the United States as the land of opportunity. But there's still plenty of criticism.

One British reporter, after a 6,000-mile trip through the United States, reported that he found "confusion, irritation, bewilderment."

"Attitudes are hardening," he said. "There is less tolerance."

Nevertheless, more than 6,000 scientists, technologists and engineers—along with scores of doctors—left Britain last year for the United States for more money and better chances of promotion.

Brain Drain

A government report, while expressing concern about the "brain drain," quoted one aeronautical engineer who emigrated as saying about Englishmen working with him: "Almost without doubt, all would prefer life in England. This is a cultural wilderness."

Ken Mills, 45-year-old aviation expert, emigrated to the United States last year, began making more money than ever before in his life, but still came home again. He told friends: "My younger son could not join us in America without the risk of being called up for Vietnam."

A recent public opinion poll showed 63 per cent of Britons questioned were against taking sides in any major world crisis that brought the threat of war between the United States and Russia.

But while British are looking more to Europe, the Guardian said in a recent editorial: "Our links with the United States must remain."

'Kind of Different'

To Eileen Grant, 19-year-old stenographer, "Americans seem kind of different from us—terribly serious about some things that aren't important to us, like the fuss over the Beatles saying they were more popular than God. As if it really mattered."

American prestige in France is probably lower than it has ever been. The Frenchman seldom carries over his resentment against "America" to the individual "American."

President Charles de Gaulle is waging, with some success, a systematic campaign to undermine the moral credentials of the United States and pledging to keep France independent of "American hegemony."

The Vietnam war has provided De Gaulle his biggest weapon. The overwhelming majority of Frenchmen—remembering their defeat in Indochina when

Playground Fall Fatal to Neenah Boy

6-Year-Old Slips On Monkey Bars Prior to School

NEENAH — A six-year-old school boy died early this morning after falling from monkey bars in the playground area of Roosevelt School.

Richard Elbe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emory Elbe, 236 Grant St., was dead on arrival at Theda Clark Memorial Hospital around 8:30 a.m.

The boy was playing with other youngsters a few minutes before school started today. Witnesses said the boy was climbing to the top of the monkey bars when he slipped and fell to the concrete.

He was knocked unconscious by the fall, according to school officials. Several of his companions called Mrs. Laura Fry, the first grade teacher, who rushed to the scene to apply mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

The Neenah Fire Department ambulance carried the boy to the hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

The body is at Laemmrich Funeral Home in Menasha, where arrangements are incomplete.

Firefighters Get Aid From Weather

ORANGE, Calif. (AP) — An encouraging weather forecast heartened crews today trying to surround brush and timber fires that have burned 140,000 acres in Southern California.

Four deaths are attributed to the fires. Structural damage has exceeded $4 million.

Rising humidity and an influx of cool, marine air were expected to aid hundreds of weary firefighters.

The fires, erupting Sunday, were whipped by dry winds gusting up to 100 miles an hour as humidity dropped in some areas to 1 per cent. But the wind died down to breezes Tuesday.

Most of the blazes were reported near containment.

Pair Charged With Holdup in Illinois

LA PORTE, Ind. (AP) — Two men wanted in a suburban Chicago bank robbery in which two policemen were slain were seized Tuesday night at a lake cottage used by one of them as a hideout 11 years ago.

A posse of federal, state and county police officers, acting on a tip, went to the cabin and arrested Clifton O. Daniels, 29, Wilmington, Ill., and Henry M. Gargano, 35. Gargano was found in bed, seriously wounded and "too weak to move."

Two women in the cabin at Fox Lake 12 miles southeast of this northern Indiana city also were arrested. Police identified them as Mary F. Cook, 30, and Annette Gargano Leonardo, 29, both of Lemont, Ill.

Recover Money

Daniels and Gargano were charged in the $83,783 holdup Friday of a Northlake, Ill., bank. The FBI said most of the loot was recovered in the cottage.

A gun battle at the bank between police and the three masked robbers killed officers John J. Nagle Jr., 31, and Anthony P. Perri, 41. Two other policemen were wounded along with Ronald D. Raine, 35, one of the robbers who was charged with two counts of murder.

About 17 officers went to the lake cottage. Most summer cottages at the resort were vacant.

FBI agent Harold A. Berger of South Bend, who led the raid, said the cabin was owned by Gargano's grandfather and that Gargano "used it as a hideout in 1956 after a bank robbery in Francesville, Ind."

Berger said lights were seen inside. Using a bullhorn, he ordered the occupants to come out with their hands up. The two women came out first and related that Gargano was wounded.

Daniels backed out as instructed. He was grabbed by FBI agent Eugene Norris, who quoted him as saying, "We don't want any trouble." "They came out just as instructed," Berger said. "We had apprised them the place was surrounded and there was no avenue of escape."

State police said two guns, both loaded and cocked, were on a bed stand beside Gargano. "but he was too weak to reach them."

Berger said the money was found in a suitcase and bore stamps of the Northlake bank.

Flies Over Battle Zone In Vietnam

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey arrived in the Malaysian capital from Saigon today as hundreds of steel-helmeted riot police guarded against a repetition of the violence that broke out during President Johnson's visit last October.

Humphrey's effigy was hanged in Penang, a hotbed of leftist activity 180 miles to the north, a few hours before he arrived in a big U.S. Air Force jet.

Some 200 youths massed in downtown Kuala Lumpur Tuesday night but scattered when riot police arrived.

Half an hour before Humphrey's arrival 100 young members of the left-wing opposition Labor Party paraded along a main street with "Humphrey Get Out" banners but dropped their signs and walked away when a light drizzle started.

The Labor party has charged that Humphrey will try to involve Malaysia in the Vietnam war. However, Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman gave assurance Tuesday that the government would not send troops to Vietnam although it would continue to train South Vietnamese police officers.

Little Fanfare

Papers, Buses Halt in Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati was hit with double trouble today.

The city of about 500,000 population was without newspapers and without city bus service.

A shutdown of the city's two daily newspapers started Monday with a strike by photoengravers which then spread to other unions. Today 800 members of the Amalgamated Transit Union struck the Cincinnati Transit Co. in another contract dispute.

The transit strike, the first in 54 years here, caused massive traffic jams on a rainy morning as workers had to use private transportation to get to their jobs.

New Political Storm

Britain's Brown Orders Publisher to 'Shut Up'

LONDON (AP) — Foreign Secretary George Brown was at the center of a new political storm today after telling the nation's biggest publisher "it is about time you shut up" and calling British newspapers "the most prostituted press in the world."

There was a demand from the Conservative opposition that Prime Minister Harold Wilson fire Brown.

"Enough is enough," said Duncan Sandys, a member of the Conservative Party government that Wilson's Labor Party unseated three years ago. "For the sake of Britain's good name, Mr. Wilson has a duty to make a change."

Brown turned on Lord Thomson of Fleet at a banquet the publisher gave for American executives Wednesday night, then later waded into a 10-minute row with newsmen covering the banquet.

Starts With Joke

Brown's outburst apparently was set off by a joke Thomson made in introducing him.

According to the London Daily Express, the joke concerned a George Brown who was advised by his doctor that if he wished to live to be 100 years old he should give up smoking, drinking and women.

The point of the story was that even if the patient did not live that long, in these circumstances it would seem like 100 years.

Brown hit right back, putting aside his prepared text to attack the Canadian-born publisher, apparently for a series of articles his London Sunday Times is running about Harold Philby, the former Foreign Office man who spied for the Soviet Union for 30 years until he defected to Moscow in 1963.

Thomson tried to interrupt him but Brown silenced him with, "I didn't interrupt you.

'Great Disservice'

"You are doing—your papers are doing under your control—a very great disservice to this country and a very great disservice to the affairs which we ought to be controlling," Brown said.

"I am your guest but I must make this quite clear: I think you are overdoing it and I think it is about time you stopped.

"It is about time we stopped giving the Russians half a start on what we are doing. It is about time you shut up.

"If you don't want to be a Cyrus Eaton. . ." and here Brown went back to his prepared speech on "Britain in a Changing World." He made no further reference to Eaton, the American industrialist who has maintained close contacts with Kremlin leaders.

Thomson, who publishes a number of papers in the United States, took the attack with good humor.

He told his guests: "We don't always take George very seriously, and now you have a very good picture of the man who is. Cameramen besieged them.

Assembly Dilutes Highway Measure

Agrees to Increase State Patrol By 55, Inspect Some Vehicles

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin assemblymen, balking at a proposal to hike the State Patrol force by 100 men, have approved a lesser increase in a key highway safety program bill.

On a lopsided 96-2 vote, the Assembly forwarded the measure to the Senate Tuesday. The bill calls for a 55-man increase in the State Patrol and random inspection of motor vehicles.

Neither provision is as strong as the one proposed last spring by Gov. Warren P. Knowles, who had sought a 100-man increase and mandatory inspections.

Major Setback

Knowles suffered a major legislative setback when he lost his highway safety program on a 44-45 vote in the Assembly.

Backers of the program have decided in the current fall session to separate the safety issues into separate packages.

Heated debate preceded successful attempts to slash the size of the proposed State Patrol increase.

"If you don't want state cops on the highways, then you shouldn't have any state speed laws," argued David Obey, D-Wausau, assistant minority leader.

Assemblyman G. K. Anderson, R-Waupaca, countered that local law officials could handle the job of law enforcement. He said he felt there already were sufficient numbers of state officers.

Under the bill, 16 of the added patrolmen would be assigned to inspection teams for random vehicle inspection.

Legislative approval would be required for certain changes in standards for vehicle inspection after Jan. 1, 1969.

The Assembly defeated attempts to specify the number of unmarked patrol cars that could be used by officers in patrolling the highways.

Calls Columnist Liar

Reagan Raps Report of Homosexuals on Staff

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan has denied a report by syndicated columnist Drew Pearson that two former members of Reagan's staff "were engaged in homosexual activities."

"He's lying," Reagan told his regular weekly news conference Tuesday. Once he pounded the speaking rostrum with his fist.

"I'm not going to dignify Drew Pearson by even attempting to answer anything as scurrilous and as ridiculous as this report."

In a statement issued in Washington, D.C., Pearson said "the facts in this case are incontrovertible and he knows it."

The column was published in some newspapers Tuesday but others did not print it. Pearson did not name anyone to whom he referred. At Reagan's news conference, which lasted 15 minutes, no one was named.

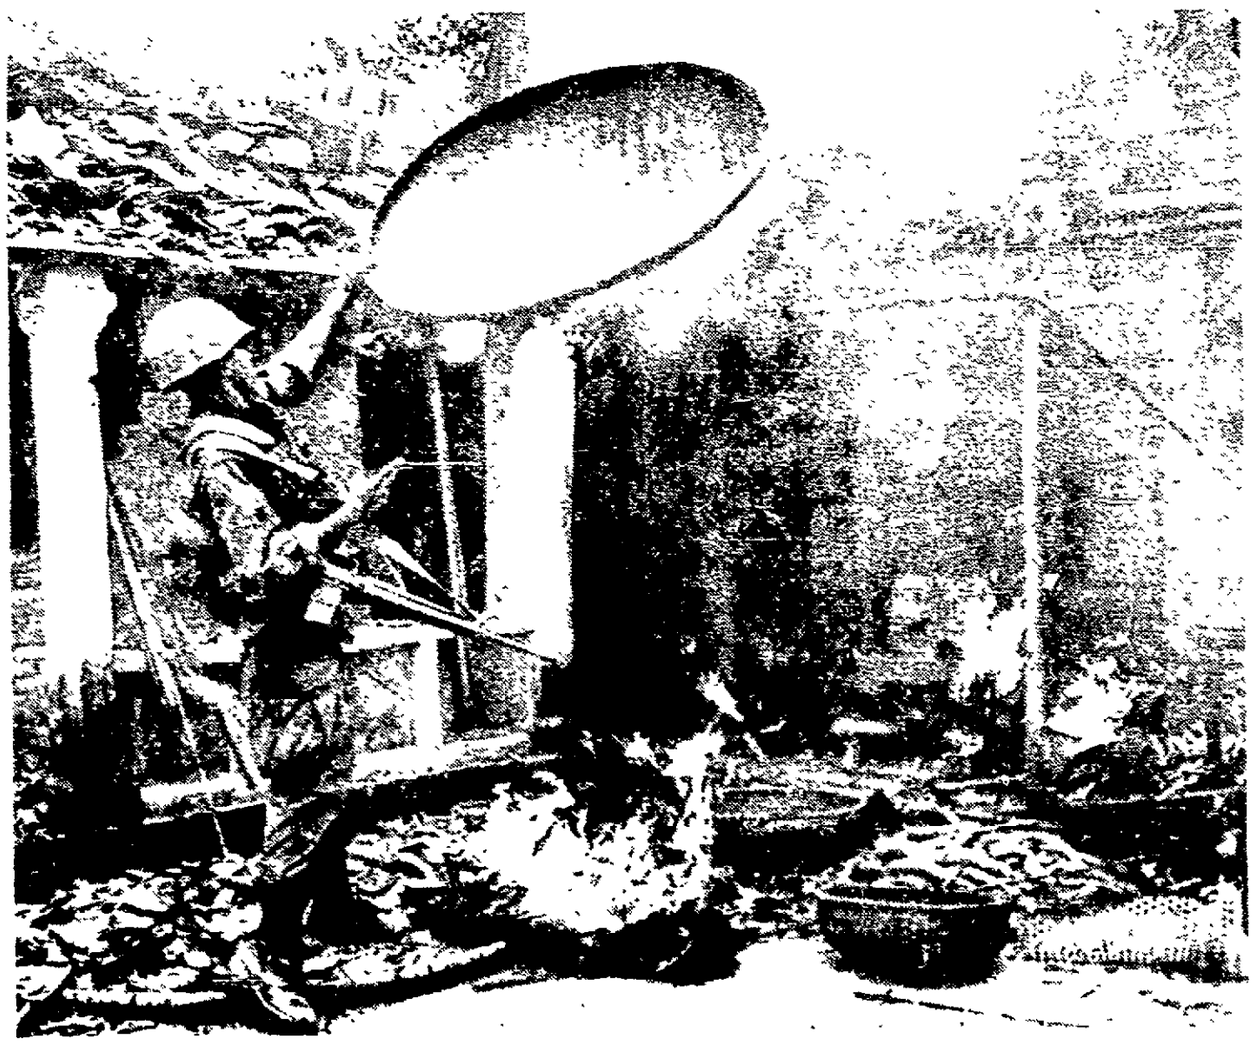

'Twisting Facts'

The columnist said Reagan "has the happy faculty of twisting the facts to suit his own end." He said Reagan "has been posing as Mr. Clean and yet tolerated two homosexuals on his staff for approximately six months and did not act regarding them until he was pressured."

"I am not interested in the men concerned," said Pearson. "They are unfortunate victims of a disease and should be given psychiatric care, but the public is entitled to know the facts about a man who has ambitions to become president of the United States."

Police Suspect Father In Deaths of 7 Children

ARCADIA, Fla. (AP) — DeSoto County Sheriff Frank Cline said today a motive—a father's reported collection of life insurance benefits—had been established in the insecticide poisoning deaths a week ago of seven children.

Cline told a news conference he was trying to Jacksonville to investigate the previous deaths of the other children of James Richardson, a citrus picker held on a child neglect charge.

Cline said he had information that five of Richardson's children, aged five months to seven years, died in Jacksonville over the past few years.

The sheriff said he would leave Arcadia immediately after the coroner's inquest Thursday.

'Going to Burst'

"The motive was remuneration for life insurance, the cause of death was eating something which contained parathion which was in the pots of food which the children licked clean at noontime the day they died," Cline said.

DeSoto County Judge Gordon Hays, present at the news conference, told newsmen Cline "feels like this is going to burst wide open."

Cline said he had no immediate word whether the cause of death of the children in Jacksonville was accidental. The sheriff said the children were Richardson's by a previous marriage.

Richardson, 32, was originally booked into county jail Tuesday night on a charge of first degree murder but later warrants were issued charging him and his wife, Annie Mae, 29, with child neglect.

Judge Hays said bond was set [illegible]

China Urgently Needs Food

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

A new round of "urgent appeals" to peasants to concentrate on production, along with other reports from Asia, raises the possibility that Red China is headed for a food crisis next year.

Repeatedly peasants are warned by newspapers and local broadcasts that their work is "bound up with preparations for war and famine." They are ordered to stop participating in the cultural revolution violence, to stick to their farms and indulge in "revolutionary work" only after hours.

An indication of official worry, belying broadcast boasts of bountiful crops, comes in reports from elsewhere in Asia that the Chinese have sought unsuccessfully to buy rice abroad. They already are buying wheat in Canada and elsewhere.

Two Crops

Peasants in some areas are urged to grow two crops annually, both wheat and rice. This evidently is opposed by peasants unaccustomed to wheat production.

The signs are that the cultural revolution's violence caused serious disruption of farm production. In addition, China's press and radio have spoken frequently of natural calamities in spring and summer. These reports say application of "Mao Tse-tung's thinking" overcame such setbacks, but the tone of many broadcasts contradicts this.

In the spring, Red China's press reported serious difficulties in many areas, including Honan, Kirin, Kwangsi, Kiangsu, Tsinghai and Kwangtung provinces. In some areas insufficient rain and snow in recent years brought drought conditions. Some areas reported spring floods followed by late summer drought. Tsinghai reported capricious weather: excessive rain at sowing time, waterlogging, insect pests and the like, and then September drought. Kwangtung reported a huge farm area badly affected by spring cold and summer drought.

People's War

The rural area around Shanghai reported drought in August and called for a "people's war" against it.

Recently Honan, an important rice basket, got an "urgent notice" from the Communist Party and its military commission in Peking, demanding total army and militia support to farmers in autumn harvesting, plowing and sowing. The order was duplicated in other areas. Peasants were told to "avoid civil war," but to be "vigilant against class enemies" trying to incite them to go to the cities to fight workers. Peking said "class enemies"—meaning foes of the Maoists—had incited peasants to halt grain deliveries to the state, distribute grain among themselves and keep none in reserve. A Honan broadcast said "this phenomenon cannot be tolerated."

Local Yunnan broadcasts, after claiming that Mao's thought had produced bumper crops, conceded that in a critical farm preparation period this year there had been natural calamities and that the "handful" of anti-Maoists had "used all sorts of disruptive activities to sabotage production." The broadcast said the army stepped in and crushed the "class enemy" so work could proceed. The story was much the same in Shansi and Shensi.

Wheat Harvest

Kweichow Province put out a general call to peasants, army and militia to insure success of autumn sowing. A broadcast complained that enemies had sabotaged plans to raise wheat as well as rice, but that "the fact that peasants are not accustomed to sowing wheat" had been another obstacle to production.

Mao's thought, it insisted, showed "it is quite correct to grow a lot of wheat and grow two crops per year," meaning rice and wheat. The attempt to turn peasants to wheat in areas where they never grew it could in itself represent desperation.

China is more isolated now than ever and may find severe difficulty in making up prospective shortages. Even if China were on good terms with her neighbors—which she is not—there would be little rice available for purchase.

China's mainland ally, Communist North Vietnam, also sees rice troubles which will be difficult for Peking to relieve. Drought in August seriously affected many state farms, according to Hanoi's Agriculture Ministry.

China's 750 million were told on the national holiday Oct. 1 that the brilliance of Mao's thought had produced abundant harvests. The signs point to a delayed wallop in 1968 from the turmoil.

Pink Buzzard Is Flamingo

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. Verne Runkle telephoned the county sheriff's department this weekend to say "I just saw a pink buzzard with long skinny legs and neck and long wings."

Dubious deputies went to investigate.

Sure enough, there was a pink creature in a private lake just north of Ashland. But it turned out to be a flamingo, a rare bird in these parts.

Deputies are puzzled as to how the bird, normally found in tropic climate, came to be in northern Ohio. Last report is that the bird still displays its long-legged pose in the shallow water.

Panty Raiders Pay Penalty

NORMAN, Okla. (APP) — The Oct. 6 panty raid at the University of Oklahoma led Monday to the dismissal of one student and lesser disciplinary action against 84 others.

Action is pending in eight other cases.

Men Plead Innocent Of Game Violations

Three Illinois men pleaded innocent in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Monday on game violation charges brought after a high speed chase and an accident early Saturday.

Charged after investigation by state conservation wardens were Floyd Duncan, 23, and Charles F. Braden, 19, both of Zion, Ill., and William V. Elliott, 38, of Winthrop Harbor, Ill.

A fourth man, Robert F. Mann, 24, 132 Nye St., Hortonville, has posted bond and is scheduled to appear in county court Friday afternoon.

The men were arrested for alleged game violations, involving deer, in the Town of Maine.

All four men were charged with hunting deer with the aid of an artificial light. In addition, Braden was charged with possession of an untagged deer carcass and carrying a loaded, uncased gun in a moving vehicle, while Elliott was charged under the game law repeater statute, having been convicted of a game violation in Outagamie County Court last November.

Judge Gustave J. Keller ordered trial for all three men for March 20. He set bond at $200 for Duncan, $300 for Elliott, and $350 for Braden.

The complaint issued by Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer contends that two special wardens observed the men hunting with a light in the northern part of Outagamie County. When the wardens turned on their red lights, the men sped away in a 1965 auto, reportedly driven by Braden.

Wardens chased the auto north on State 187, into Shawano County. About 1½ miles from where the chase started, the auto missed a curve and ran into a ditch. The men were not injured. Braden posted bond on a traffic charge in Shawano County.

Wardens said they found a deer in the trunk. The car also contained a loaded, uncased 22 caliber rifle and a spotlight, wardens said.

Judge Keller ruled that the car, which had been impounded, be returned to the men "for the time being." However, wardens were told to hold all weapons and other equipment they had confiscated.

Christmas Edition To be Sold Locally

A special Christmas edition of the Salvation Army's publication "War Cry" will be sold by the Appleton Corps at homes and in the streets starting Saturday.

The holiday issue contains color pictures of the nativity scene and Christmas customs here and abroad. It also includes articles by a number of leading Salvation Army officials.

Calumet Girls Return To Home; Third Sent To School at Oregon

CHILTON — Two of the three 16-year-old Calumet County girls who ran away from Green Bay home for girls late last week have been returned to the home.

The third girl, apprehended in Chicago and returned here by Calumet County Sheriff Irvin Vice, was sentenced to the state school for girls at Oregon, Wis., by Juvenile Court Judge D. H. Sebora when she appeared in his court Monday morning. This was her third offense.

One girl returned to the home voluntarily a day after she left and the other was returned by her parents.

Police Have Motive for Poison Deaths at $500 but added "we're not going to let them go," even if somebody posted the bond.

Richardson and his wife voluntarily took lie detector tests Tuesday.

"The polygraph tests showed Richardson had guilty knowledge of the poisoning of the seven children," Hays said.

The judge also said Richardson's wife was held although the test indicated she had no knowledge of any conspiracy to harm the children.

Results of polygraph tests are not admissible as evidence in Florida courts.

The judge also said laboratory tests showed the children received the parathion in their food. Hays said tests showed traces of the poison on utensils found in the Richardson kitchen.

Cline said Richardson earlier had given him a sworn statement that he took out $1,000 double indemnity insurance policies on the life of each child the night before they died. Insurance agent Gerald Purvis said the policy did not take effect because Richardson could not afford the $4 premium.

The Parents of Seven Children who died of poisoning last Thursday are taken to the De Soto County, Fla., sheriff's office Tuesday for lie detector tests. James Richardson originally was booked on a charge of first degree murder, but later warrants charged him and his wife with child neglect. (AP Wirephoto) after it was learned he would arrive after dark.

Humphrey in Kuala Lumpur

The deputy prime minister, Tun Abdul Razak, greeted Humphrey because Prime Minister Rahman has a badly sprained ankle.

On his final day in South Vietnam, the U.S. vice president flew a quarter of a mile high—between the range of Communist machine guns and missiles—to survey the U.S. Marines' battleground along the demilitarized zone. From his lumbering transport plane, he saw U.S. artillery hammering Red positions.

As the vice president's slow-flying C118 droned over the scarred terrain where 10,000 Marines have been wounded or killed this year, Humphrey said: "I saw the firing of cannons, and I could see a destroyer offshore."

Out of Range

Marine F4 Phantom and A6 intruder jets flew cover above the transport while it traveled at 1,500 feet, out of range of machine guns and automatic weapons and below the 3,000-foot level at which planes become vulnerable to Communist missiles that may be positioned just north of the zone. U.S. headquarters reported today that a squadron of Phantoms attacked a suspected missile site just north of the DMZ Tuesday.

Humphrey, dressed in light blue slacks and a sports shirt, suggested landing at Dong Ha, the Marine base 17 miles south of the DMZ, so he could "take a little helicopter ride north."

"You're kidding, sir," one of the Secret Service men replied. The Marines had made elaborate preparations in case the vice president's plane went down. Four H3 helicopters, two helicopter gunships and an infantry force were on the alert at Dong Ha.

Reuther Action Hints of Auto Withdrawal From AFL-CIO

By NEIL GILBRIDE
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walter Reuther appears to be liquidating major financial interests in the AFL-CIO in preparation for pulling his 1.5 million-member United Auto Workers out of the labor federation, informed sources say.

The AFL-CIO's Industrial Union Department, Reuther's last remaining power base within the federation, is rapidly and deliberately spending itself out of money, it was reported.

Jack Conway, executive director of the Industrial Union Department, denied any such significance could be attached to the money problem, but confirmed that more than $1 million has been spent out of cash reserves in the past 10 months. This was more than half the department's total cash.

Union Causes

"It's nothing serious," said Conway, adding that much of the money had been spent supporting organizing drives among teachers, farm workers and Southern textile workers and in helping other unions.

"And it's not being wasted," this source said, pointing out the money was being spent helping other unions and on community action programs aimed at solving big-city slum problems. These are two of the areas on which Reuther has severely criticized Meany for not being "dynamic" enough.

Conway, while denying the financial straits had anything to do with the Reuther-Meany dispute, said the Industrial Union Department's cash reserves had dwindled from "slightly over $2 million" to "somewhere around $1 million" in the past year.

Loss of Money

Other sources said the department's net worth had plummeted from $2,313,761.58 on Dec. 30, 1966, to "in the neighborhood of $800,000" now, a drop of more than $1.5 million in 10 months.

The situation has nothing to do with the AFL-CIO's own separate cash position, which stood at about $5.7 million in the last annual report July 30. This was an increase of more than $500,000 during a year when the Industrial Union Department's reserves had already dropped by more than $600,000.

Until the recent rapid drain, the Industrial Union Department had carried cash reserves ranging from $2 million to $2.5 million since founding of the AFL-CIO in 1955.

But another labor source said: "It could mean that if Reuther pulls out of the AFL-CIO he would leave the Industrial Union Department empty-handed."

Reuther has been attacking the leadership of AFL-CIO President George Meany for more than a year and making threatening gestures to secede from the big labor federation the two men founded 12 years ago.

The Auto Workers union has long been the major financial backer of the 60-union Industrial Union Department that embraces some 6 million of the AFL-CIO's total 14 million members.

Resigned Posts

Reuther quit as a vice president of the AFL-CIO nine months ago and resigned all other posts except the presidency of the Industrial Union Department.

"It's not as if he were spending other people's money," said one source, adding that, in effect, the Industrial Union Department was getting rid of money largely contributed by the Auto Workers.

Killed in Action

MAUSTON (AP) — Word has been received of the death of Marine Lance Cpl. Albert C. Watson, 20, of Mauston aboard the hospital ship Repose as the result of wounds suffered in Vietnam.

Watson, son of Mrs. Marie Franke of Mauston, was wounded in action Oct. 15 and died Monday.

Mock Policy

The Frenchman, if he is not a Communist, will usually say at some point in talking with an American: "If you hadn't abandoned us in 1954 you wouldn't have this problem."

But De Gaulle's political opponents sometimes mock his policy of "independence" from the United States. They point to government encouragement of U.S. investment in French industry, which generally has meant more jobs for Frenchmen.

West Germany has taken a more independent political line since Kurt Georg Kiesinger became chancellor last December at the head of a coalition with the Socialists.

Diplomats in Bonn, acknowledging that relations with Washington have changed, emphasize that they have not necessarily deteriorated.

"Before Kiesinger we used to take it for granted that there would be no objections but perhaps the present relationship is healthier," said one.

Capital Welcomed

Criticism of Americans taking over German plants—a hot issue a year or so ago—has died down. This is partly because during the recent business recession any investment was welcomed in capital-short Germany.

Italians have long envied the American way of life—and still do. Now they generally view the United States as a country in trouble.

It is not clear to many of them how the Americans got into Vietnam and why they do not get out. And they read with horror about race riots—a problem they've never had to face.

"I wonder why a Czech, a German or an Italian is integrated into the American society and a Negro isn't," said one shopkeeper.

While forever grateful for Marshall Plan aid that rescued them from ruin after World War II, the Italians are showing increasing economic independence. Italy has been looking for and finding markets in Eastern Europe and even in [illegible].

In Scandinavia, the American image is still high but takes some battering from the man in the street because of Vietnam and the race riots.

While Sweden's Socialist government of Premier Tage Erlander maintains a neutral position on Vietnam, some of his ministers have condemned the American bombings of the North.

The Labor-owned Stockholm evening tabloid Aftonbladet, Sweden's third largest paper, has waged an anti-American campaign unprecedented in the Swedish press.

Its American correspondent and its editorials paint a picture of the United States as a lawless, violent, corrupt and race-hating society led by warmongers.

In Norway students have staged anti-Vietnam demonstrations. But opinion polls show the majority of Norwegians back U.S. policy and 50 per cent fear Red China would overrun the rest of Asia if the Americans pull out of Vietnam.

'No Democracy'

Norwegians are more critical about the racial situation in the United States. The liberal Oslo newspaper Dagbladet said editorially: "There can be no democracy in a country in which a large portion of the population is not enjoying their rightful status as equal individuals."

In Denmark, premier Jens Otto Krag's Socialist government is advocating a negotiated settlement but concedes there can be no unilateral American withdrawal.

A Swiss businessman summed up the general view in that country: "I don't envy the Americans. Everybody seems to say they are wrong in fighting the war. But if they failed to help South Vietnam that would have been wrong as well. The race riots and the whole complex question are the greatest threat to the American image abroad."

Behind the Iron Curtain, where the official line usually portrays America as a decadent imperialist power, there is appreciation of some aspects of the American way of life among the people—mostly the younger ones.

Poles Puzzled

Americans are popular in Poland despite the Communist government's propaganda campaign against the United States. But many Poles are puzzled and disturbed about Vietnam and ask American visitors: "If your position is correct why doesn't America, with all its power, go in and finish the job in one day instead of dragging it out?"

North Korean Rejection By U.N. Victory for U.S.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States has won its first major test of strength in the 22nd U.N. General Assembly by defeating a Communist attempt to give North Korea an unconditional invitation to the annual Korean debate.

The assembly's 122-nation main political committee voted late Tuesday to invite North Korea on condition that it first accept the competence of the United Nations to deal with the Korean question.

In previous years, North Korea has refused to do this.

Following precedent, the committee again invited South Korea without conditions, the United Nations having recognized it 19 years ago as the only legal regime in Korea.

U.S. Sponsors

The resolution was cosponsored by the United States and was approved by a vote of 58-28 with 25 abstentions.

The Soviet Union and several other nations tried to tack on an amendment inviting both Koreas, without advance conditions, but it was defeated by a vote of 50-37 with 24 abstaining.

Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko charged that "the continued occupation of South Korea by 60,000 U.S. troops" 17 years after the Korean War began was the main obstacle to reunification of Korea.

The Russian envoy called the Seoul government a "military-fascist regime" and challenged the "freedom" of elections in South Korea.

Speaking for the United States, Rep. W. Jack S. Broomfield, R-Mich., rejected the charge that the South Korean regime is a puppet of the United States. He pointed out that it has relations with more than 70 nations and has been willing to permit U.N. observance of its elections, while North Korea has refused to admit any U.N. observers.

Side Issue

The vote did not involve the substance of the Korean issue, which must still be debated and acted upon by the assembly. But in the past the vote on representation of the two Koreas has been an accurate barometer of the ballots in the assembly.

The assembly has before it three Korean items. Two proposals backed by the Communists call for withdrawal of all foreign troops from Korea and dissolution of the United Nations Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea.

A Western proposal calls for approval of UNCURK's annual report.

State Planning $2.2 Million In Valley Highway Projects

More than $2.2 million in highway and bridge work, engineering work and right-of-way acquisitions is scheduled for 1968 in Outagamie, Calumet, Waupaca and Winnebago counties by the State Department of Transportation, highways division.

Outagamie County work involves right-of-way acquisition and engineering work on three highway projects at a total cost of $413,000.

Projects involved are U.S. 45, U.S. 10 and State 47. The U.S. 10 project involves preparation for making the section from U.S 41 to the Appleton city limits a four-lane highway. No construction work is slated for 1968 Preparatory work cost is estimated at $95,000

State 47 Projects

State 47 involves finishing projects between Appleton and Black Creek at a cost of $168,000 for engineering work and right-of-way acquisition.

Right-of-way will be acquired for intersection work on U.S. 45 at Hortonville and New London.

Two miles of the highway between Clintonville and Marion will be paved at a cost of $90,000 and another $100,000 will be spent on rights-of-way between New London and Clintonville.

Other Waupaca County work scheduled is the grading and paving of the intersection of U.S. 10 at County Trunk X.

Bridge Causeway

Calumet County work includes $185,000 for engineering and right-of-way acquisition for the upgrading and rebuilding of State 57 between Kiel and New Holstein.

The state has set aside $790,000 to start work on rebuilding the east causeway of the U S 41 Lake Butte des Morts bridge Work is expected to start next fall when the new west segment of the bridge is completed. The east causeway will be raised to a 30-foot clearance over the lake and the drawbridge eliminated.

Also earmarked is $653,000 for work at the Cecil Street — U.S. 41 intersection at Neenah.

Paving of 7.4 miles of U.S 45 from the Winnebago County line to Fond du Lac is planned at a cost of $183,000 and paving of 1.5 miles of State 175 between Fond du Lac and North Fond du Lac is scheduled at a cost of $25,000.

In Shawano County, plans are to pave 7.47 miles of State 29 between Bonduel and Angelica at a cost of $210,000. State 47 in the village of Navan in Menominee County will be paved at a cost of $180,000.

U.S. 41 Causeway Ahead of Schedule

OSHKOSH — The new southbound causeway on U S. 41 over Lake Butte Des Morts is "ahead of schedule" and should be open for traffic by the end of 1968, according to Leroy Empey, District Highway Engineer.

Empey pointed to the $700,000 in new funds released by the state Department of Transportation, division of highways, today for revamping the existing two lanes and said work on the present bridge could begin during the winter of 1968.

Construction of the second two-lane causeway bridge began last May. When these southbound lanes are completed late in 1968, the present causeway and draw bridge will be raised to make the whole structure a fixed span over the lake.

32 Feet High

The height of the openings will be some 32 feet over high water level.

The present two-lane bridge has been the scene of numerous traffic jams, especially during holiday weekends and Packer football games in Green Bay.

Once the new southbound lanes are open for traffic next fall, Empey said the traffic would be diverted over those lanes and work would begin raising the present span to 32 feet.

Traffic is expected to flow across all four lanes late in 1969.

The $700,000 allocated for 1968 construction at the site will go for elevating the opening to allow boats to pass unobstructed.

Total Cost

Total cost for the two bridges and new causeway is estimated at $2,975,000.

The causeway, which has been under construction since early summer, is "99 per cent complete", according to Empey However, the bridge structures and paving won't be complete until late 1968

Bids will be let for the proposed northbound lanes (the present bridge) next fall, and work will be started soon after "However, it won't be a great start until traffic is pushed over to the west side," Empey said.

Youths Held in Investigation of 15 Burglaries

Police Say Three Implicated in Thefts Back to January

Approximately 15 burglaries and related offenses have been solved with the apprehension of three Appleton boys, ages 14, 15, and 16, detectives said this morning.

Two of the boys are being held in juvenile detention in the Outagamie County jail, while the third was released to his parents. About 75 per cent of the hundreds of dollars worth of items was recovered from the youths' homes, detectives said. Some of the stolen merchandise apparently was sold.

The offenses in which police allege the youths were involved date back to January of this year

Last August

A large quantity of drills, bits, model train parts, motorcycle parts and tools were taken in two burglaries last August at Jiffy Cycle Shop, 320 Union Place. A water pump was stolen from a construction site. The pump was owned by Ted Coppens Construction Co., Kimberly.

Police linked the youths to the thefts of gasoline from vehicles parked at Hertz car and truck rental, 502 N. Superior St., last September, and with the theft of a small lawn mower engine last June from a porch at the Mary Ann Lemke home, 613 N. Division St

Many Tools

The youths allegedly stole a tool cart last June from Schuh Supply Co., 1602 N. Ballard Road, and two wheels, valued at $60 each, from a concrete

Second Firm Asks About Airport Land

Appleton Officials Optimistic Over Prospects of City's Industrial Growth

City officials expressed confidence today that the new industrial park being developed on Appleton's northeast side may trigger a surge of plant expansion and new industry.

The city council — just a week after it approved the purchase of 153 acres of old airport property from the county for a future industrial park — is expected tonight to set the stage for the first industry to build there.

Appleton Mills has announced plans to acquire a 31 2 acre site and construct a new 50,000 square-foot factory as soon as possible. The firm's long-range plan calls for an administrative building.

$97,494 Price

When the board of public works met at the city hall Tuesday afternoon it gave unanimous approval to selling the land to Appleton Mills for $97,494.

In another development, Gene Weiland, president of Fox Valley Liquor Co., appeared before the board and said his firm was interested in purchasing 10 acres in the new industrial complex for construction of warehouse and office facilities.

Weiland, who assurred the board his company had an attractive building in mind, was referred to the city's land acquisition committee to get planning and engineering details

Schedule Meeting

City officials assurred Weiland complete cooperation and scheduled a special meeting with him for Monday.

F. H. Orbison, president of Appleton Mills, also appeared before the board and thanked city officials for their cooperation is helping lay the groundwork for his firm's expansion.

Appleton Mills and its predecessors have made woolen products in Appleton for 108 years The business outgrew its present location in the "industrial flats" some time ago and for the past five years the company has been attempting to find a suitable site in the city to expand.

Last year the firm, which employs over 100 persons, leased space in the Town of Neenah.

By Machine

Orbison said by 1970 the company hoped to consolidate its entire operation at the new industrial park, predicting the area to be required as a minimum of 175,000 square feet

He described how in June the firm's board of directors urged him to resolve the long-pending site problem and that he approached the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce for assistance

Chamber Helped

The Chamber showed him some sites in and outside the city, according to Orbison, and his decision was that the old airport property would make the best location for plant construction

The firm, Orbison said, also continued to investigate other site possibilities. He indicated the company had been offered an excellent plant site outside Appleton but wanted to remain in the city.

The board of public works said it was encouraged that Appleton Mills was staying in the city, and expanding

Officials Elated

While city officials were elated over the prospect of others showing interest in the newly-acquired port property, they expressed hope there would be an all-out campaign between the city and civic community to get new industry here also.

The board indicated that firms thinking about locating here will be directed to the proper department heads to get first hand information, thus eliminating "the middlemen" which apparently have been a hinderance in the past.

In addition to the Chamber of Commerce, the council's industrial-economic development committee also will be relied upon to encourage local industrial expansion and new industry.

Appleton Elated at Low Bond Interest

Firm Bid of 4.069 Per Cent Best On Wall Street in Recent Weeks

Appleton successfully bucked the bond market's high interest trend Tuesday when its $2,650,000 general obligation bond issue received a low bid of 4.069 per cent.

Based on Wall Street reports in recent weeks, the rate represents one of the best received by a municipality.

A combine headed by LaSalle National Bank of Chicago was the low bidder on the 20-year bonds to be used to finance school and other municipal projects.

The second best bid of 4.095 was submitted by a group headed by Harris Trust and Savings of Chicago.

Prediction Higher

City officials were elated, considering the advance prediction that the up-and-down-market might result in at least a 4.40 interest rate

Over the life of the bond issue the city will be paying $1,101,750 in interest.

The low rate was somewhat of a consolation, following the disclosure by Finance Director Henry Schreve that the latest issue will raise the city's bonded debt to $23,652,500.

Of the total debt, $13,600,000 has been for new school construction

"The rate was tremendous," Schreve said "The market has been tightening up and everyone expected a much higher rate"

Schreve said the city had perfect timing, entering the bond market when it did

Best in Months

E. L. Clark of T. G. Evensen & Associates, the Minneapolis financial firm hired by the city to set up the bond issues, also said Appleton received "very good and very close bids."

"It's the best interest rate in months for this kind of an issue," Clark said, adding the figure was one fourth of a per cent under the national index

Clark attributed Appleton's good financial fortune to the ac

Bonds Totaling $6,000 Set for Appleton Youth

Bonds totaling $6,000 were set Tuesday afternoon for Mark Schiedermayer, 17, 1317 W Frances St., charged with two burglaries and one count of taking a car without the owner's consent.

Schiedermayer, who was waived from Juvenile Court jurisdiction, was charged with burglarizing Florida Fruit Ranch, 2703 N. Richmond St., on Oct. 1, burglarizing R and R Dodge Inc., 1610 W. Wisconsin Ave., on Oct. 8, and taking a car owned by Car City, 1930 W College Ave., on Oct. 7.

The youth was charged following investigation by Appleton and Outagamie County police

Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller continued the case to Nov. 10 after the youth's attorney said he would seek consolidation of charges from other counties.

Charmin Paper Ends Pulp Mill Operation

LITTLE RAPIDS — The Charmin Paper Products Co. today terminated operation of its pulp mill on the Fox River at Little Rapids.

Officials said Charmin will sell the manufacturing equipment along with several residential properties on the site.

Mosquito Hill Proposal

Private Funds Promised For Park Land Purchase

A minimum of $25,000 in private funds was promised Tuesday by Gordon Buboiz toward the purchase of Mosquito Hill for an Outagamie County Park. At the same time, Buboiz urged the county board's Executive Committee to restore at least $75,000 to the 1968 county budget for the same purpose.

Buboiz, chairman of the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission, told the committee that citizen support is being engendered for the project and that a "1,000 acre club" is being considered. Citizens would become members of the club by donating money sufficient to purchase one acre of park land.

Monday Meeting

He said an informational meeting has been scheduled for 8 p.m. Monday at the Outagamie County Bank to acquaint citizens with park programs and needs for the county with the possibility of creating a park and recreation conference of citizens

Buboiz did not tie the private funds to the county also appropriating funds but indicated this would be considered. Supv. Joseph DeBruin, Town of Buchanan, chairman of the Parks and Recreation Committee and a member of the Executive Committee, asked Buboiz "If we get $75,000 in county funds, how much can we expect in private funds?" Buboiz replied with "a minimum of $25,000."

Buboiz said he had been "stunned" to learn that the committee had cut the $150,000 request of the parks committee from the proposed budget.

The Finance Committee had cut the request from the budget but had indicated the Parks Committee could go to the contingency fund later in the year for money if options on the Mosquito Hill land were picked up and the county board went along with purchase plans.

Lawcon Funds

Anticipated $75,000 in matching Land and Water Conservation (LAWCON) funds also were deleted from the budget although DeBruin said Tuesday they do not anticipate any problems in getting the funds

Board Chairman Sylvester Esler, Appleton, stood fast against any effort to have the Finance Committee restore the funds to the budget He said the Parks Committee could bring in a resolution from the floor next week to have the entire board put the money back in

Buboiz termed Mosquito Hill as the only "outstanding area in the county for year-around park activity."

VTE-12 Director Declines Comment on Tax Holding Threat

William Sirek, director of Vocational, Technical and Adult Education School District 12, withheld comment this morning regarding the threat by mayors and town chairmen to withhold tax levies for the district.

"I would like to meet with the six-man committee appointed by the city and town officials first before I make any comments," Sirek said

He was referring to the 50 representatives of 27 municipalities in Outagamie, Winnebago, Waupaca and Calumet counties who attended a special meeting Monday at Appleton to voice their opinions on the VTE-12 budget calling for a $1,989,976 levy, which would result in a sharp boost in vocational taxes throughout the district

Capital outlay is the major bone of contention The VTE-12 board has placed $660,000 in its budget for land acquisition and buildings. Officials claim that this figure should be raised by a bond issue not to be included in the tax rate.

C. G. R. Johnson, chairman of the VTE-12 board is out of the state and was not available for comment

Police Say Vandalism Minor

Tipsy Teens Mar Halloween

BY BILL KNUTSON
Post Crescent Staff Writer

"Oh daddy," the young boy whined

And with that, he lapsed back into a drunken "coma" on the stretcher in the emergency room at St. Elizabeth Hospital. The boy's father watched, his face drained of color

Alongside him, on another stretcher, a second youth lay in a stupor.

Their Halloween celebration had ended at 8 p.m., with their discovery by police Three other youths fled. Five girls in their early teens were brought to the police station about three hours later after police found them intoxicated near a downtown service station.

All Quiet

Their actions were an exception to the general rule, however, as Appleton experienced what authorities described as another fairly quiet Halloween" Tuesday night

A reporter who rode with two uniformed policemen found little excitement There was the usual number of assignments from the desk sergeant to check out minor vandalism complaints most of them around the central city area After 10 p.m., the police radio in our squad car was quiet. The only matter of any concern after that was suspicion of "some kind of a raid" by students on a Lawrence University dormitory.

Homeowners Complain

Virtually all city policemen, including Chief Earl O. Wolff, roamed city streets, alleys, and sidewalks and parks from 6 to 11 p.m. Tuesday The mass coverage of the city apparently helped pay off in relatively little vandalism Beat walkers worked in twos and threes, while most squad cars carried two uniformed men or detectives

A few complaints were still coming in to the police station this morning. Mrs. John Malved, 1903 N. Clark St., reported her window smashed at her house Wenzel Kuna, 1407 N Owaissa St., told police that paint was sprayed on his garage, and Mrs Olive Schultz, 2114 N. Clark St., said her house was smeared with paint.

Riva Witt, 312 Tayco St., Menasha, said her car windows were smeared with paint while the car was parked in the St. Elizabeth Hospital parking lot, and Mrs Leo Whalen, 704 N Superior St., complained of a broken window at her house

Found in Stupor

And police are looking for the car from which an engine, found today on Woodland Court, was taken. The junked engine was dumped in the middle of the street

The squad car carrying the reporter and two policemen was assigned to "roam" the city

The first radio message of significance concerned the drunken boys, one age 14 and the other 15 The first boy was found in a stupor in S Alley, behind a restaurant. The patrolman placed him in the back of his squad car and took him immediately to the hospital

Before he got there, beat walkers came onto the second youth, stumbling around in Jones Park They caught him but three companions got away

When our squad car arrived at the hospital emergency entrance, three policemen were carrying the second

Denial of Schwartz Claim Recommended

Executive Committee Rules Supervisor's Attorney's Fees Were a Personal Bill

Denial of Supv. Ralph Schwartz's request for reimbursement for legal fees was recommended Tuesday by the county board's Executive Committee. The committee instructed Board Chairman Sylvester Esler to inform the county board by letter that Schwartz's bill was "a personal bill and there is no apparent county liability."

The Executive Committee vote was 8-1 with Supv. Joseph DeBruin, Kaukauna, chairman of the Parks Committee on which Schwartz serves abstaining from voting. Supv. Patrick Mares, Appleton, cast the dissenting vote.

Schwartz wants the county to pay $536 in legal fees he incurred last spring during a dispute over his seat on the county board. His position was declared vacant when he moved from his district but he was later returned to the board when he moved back into the district.

Ask Further Study

The requests of Sheriff Norbert Marx for additional men on the county patrol and salary increases in the department were held by the committee for further study.

Supv. George Greisch, Appleton, member of the Courts, Justice and Enforcement Committee, said the committee has met with Town of Grand Chute officials and will be meeting again to discuss the possibility of Grand Chute assuming more of its own police work. If this is possible, Greisch indicated, some of the work pressure on the sheriff's department would be eased.

A study of the county's wage policy for part-time employes will be made by the personnel subcommittee as a result of problems in both the sheriff's department and other county offices. The county presently pays $1.50 per hour for part-time help.

Greisch said the sheriff is having difficulty getting capable deputies at that scale and the wage should be raised to $2.50 per hour. Committee members agreed the same problem existed in other offices. A possible graduated pay scale for part-time employes will be studied.

Kampo Wins Bridge Funds For Little Lake

$100,000 Approved By Winnebago Board After Long Fight

OSHKOSH — After revisions by the special Little Lake Butte des Morts Bridge Committee, the county board, by a vote of 30 to 13 approved $109,000 in the 1968 budget for the new bridge project.

Supv. Roland Kampo, Town of Menasha chairman, has been a long-time and vocal advocate of the need for the bridge over the little lake.

He heatedly defended the need for the $100,000 Monday and Tuesday. The money is earmarked for initial engineering services, appraisals and acquisition of rights-of-way.

Supv. Oliver Thomsen had stated in opposition to the appropriation that many people coming from Outagamie County would be using the bridge, but they would not be helping to pay for it.

He also had reminded Neenah councilmen that no federal or state funds had yet been committed to the project.

He felt that there might be other ways to reduce the heavy traffic in the Twin City area.

The consensus, Thomsen reported, of the mayor and councilmen of Neenah on the problem of the bridge is that they have no objection to building the bride, or to any reasonable location, but they vigorously oppose the county advancing the funds for acquiring land or to start the bridge building project.

Other Funds?

The mayor and council, he reported, felt that the bridge would be good and would endorse the program if there was an assurance of matching funds from higher government, federal and state.

Pushing the resolution for the funds was Supv. Roland Kampo who Tuesday said that the Town of Menasha would not put up any more money for land acquisition without funds from somewhere else.

He said that the property owners, who have been unable to sell their land because of the proposed bridge, deserve an answer on what will happen to the land.

Menasha Mayor Kenneth Holmes had requested board members Tuesday that they hold back in appropriating the money to go over plans with representatives of the cities.

Laird Urges Dairy Farmers to Organize for Political Muscle

FOND DU LAC — Speaking with the voice of a united minority could give the American farmer some of the political muscle he needs in Congress, 7th Dist. Rep. Melvin Laird, R-Marshfield, told delegates to the 38th annual meeting of Pure Milk Products Co-op (PMPC) here Tuesday.

He called for support from PMPC for the Laird - Proxmire dairy stabilization bill which Laird has introduced in every Congressional session since 1956.

He urged the farmers to unite behind a national dairy marketing organization as the "best way to insure a bright future." Laird said the milk withholding action of a few months ago dramatized this need on a national scale.

Best Way Out

"With more and more farmers being driven off the land in this period of profitless prosperity, the major farm groups hopefully will unite behind this proposal." He felt such an organization was the best way out for the farmers' "present economic difficulties."

He said recent action by the tariff commission on dairy imports showed what the industry could accomplish with a united front.

Laird's bill would establish a dairy stabilization board elected by the nation's milk producers. The board would establish a two-price system to guarantee a minimum proce of 90-100 per cent of parity for all milk sold for domestic consumption while surplus milk would be sold at a price not to exceed the actual disposal price on foreign markets, industry or foods.

Base Quota

Milk producers would be assigned a base quota on the basis of his average production during the preceding three - year period.

President Paul Affeldt of Sparta asked the membership to join organizations in promoting increased use of dairy products and urged them to put "time, effort and dollars into the battle to fight these imitations."

He termed dairy import control legislation a "must" and indicated it may be introduced as an amendment to some other bill in the future.

Affeldt was skeptical of merger talks because none had shown the "benefits that producers would gain." He promised, however, to continue keeping abreast of changes along this line in the industry.

General Mgr. William Eckles said PMPC must expend its activities into research and promotion on dairy products and find new uses for milk products. Controling imports and imitations also is important, he said.

"Control of pollution and more strict security regulations on buyers will force consolidations and larger, more efficient, processing and milk assembly facilities," he said.

Bridge Site Fight Involved In Dispute Over Annexation

MENASHA — When Mayor Kenneth Holmes of Menasha made his appeal to the county board Tuesday for relocation of the proposed Little Lake Butte des Morts bridge at Ninth Street, he was repeating a position that the city has taken for more than five years.

The location question, left for settlement later as county supervisors finally agreed to provide $100,000 for initial engineering services and land purchases, has behind it a standing conflict between city and town on annexation.

Having the bridge's east end touching Ninth Street — within the city limits — has been mentioned in the past as a means to enhance the city's chances of future annexations.

Although the Menasha Town Board in May, 1963, under former Town Chairman Amos Page, went on record formally agreeing with the choice inside the city, more recent town actions have favored the location presently proposed by state officials and the Fox Valley Council of Governments — in the town. The COG plan calls for a bridge ending north of the city limits at Ninth Street by about 1,000 feet.

Town officials since Roland Kampo became town chairman have vigorously opposed the city's annexation efforts and sought ways of incorporating as a village to escape annexation.

A bridge linking east and west portions of the town on opposite sides of the Little Lake would help meet state requirements that, to become a village, say a town must contain contiguous population and land masses.

Hewitt Employes Walk Off Jobs

NEENAH — Pickets formed around the J. W. Hewitt Machine Co. Tuesday afternoon as all 70 employes in the plant walked off their jobs.

The walk-out, according to a company spokesman, was over a minor section of the new contract which went into effect in July.

Vice President Laona Landskron said the disagreement was over a contract provision on fringe benefits.

The workers are members of Local 1855 for the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, AFL-CIO.

A local union spokesman said he had no comment this morning.

Negotiations had not gotten underway this morning, according to the company.

Full-Time Board Chairman Asked For Winnebago

OSHKOSH — A suggestion for a full time county board chairman was brought up Tuesday as an alternative to an executive committee concept.

Supv. Roland Kampo's main argument for the full time elected chairman was that it would give the residents of Winnebago County a chance to choose the man they want.

Then all the people would have a voice in deciding who would run the county, he said.

"If the chairman doesn't do the job, the people can then get rid of him," Kampo continued. "If we are going to spend more money, spend it on a full time county chairman," he added.

Kaukauna Couple See, Hear Son on Vietnam TV Newscast

KAUKAUNA — Mr and Mrs Henry Van Der Loop, 1605 N Lawe St., were watching a television news broadcast Thursday night when they recognized their son fighting in Vietnam.

The announcer explained the Second platoon of the First Cavalry Division was on a search and destroy mission when it became pinned down by enemy crossfire. The Van Der Loops knew this was the outfit to which their son, Pfc. Richard Van Der Loop, was assigned.

Mrs Van Der Loop recognized his voice as he called to a comrade and then the couple saw him clearly on a walkie-talkie receivers orders to pull back. The group refused to leave without going back through the crossfire to pick up a comrade who had been killed.

Friends also called the couple to tell them they had seen "Dick" on TV. Two other Kaukauna youths are assigned to the same outfit, according to Mrs Van Der Loop.

Pfc Van Der Loop is attached to the only mechanized airborne division in the world and, according to letters, his outfit's primary function is search and destroy missions.

This New Flakt Dryer, which has been operating for a month in the Fox River Paper Co., Appleton, uses a new air drying process which company officials say adds appeal and durability to the product. The unit, one of three air dryers now being used in the world, was explained to newsmen Tuesday.

Installed at Fox River Paper Co.

Paper Drying Process Demonstrated

A new air drying process capable of producing a higher quality and more durable paper was demonstrated Tuesday at Fox River Paper Co., Appleton.

About 20 newsmen, including representatives from eight trade journals and magazines and the dryer's pilot plant in Sweden were on hand for the demonstration of the process, which involved a $1 million remodeling and equipping program.

The new equipment will not only improve the asthetic quality of the paper product, but will also increase the drying process efficiency and give the operation more flexibility and capacity, according to Dr. H. P. Dixson, president.

The Flakt Dryer, one of three now operating in the world, was adapted to the production needs of Fox River Paper and has been operating for about a month.

Earlier Conference

In a conference prior to the tour, Dr. Dixson, H. O. Barney, vice president for sales, and J. C. Nelson, vice president for manufacturing, discussed the effects the new dryer would have on Fox River's operation.

Barney claimed the demand for quality is increasing, and that this requires "innovation."

He said that Flakt Dryer is one of several "firsts" for Fox River Paper, and is the result of about 20 years of experimenting and coupling of ideas with those obtained on pilot plant runs at Flaktfabriken research center at Vaxjo, Sweden.

Uniform Production

The first sign of success of the process came about five years ago, and this eventually led to a Flakt Dryer to suit the Fox River Paper needs, Barney said. "We found that this equipment allows a uniform production of cockle finish (rough surface), important for strength and asthetic appeal," Barney explained.

The firm found the new quality and strength came from the air drying process, which suspends the paper in the air much like the effect created by an airplane wing.

This takes place in an enclosed area which represents the major reason for the reduced operating cost, Dr. Dixson said, adding, however, that a full financial picture is not yet available.

The enclosure reduces the loss of steam produced for drying to about 25 per cent of the old equipment and prevents outside air from affecting the drying process. This allows uniformity in drying and a higher quality paper.

Has No Equal

Nelson said the air-symmetry and heat combination system used in the Flakt Dryer had no equal in efficiency.

The dryer can handle certain papers up to 2,300 feet per minute and cockle finish bonds are now being produced at a rate twice that accomplished by the old equipment.

Youths Held in Investigation of 15 Burglaries

mover owned by Standard Construction Co., Minneapolis.

Tools were taken in burglaries at Fountain Lumber Co., 129 N. State St.; Ray and Roy's Body Shop, 100 W. North St., and Knoke Lumber Co., 311 N. Linwood Ave.

The boys also admitted burglarizing Willson Construction Co., 400 N. Clark St., where they took a tricycle type load leveler from a trailer; Ray's Tire Shop, 531 N. Morrison St., where an extension cord was taken from a truck; a go-cart track in the Town of Menasha, where several go-cart parts were stolen; and a garage on French Road, outside the city, where more go-cart parts were taken.

Police said some of the burglaries had never been reported to them.

Low Interest Rate on Bonds Elates Officials that municipal bond volume was low this week compared to recent weeks when it was high, as were interest rates.

Rating Good

With the nation's two major rating firms, Appleton holds an A rating from one and AA from another.

Evensen and Associates is one of the Midwest's leading municipal finance consultants. The city's bonding attorneys are Chapman and Cutler of Chicago.

The Evensen firm sent out an attractive and thoroughly documented prospectus to the nation's bond-buying community which included pictorial views of reconstructed College Avenue and other information to point out that Appleton is "a growing and progressive city."

As an aside, today's Wall Street Journal pointed out that municipal bond dealers have been forecasting "aggressive" biddings for this week's tax-exempt issues after the sellout of last week's much greater volume of offerings.

Included in the bond issue to be approved by the council tonight are funds for the $1.5 million grade school on the southeast side and $500,000 for an addition to Madison Junior High.

Detention Plan Wins Approval

Winnebago Facility Will House Youths Now Held in Jail

OSHKOSH — Winnebago County Supervisors this morning approved a new temporary shelter home for juveniles.

The cost of the shelter is $3,840. It will be used to remove from the county jail juveniles who are being detained for minor offenses. The present system of housing the youths next to adult offenders has been sharply criticized by several county officials.

Also approved for additional service in the juvenile area were hiring of two additional social workers at a cost of $15,600 and a typist to assist them at $3,600.

Hire Workers

It was indicated at an earlier meeting that the additional social workers also would be used to reduce the caseload of the present social workers.

Supv. Eugene Williams, Oshkosh, said that national recommendation is for a caseload of 40. The additional workers would reduce the county load to 50 cases.

The E. B. Davis Home officials in Oshkosh had said they had a building that might be made available to the county for a temporary juvenile detention home. At an earlier meeting of the Judiciary Committee, it was announced that the building of a new juvenile detention facility would not be feasible.

Vital Issues Face WEA Convention

Teachers Group to Consider Pay, Budget, Militancy Problems

Rising militancy in the ranks of teachers and education associations, cries for higher salaries in education, budgetary difficulties, strikes and concern of taxpayers over rising school budgets will be among the topics discussed at the annual Wisconsin Education Association (WEA) convention Thursday and Friday in Milwaukee.

The WEA Representative Assembly, the official policy-making group of the association, will deal with a number of resolutions, constitutional amendments and workshops on those subjects.

About 750 delegates will represent 40,000 members from more than 380 affiliated local associations throughout Wisconsin. The Appleton Education Association, with 429 members, will have nine delegates to the assembly.

Dues Increase

Highlighting topics up for discussion will be the proposal to raise the maximum dues for the WEA from the present $10 to $20. The proposed budget for 1968 was made out in anticipation of the $20 dues, but opposition has already been made by some affiliates.

The proposed budget totals $748,500 more than twice that of last year. Comments from some affiliates indicate that such an increase over last year will not get approval.

Many expanded services have been proposed by affiliates of the WEA. Among these are additional monies for student programs, or allied groups, in the budget.

Director Planned

The number of investigations, conferences, and consultations is increasing and is expected to expand rapidly in the area of professional rights and responsibilities. A full-time director for the Professional Rate and Responsibilities Commission is planned.

Easter and more complete dissemination of important information to local leadership will also be considered. Tied in with this is the suggestion that the WEA acquire additional equipment so that they may do all, or most, of its own printing and publication.

Field Service

Lastly, the demands for field service have greatly increased during recent years. Immediate expansion and extension is felt to be imperative, and this also would include specialized services for large urban associations, more frequent visits with individual locals, preparation of information bulletins on negotiations, school law, school finance, state and local tax structure, and more legal assistance in labor relations matters.

Field Service

It is pointed out that the Field Service should not only be concerned with matters of salary and welfare, but also in other areas of professional concern, such as curriculum and instruction.

College Night Set at Xavier for Catholic Students

Representatives from more than 20 colleges and universities will attend the annual Catholic College Night at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 8, at Xavier High School.

Sophomores, juniors and seniors and their parents from Xavier, St. Mary, Menasha; and St. John, Little Chute, have been invited.

Schools which will be represented include Alverno, Cardinal Stritch, Clarke, St. Catherine, St. Scholastica, St. Teresa, Holy Family, Mount Mary and Mount Senario colleges for women;

Regis, St. Thomas, Mount St. Paul, St. John and St. Mary colleges for men; St. Norbert and Dominican colleges and Loyola, St. Joseph and Marquette Universities with a coeducational program, and Air Force and Navy representatives.

Halloween Vandalism Minor, Police Say

youth from the car. He couldn't move. His woolen jacket was covered with thistles and burrs and his face, hands and clothing showed evidence of several falls in the dirt.

Placed on Stretchers

The boys were placed in side by side stretchers and their fathers were summoned. After watching nurses and police bring their sons back to a conscious state, they took them home. Police were told the boys drank liquor taken from the home of one youth. Further investigation was scheduled for today.

Police believe the five drunken girls found later may have been drinking with the boys in Jones Park. The girls were released to their parents after questioning.

Halloween evening festivities drew to a close with a detective and a patrolman finding five youths who had just strung toilet paper onto the branches of a large tree. Police gave the boys a choice of coming to the station or cleaning out the tree.

They cleaned out the tree — and were relieved of three more rolls of toilet paper they were carrying in a paper sack.

Merchandise Swap For Trading Stamps In Hands of Senate

State Housewives Long Sought Exchange; Merchants Object

By DEAN MEADERS
Associated Press Writer

MADISON (AP)—The fate of a controversial bill to allow housewives to redeem trading stamps for merchandise was in the hands today of 33 state senators.

The bill would allow trading stamp companies to set up redemption centers around the state to offer goods in exchange for books filled with the stamps.

Housewives have long favored the plan, but storeowners complain the stamps raise prices and require too much time and effort. Most other states already allow the exchange.

Wisconsin law now permits the stamps, but specifies they can be redeemed for cash only.

Sen. Gordon Roseleip, R-Darlington, an ardent foe of the stamps, said Tuesday the housewives were being subjected to "a racket."

Large Objects

"I can tell you I don't favor such a racket, and that's just what it is, a racket," he said.

Sen. Gerald Lorge, R-Bear Creek, called the stamps "inflated money," and added, "If this were put on a referendum, it would be defeated overwhelmingly."

The issue was delayed Tuesday before a final vote could be taken.

The Senate gave approval Tuesday to a bill placing tight restrictions on water skiing and boating on state waters.

Endorsed on a voice vote and sent to the Assembly, the bill would ban all water skiing between an hour before sunset and 9 a.m. the following day, and require at least two persons in the towing boat for added safety.

Boat Controls

The bill also seeks to ban motor boats in lakes of less than 50 acres without special permits, require moored boats at night be lighted, and ban persons under 12 from operating water craft unless accompanied by an adult.

The Senate also approved measures to:

—Allow Dane County lawmakers food and travel expenses as others now receive, but not to exceed $75 a month.

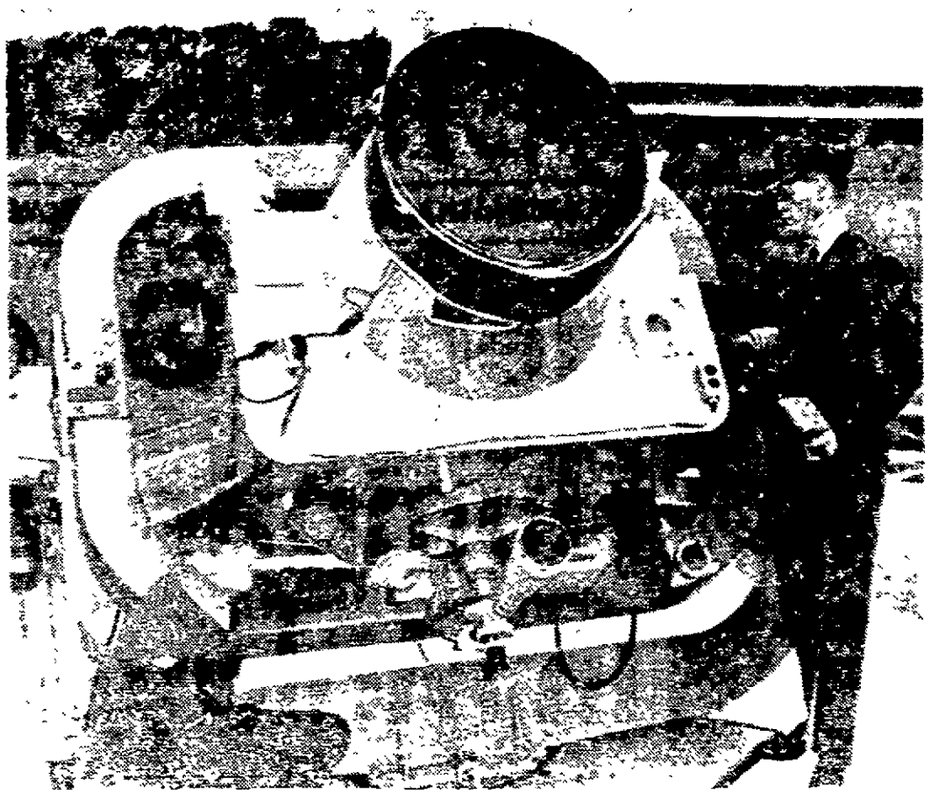

—Forbid discrimination because of sex by employers, labor unions and licensing agencies.

—Allow county judges to serve until the July 31 following their 70th birthday, instead of until the end of the month in which they turn 70.

—Appropriate nearly $150,000 to keep Camp Gordon Correctional School in Douglas County operating until the end of the current biennium.

—Return to Shawano County five acres of land near Pulaski given to Brown County in 1965.

The Senate confirmed 28-0 the appointments of William Redmond and Vere Fiedler to the State Highway Commission.

3-Year-Old Kills Mother With Gun

HAWTHORNE, Calif. (AP) — Police said a 3-year-old boy shot his mother to death accidentally Tuesday as she sat at a sewing machine, making him a Hallowe'en costume.

Melvina Meling, 35, jumped up as the shot rang out. She collapsed at a doorway, shouting "call the police."

Investigators said the child, Robert, found a .38-caliber revolver in a closet box and was playing with it when he pulled the trigger.

Mrs. Meling had three other children.

LBJ Renews Push for Clean Slate Before Congressional Adjournment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic congressional leaders have been prodded anew by President Johnson to push through 20 administration measures before Congress goes home for the year.

The prod came at a White House meeting Tuesday night between Johnson and the Democratic leadership only hours after the emergency of another likely Senate-House controversy that could take weeks to untangle.

Along with his proposed surcharge on income taxes, Johnson listed Social Security revision among the priority items he wants passed.

Earlier in the day the Senate Finance Committee was reported to have accepted administration calls for a 15 per cent across-the-board boost in Social Security benefits and a $70 minimum monthly benefit.

That decision, reached in closed session, would put the Senate version at loggerheads with a House-passed Social Security bill that would limit to 12½ per cent the across-the-board hikes and to $50 the minimum benefit, now $44.

Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., of the Finance Committee expressed confidence the measure would be acted on this year despite persistent reports of a strong move to block action until the next session.

After the White House meeting, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Johnson described as a "must" approval of his 10 per cent income tax surcharge proposal.

Mansfield said Sunday he saw little chance the tax boost—now bottled up in the House Ways and Means Committee—would be considered this session.

Economists Optimistic About Continued Boom

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. economic expansion moved today into its 81st month—longest in history if it lasts through November—and the government's top economist says chances of keeping it alive indefinitely are "greatly improved."

But his optimism, added Chairman Gardner Ackley of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, hinges in large part on the future of President Johnson's proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

Ackley said the nation now has the knowledge and tools "which greatly improve our chances of sustaining a healthy expansion for an indefinite period."

But he warned that Americans must be willing to use such tools, and said at this time that means approval of President Johnson's proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge and cuts in nonessential spending.

"We have learned well enough how to stimulate the economy when it is threatened by slack," Ackley said in a statement Tuesday. "We also must show that we have the self-discipline to apply necessary restraint when the economy is threatened by overheating."

As of Tuesday, the economy completed 80 months of expansion—matching the length of the boom that accompanied World War II.

Viet Cong Ignore Celebration To Resume Loc Ninh Barrage

365 Guerrillas Killed in Bid to Upstage Thieu

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong mortarmen carried the attack on the Vietnamese district headquarters at Loc Ninh into the fourth day today but left the National Day parade in Saigon alone.

The 200-round barrage fired at one of the American battalions defending Loc Ninh wounded only one man. A total of 365 Communists have been reported killed in attempts this week to overrun the town 72 miles north of Saigon, apparently for a propaganda victory to take some bloom off the inauguration of President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Allied casualties at Loc Ninh so far were reported to be seven Americans and 18 South Vietnamese killed, and 21 Americans and 64 South Vietnamese wounded. B52 bombers dropped 300,000 pounds of explosives today on suspected Communist camps and supply areas.

Fighting Light

Ground fighting was generally light across the country, but troops of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division reported killing 22 Viet Cong in a fierce eight-hour fight Tuesday only 19 miles north of Saigon. Six Americans were reported killed and 11 wounded.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey meanwhile inspected the demilitarized zone from a C118 transport that lumbered over the U.S. Marines' war-scarred battlefront at an altitude of 1,500 feet. Hours before Humphrey's plane droned over the DMZ, Marine fighter-bombers attacked a suspected surface-to-air missile site just north of the zone, but Humphrey's plane was 1,500 feet below effective SAM range.

Humphrey also visited U.S. units at Da Nang and Chu Lai. The U.S. Command disclosed that 30 to 40 Viet Cong attacked an Army helicopter compound at Chu Lai Tuesday night to plant explosive charges, but the command said the attack apparently had no connection with the vice president's visit. Ten Americans were reported wounded and damage to aircraft and equipment was reported light. There was no report of enemy casualties.

Hanoi Raids

U.S. Marine jets also attacked North Vietnamese artillery positions in and above the DMZ and ranged up to Hanoi to plaster the Canal des Rapides highway bridge five miles northeast of the Communist capital's center. It was the eighth straight day of U.S. air raids on Hanoi.

Hanoi Radio claimed U.S. air attacks on the capital in the "past few days" have killed or wounded more than 200 civilians and burned or destroyed more than 150 houses.

Although the Viet Cong fired four mortar shells into the grounds of the government palace in Saigon Tuesday night during an inaugural reception given by President Thieu, the regime's mammoth National Day parade through the heart of Saigon today went off without a hitch. Last year the Viet Cong shelled the parade from outside the city, killed eight persons and wounded 45.

The parade today, which concluded the inauguration program, showed off airborne, artillery and mobile units, new weapons and two companies of uniformed armed forces girls who marched jauntily past the reviewing stand on high heels.

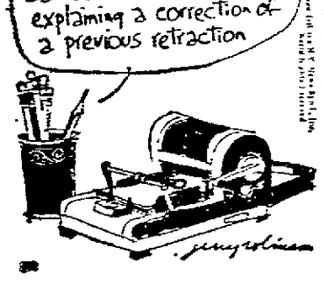

Suspects Questioned

Saigon police are questioning four suspects in the mortaring of the government palace, U.S. authorities announced.

Humphrey missed the parade to take his air tour over the DMZ and to visit U.S. Marines at Da Nang. Escorted by Marine F4 Phantoms and A6 Intruder jets, the vice president could see Marine guns below blazing away at enemy entrenchments to the north.

Negro Democrat, White Republican

Gary Mayoralty Campaign Centers on Color Question

GARY, Ind. (AP) — Gary's mayoral election, scheduled to be held next Tuesday, now centers largely on a single issue—the Democratic candidate, Richard Gordon Hatcher, is a Negro.

"The vote is polarized on that point," said the incumbent, Democratic Mayor A. Martin Katz.

"The issues being talked about are not the real issue," said Mrs. Phyllis Spencer, a Negro assistant city attorney. "It's a question of color."

Hatcher's Republican opponent is Joseph B. Radigan, a partner in his family's furniture business.

Registration Frauds

Tuesday Hatcher asked a federal court in Hammond, Ind., to postpone the election on the ground that registration frauds have been perpetrated. In his petition he said more than 5,000 Negroes were purged from voter rolls, while 4,000 fictitious names have been registered. He named as defendants John Krupa, the Lake County Democratic chairman, and other party organizations.

Ugly overtones pervade the atmosphere in Gary, a steel-producing community of 180,000, on the eve of the election.

In addition to the charges of registration-fraud, predictions of election day violence have been voiced. A highly placed city official who asked not to be identified said, "Some of the merchants downtown are scared of what may happen if Hatcher loses."

Hatcher, 34, is a soft-spoken lawyer. He has been a deputy prosecutor in Lake County Criminal Court, a member of the Gary City Council, and then its president.

He sponsored an open housing law and a political observer in Gary said, "He was death on crime as a prosecutor and a councilman."

In the Democratic primary last spring, Mayor Katz sought the nomination for a second term. There was a third candidate, Bernard Konrady. Hatcher received 20,000 votes to 16,000 for Katz and 13,000 for Konrady.

Almost immediately, Krupa began opposing Hatcher.

He says he told Hatcher, "Some day we'll elect a Negro mayor of Gary but you are not the right man."

In a conversation with this reporter, Krupa said, "He's been wheeling and dealing with characters whose patriotism is questionable. He's a militant Negro who scares people."

Subversive Supporters

Krupa has used the word "subversives" to describe some of Hatcher's supporters. He does not identify them. He also claims Hatcher "advocates Black Power."

Hatcher attributes Krupa's opposition to him to the fact that, "I ran as an independent for the city council. I haven't joined the machine. I'm certain that's a big part of it."

As for the accusation of being an extremist, Hatcher said, "I've already said I deplore violence and I'm opposed to extremists on both the right and the left."

Radigan, the GOP candidate, is 46 and a native of Gary. He has not held elective office but he has served on numerous civic organizations during the last 15 years.

He said he does not believe racism is the predominant factor in the election.

"I would hope it is not," he said. "I hope we will get enough votes out of Midtown (the predominantly Negro section) to show that this is false."

Democratic City

Gary is a Democratic stronghold and normally the nomination is tantamount to election. But not in this case because Hatcher has serious opposition within his own party.

He says he has a "reasonable chance" of winning 20,000 votes from whites, adding, "If we are able to prevent this fraudulent activity on election day, I'm certain we are going to win."

Radigan, saying his campaign "has picked up momentum in the closing stages," also expresses optimism. He says he has evidence that he will attract numerous Negro votes.

But other political observers in Gary are cautious about predicting the outcome of the election.

Meter Maids Change Voted

Parking Commission Now Asks Transfer From Police Control

The Appleton Parking Commission has reversed a previous stand and now favors transferring city meter maids from the police department to the parking meter department.

The move came at a meeting of the commission Monday, when members voted unanimously to deny Ald. R. P. Groh's (8th) resolution submitted at the last meeting of the common council asking that the police department maintain control of the meter maids.

The Common Council, on Aug. 16, unanimously approved the transfer of the meter maids. The resolution submitted by Groh was aimed at reversing the council decision.

Outline Reasons

Ald. John F. Ayers (12th), a commission member, outlined the reasons why the parking department should supervise the meter maids. Among these were what he called the present lack of supervision for the meter maids under the police department and "the fact that they do not exercise any real police function."

The alderman also said that transferring the meter maids and giving them new uniforms would "disaffiliate them from the police department" and "build better goodwill among merchants downtown."

Ayers said the cost of suplying new uniforms would run between $800 and $1,000.

Other commission members questioned some points of Ayer's proposal, but no real opposition was leveled against the transfer.

Ayers answered the question on where funds for supervision would come from by saying it was "primarily a minor issue. The funds would still come out of the general fund."

Willard C. Johnson, another commission member, asked if there were a few administrative "bugs" that would have to be worked out before the department could assume administration of the maids.

"If the details can't be worked out," Ayers said, "then I will be the first one to ask for their transfer back to the police department.

"Right now, I would like to take a positive approach and try to work out the administrative details as we go along."

Mayor George Buckley, with approval from other commission members, asked that Don Heinritz, parking meter administrator, use his own judgment in running the program until details are formally worked out.

Kaukauna Planners Delay Rezone Action

KAUKAUNA — After more than two hours of discussion Monday night on the rezoning of two parcels of land from residential to local shopping district, the planning commission here, unable to reach a decision, ordered a study of restrictive covenants to be included in property deeds.

The commission took no action on rezoning the property at Oviatt and Tobacnoir streets but agreed to prepare a list of business not desirable for the property and present them to the owners at a later date. Preliminary objections were to a beer bar, pizza restaurant, filling station and garage.

Emmet Frank is attempting to have the area rezoned because the building has served as a grocery store for 57 years and has limited business uses. Since the area is being rezoned residential, it is difficult to sell the building as remodeling is limited due to the nonconforming use of the property.

Restrictive Covenants

Restrictive covenants will be placed in the deed and studied by the planning commission. Some members feel that no action should be taken until a more comprehensive city plan can be developed which will designate most favorable zoning for the area. The property is across from local shopping and heavy industry zone areas.

The second piece of property, bordered by Henry Street and Crooks Avenue, consists of two lots with 355 feet of frontage on Crooks and 143 feet deep. The owner, Joseph Van Daalwyk, is considering construction of a split-level professional office building.

An attorney, representing Van Daalwyk, indicated the owner did not want a supermarket, filling station or liquor establishment in the area and would include this in the restrictions.

Present Statements

Both property owners are to present statements to the planning commission at a meeting later in November. A representative from the state appeared before the commission to explain formation of a reconnaissance report for submission to the federal government concerning aid for a master plan for the community.

He outlined areas to be covered in the report as the importance of showing previous and future planning aims, community participation, problems and needs, use of other federal aid programs and, in general, the building of a substantial case for the aid program. His department will be available for assistance in preparing the reconnaissance report.

The commission favors formation of the report and agreed to work with Eugene Franchett, director of the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG), in preparing the report.

Appleton Girl Hospitalized After Mishap

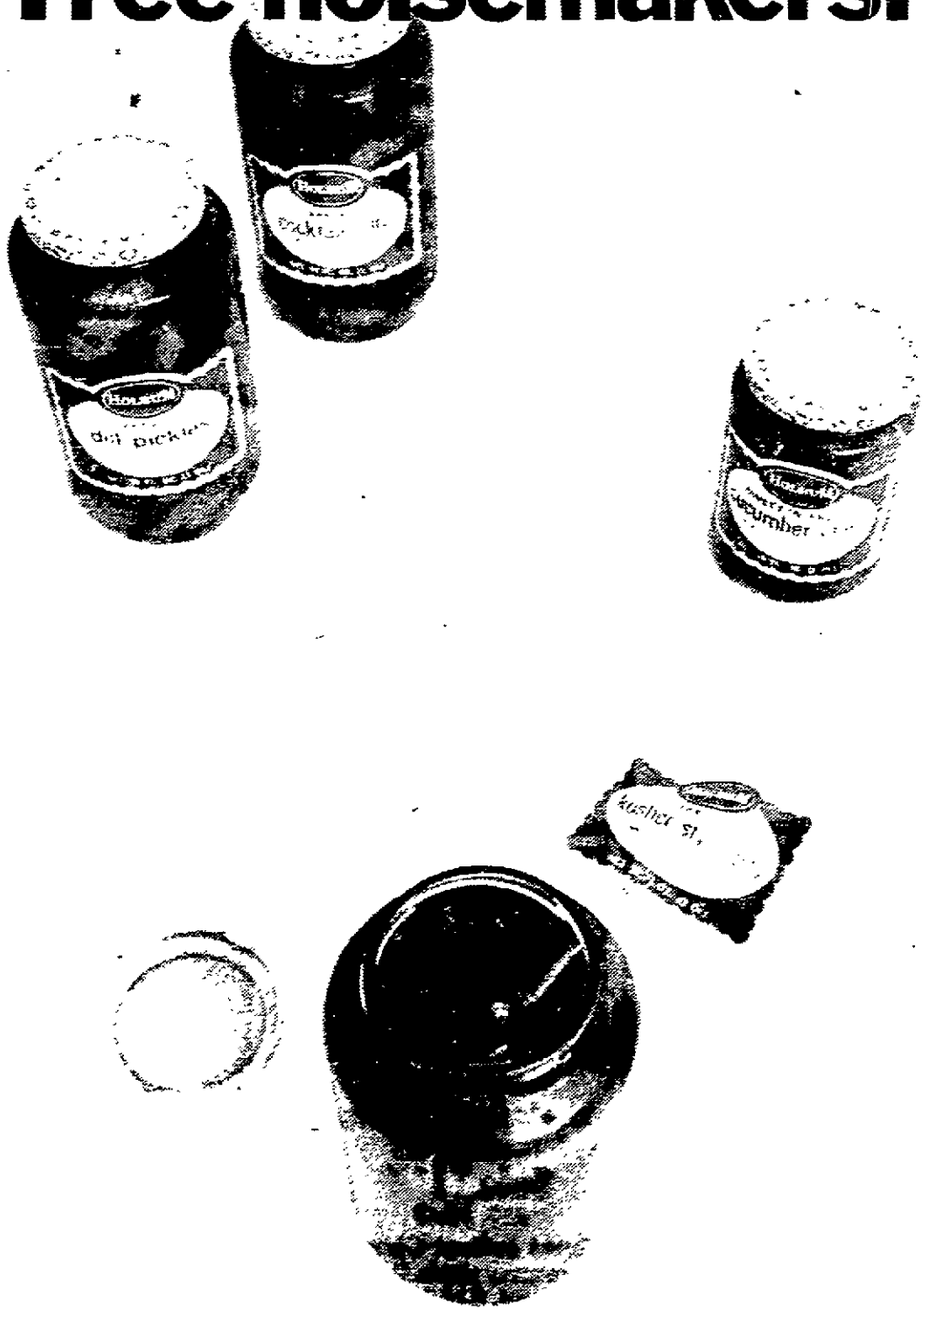

OSHKOSH — Susan Wenning, 13, 4425 W. Prospect Ave., Appleton, was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital by Lindy's Ambulance for treatment of severe face and scalp cuts she received in a 3-car accident at 3:40 p.m. Monday on Winnebago County Trunk BB.

County police said Susan was a passenger in a car driven by her mother, Mary A. Wenning, 39.

The Wenning vehicle was westbound on County Trunk BB, police said, when it struck the rear of a car driven by Gary J. Graf, 23, 1607 Southland Ave., Oshkosh. The rear of the Wenning car then swung out and hit the side of an eastbound car driven by Lawrence H. Mueller, 39, route 2, Neenah, police reported. The Graf vehicle was stopped and waiting to make a left turn onto the approach to U.S. 41.

The mother and two other Wenning children were treated for minor injuries. Police estimated damage to each vehicle at more than $100.

Police Investigating Vandalism to Vehicles

LITTLE CHUTE — Two cases of vandalism were reported to village police over the weekend, both involving automobiles.

William Winius, owner of Van Zeeland Garage, 100 W. North St., reported a windshild wiper stolen and a windshield damaged on a 1968 model car parked near the garage.

Gregg Peeters, 919 Madison St., reported two of the tires on his car slashed while he was in a beer bar sometime Saturday night.

This license shall be displayed in a conspicuous place within the rooming house, at all times. No such license shall be transferrable. Every person holding such a license shall give notice in writing to the office of the Town Clerk and the Building Inspector within twenty-four (24) hours after having sold, transferred, given away or otherwise disposed of ownership of, interest in or control of any rooming house. Such notice shall include the name and address of the person succeeding to the ownership or control of such rooming house. Every rooming house license shall expire at the end of one year following its date of issuance, unless sooner suspended or revoked as hereinafter provided.

B. Any person whose application for a permit to obtain a license to operate a rooming house has been denied may request and shall be granted a hearing on the matter, under the procedure provided in this ordinance.

C. Whenever upon inspection of any rooming house the Health Officer or Building Inspector finds that conditions or practices exist which are in violation of any provision of this ordinance, the Health Officer or Building Inspector, as the case may be, shall give notice in writing to the operator of such rooming house that unless such conditions or practices are corrected within a reasonable time, to be determined by the Health Officer or Building Inspector respectively, the operator's rooming house license will be suspended. At the end of such period the Health Officer or Building Inspector, as the case may be, shall reinspect such rooming house, and if he finds that such conditions or practices have not been corrected, he shall give notice in writing to the operator that the latter's license has been suspended. Upon receipt of notice of suspension, such operator shall immediately cease operation of such rooming house, and no person shall occupy for sleeping or living purposes any room therein.

D. Any person whose license to operate a rooming house has been suspended, or who has received notice from the Health Officer or Building Inspector that his license is to be suspended unless existing conditions or practices at his rooming house are corrected, may request and shall be granted a hearing on the matter before the Board of Public Health (or other designated body) as the case may be, under the procedure provided in this ordinance; provided that if no petition for such hearing is filed within ten (10) days following the day on which such license was suspended, such license shall be deemed to have been automatically revoked.

E. At least one flush water closet, lavatory basin and bathtub or shower, properly connected to a water and sewer system approved by the Plumbing Inspector and in good working condition, shall be supplied for each eight (8) person or fraction thereof residing within a rooming house, including members of the operator's family wherever they share the use of the said facilities, provided that in a rooming house where rooms are let only to males, flush urinals may be substituted for not more than one-half of the required number of water closets. All such facilities shall be so located within the dwelling as to be reasonably accessible from a common hall or passageway to all persons sharing such facilities. Every lavatory basin and bathtub or shower shall be supplied with hot water at all times. No such facilities shall be located in a basement except by written approval of the Health Officer or Building Inspector.

F. The operator of every rooming house shall change supplied bed linen and towels therein at least once each week, and prior to the letting of any room to any occupant. The operator shall be responsible for the maintenance of all supplied bedding in a clean and sanitary manner.

G. Every room occupied for sleeping purposes by one person shall contain at least seventy (70) square feet of floor space, and every room occupied for sleeping purposes by more than one person shall contain at least fifty (50) square feet for each occupant thereof.

H. Every rooming unit shall have safe, unobstructed means of egress leading to safe and open space at ground level, as required by the laws of this state and this Town.

I. The operator of every rooming house shall be responsible for the sanitary maintenance of all walls, floor and ceilings, and for maintenance of a sanitary condition in every other part of the rooming house, and shall be further responsible for the sanitary maintenance of the entire premises where the entire structure of building is leased or occupied by the operator.

J. Every provision of this ordinance which applies to rooming houses shall also apply to hotels, except to the extent that any such provision may be found in conflict with the Wisconsin Statutes or with the lawful regulations of any State board or agency.

SECTION 11
EMERGENCY DISCONTINUANCE OF SERVICE OR UTILITIES

No owner, operator or occupant shall cause any service, facility, equipment or utility to be removed from or shut off from or discontinued in any occupied dwelling unit let or occupied by him, except for such temporary interruption as may be necessary while actual repairs or alterations are in progress, or during temporary emergencies when discontinuance of service is approved by the Housing Inspector. Upon the discontinuance of gas or electric service for cause by a public utility company or upon discontinuance of any municipal or other service for cause, the Housing Inspector shall be notified, and shall thereupon take immediate steps to have the responsible person correct conditions leading to such discontinuance of services. This section shall not be construed to prevent the cessation or discontinuance of any such service upon order of the Housing Inspector or any other authorized officials.

DANGEROUS DWELLINGS

A. All dwellings or parts thereof which have any of the following defects shall be deemed "dangerous dwellings" and shall be condemned as unfit for human habitation.

2. Those which, excluding the foundation, show 33 per cent or more of damage or deterioration of the supporting member or members, or 50 per cent or more of damage or deterioration of the nonsupporting enclosing or outside walls or covering.

3. Those which have improperly distributed loads upon the floors or roofs or in which the same are overloaded, or which have insufficient strength to be reasonably safe for the purpose used

4. Those which have been damaged by fire, wind or other causes so as no longer to provide shelter from the elements and which have become dangerous to life, safety, morals or the general health and welfare of the occupants or the people of the Town of Grand Chute.

5. Those which have become or are so dilapidated, decayed, unsafe, unsanitary or vermin-infested or obsolete that they are likely to cause sickness or disease, or injury to the health, morals, safety or general welfare of those living therein or of the people at large.

6. Those which lack light, air and sanitation facilities as required by this ordinance to protect the health, morals, safety or general welfare of persons living therein.

7. Those which lack the facilities required by this ordinance for egress in case of fire or panic or those which have insufficient stairways, elevators, fire escapes or other means of ingress and egress required herein.

8. Those which have parts thereof which are so attached that they may fall and injure occupants or the public or other property.

B. Declaration of Nuisance and Orders

1. All "Dangerous dwellings" or parts thereof within the terms of this ordinance are hereby declared to be public nuisances, and shall be vacated and repaired or demolished in accordance with the provisions of Section 14

2. In any case where a "dangerous dwelling" is 50 per cent or more damaged or decayed, or deteriorated from its original structure, or where it cannot be repaired so as to comply with the terms of this ordinance, it shall be ordered vacated and demolished in accordance with the provisions of Section 14

ENTRY AND INSPECTION OF DWELLINGS

A. The Housing Inspector is hereby authorized and directed to make inspections to determine the condition of dwellings, dwelling units and premises located within the Town of Grand Chute in order to safeguard the health and safety of the occupants of such dwellings and of the general public. For this purpose and upon showing proper identification, the Housing Inspector is authorized to enter, examine and survey at any reasonable hour all dwellings, dwelling units and premises, but the owner, occupant or the person in charge thereof, may give the Housing Inspector free access thereto for the purpose of such inspection, or require a warrant to accomplish same.

B. Every occupant of a dwelling shall give the owner thereof or his agent or employee access to any part of such dwelling or its premises at any reasonable hour for the purpose of making any repairs or alterations which are necessary to effect compliance with the provisions of this ordinance or any lawful order issued pursuant thereto.

C. No officer, agent or employee of the Town of Grand Chute shall be personally liable for any damage that may accrue to persons or property as a result of any act required or permitted in the discharge of his duties under this ordinance. Any suit brought against any officer, agent or employee of the Town of Grand Chute as a result of the proper discharge of his duties under this ordinance shall be defended by the Town of Grand Chute Town Attorney until final determination of the proceedings therein

ENFORCEMENT; SERVICE OF NOTICES AND ORDERS; HEARINGS

A. Notices of Violation

1. Whenever the Housing Inspector determines that there has been a violation of any provision of this ordinance he shall give notice of such violation to the person or persons responsible therefore and order compliance with the ordinance as hereinafter provided. Such notice and order shall be in writing on an appropriate form and shall include.

a. a list of the violations, with reference to the section of this ordinance violated, and an order as to the remedial action required to effect compliance with this ordinance,

b specification of a reasonable time for compliance,

c. advice concerning the procedure for appeal.

Such notice and order shall be served upon the owner, occupant or agent in person; provided, however, that the notice and order shall be deemed to be properly served if such owner, occupant or agent is sent a copy thereof by registered mail to his last known address and a copy is posted in a conspicuous place in or on the dwelling affected.

2. Whenever the Housing Inspector determines that a dwelling is a "dangerous dwelling" as defined in Section 12, he shall:

a. Affix upon the door or entrance to such dwelling a printed placard declaring that such dwelling is unfit for human habitation and is ordered vacated. No person shall deface or remove such placard from any dwelling which has been condemned as unfit for human habitation and placarded as such. The Housing Inspector shall remove the placard whenever the defect or defects upon which the condemnation and placarding were based have been eliminated.

b. Serve notice, as provided herein, to the owner and occupant or lessee of any building found by him to be a "dangerous dwelling" within the standards set forth in Section 12 that: (1) the owner must vacate and repair or demolish said building in accordance with the terms of the notice and this ordinance; and (2) the occupant or lessee must vacate said building or, with the consent of the owner, may have it repaired in accordance with the notice and order and remain in possession.

B. Hearings

1. Any person affected by a notice and order issued in connection with the enforcement of this ordinance may request and shall be granted a hearing on the matter before the Housing Appeals Board, PROVIDED such person shall file in the office of the Housing Inspector a written petition requesting the hearing and setting forth his name, address, telephone number and a brief statement of the grounds for the hearing or for the mitigation of the order. Such petition shall be filed thirty days after the date the notice and order are served. Upon receipt of the petition, the Housing Inspector shall set a time and place for a hearing before the Housing Appeals Board and shall give the petitioner written notice thereof. Said hearing shall be held within thirty days after a petition has been filed, and the petitioner shall be given an opportunity to be heard and to show cause why the notice and order should be modified or withdrawn. The failure of the petitioner or his representative to appear and to state his case at such hearing shall have the same effect as if no petition were filed.

2. After the hearing, the Housing Appeals Board by a majority vote, shall sustain, modify or withdraw the notice, depending on its findings as to whether the provisions of this ordinance have been complied with, and the petitioner and the Housing Inspector shall be notified within ten days in writing of such findings

3. The proceedings of the hearing, including the findings and decision of the Housing Appeals Board and the reasons therefore shall be summarized in writing and entered as a matter of public record in the office of the Housing Inspector. Such record shall also include a copy of every notice and order issued in connection with the case.

C. Orders to Vacate

1. Where a notice of violation and order to comply have been served pursuant to this ordinance and, upon reinspection at the end of the time specified for compliance, and if no petition for a hearing has been filed, it is found that the violation or violations have not been remedied, the Housing Inspector may order the dwelling, or parts thereof affected by the continued violations, vacated in accordance with the following procedure:

a. Dwellings shall be vacated within a reasonable time, not to exceed 60 days.

b. Vacated dwellings shall have all outer doors firmly locked and basement, cellar and first and second story windows barred or boarded to prevent entry.

c. Vacated dwellings shall not again be used for human habitation until written approval is secured from the Housing Inspector.

2. If a dwelling or part thereof is not vacated within the time specified in the order of vacation, the Housing Inspector shall seek a Court order in a Court of competent jurisdiction for the vacation of such dwelling or part thereof.

D. Emergency Order

Whenever the Housing Inspector finds that an emergency exists which requires immediate action to protect the health and safety of the residents or of the public, he may issue an order so stating and notwithstanding any other provision of this ordinance such order shall take effect and shall be complied with immediately. Upon petition to the Housing Appeals Board, petitioner shall be afforded a hearing pursuant to Paragraph B of this Section.

E. Vacation and Demolition

1. If the owner, occupant, or lessee fails to comply with the order of the Housing Inspector or the action of the Housing Appeals Board after hearing, the Housing Inspector shall cause such dwelling or part thereof to be vacated and repaired or demolished as the facts may warrant and shall, with the assistance of the Town of Grand Chute Town attorney, cause the costs of such repair or demolition to be charged against the land on which the building existed as a municipal lien or to be recovered in a suit at law against the owner.

2. In cases where it reasonably appears that there is immediate danger to the life or safety of any person unless a "dangerous dwelling" as defined herein is immediately vacated and repaired or demolished, the Housing Inspector shall cause its immediate vacation and repair or demolition. The costs of such emergency repair or demolition shall be collected in the same manner as provided in Paragraph 1 of this subsection

HOUSING APPEALS BOARD

A. housing appeals board is hereby created as authorized by this ordinance

1. MEMBERSHIP — the board shall consist of five members. One member shall be the Town attorney (permanent appointment), and the remaining members shall be qualified by experience or training to pass on matters pertaining to building construction. The Housing Inspector shall be an ex-officio member of the board, and shall act as secretary, but shall not vote.

B. The members of the Board shall be appointed by the Executive Head, subject to confirmation by the Legislative Body, for a term of three years. Each member shall serve until his successor is appointed. To be eligible for appointment to said Board, a person shall be a citizen of the United States and a taxpayer or resident of the Town of Grand Chute.

C. The Board shall elect a Chairman from its members. The Housing Appeals Board shall:

1. Adopt rules of procedure not inconsistent with this ordinance, elect its own officers, and keep a record of all proceedings, including the vote of each member on each case heard. No member of the Board shall take part in any hearing or determination in which he has directly or indirectly, any personal or financial interest. Three members of the Board in attendance at any meeting shall constitute a quorum.

2. Interpret the intent of the ordinance in specific cases where, upon appeal, it clearly appears that, by reason of special conditions, undue hardship would result from literal application of any section of the ordinance. Where such undue hardship is clearly demonstrated, the board may permit a variance from the applicable section provided the dwelling will vary only a reasonable minimum from the literal provision of the ordinance and will comply generally with spirit and intent of the regulations as to sanitation, safety and rehabilitation. Any such variance shall be permitted only by the concurring vote of at least three members of the Board.

PENALTIES

Violation of the provisions of this ordinance or failure to comply with any of its requirements shall constitute a misdemeanor. Any person who violates any provision of this ordinance or fails to comply with any of its requirements shall upon conviction thereof, be fined not more than $200 or imprisoned for not more than 30 days, and in addition shall pay all costs and expenses involved in the case. Each day such violation continues shall be considered a separate offense

SECTION 17
INTERPRETATION

The provisions of this ordinance shall be held to be the minimum requirements to protect the health, safety, morals and welfare of the people of the Town of Grand Chute, and where this ordinance imposes greater requirements than imposed by other provisions of law or ordinance, the provisions of this ordinance shall control.

SECTION 18
VALIDITY

Should any chapter, section or provision of this ordinance be declared by a Court of competent jurisdiction to be invalid, such decision shall not affect the validity of the ordinance as a whole or any part thereof other than the part so declared to be invalid.

EFFECT

This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and publication.

Shortage Termed Critical

Vietnam Canine Veteran Aids in Dog Recruitment

BY BILL KNUTSON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

(Last of a series)

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS — You say your German shepherd has just taken a chunk out of your neighbor's leg and you have to get rid of the dog.

The U.S. Air Force just might be interested in him (the dog.)

In the words of Maj. Gen. G. B. Greene Jr., commander at Lackland Military Training Center here, "We (the Air Force) really need the dogs." Military officials said the sentry dog procurement rate is now at a low point, this at a time when the animals are vitally needed for duty in Vietnam.

"Bo" Hilburn, in charge of dog procurement at Lackland, said that "civilian competition" was one reason Air Force dog needs are outpacing the supply of qualified German Shepherds.

Need for Pool

The need for more dogs, partially to keep a large "pool" of sentry animals, is critical enough for the Air Force to send out a soldier-team to recruit dogs.

Nemo, a "retired" sentry dog, has been assigned to help in the nationwide recruiting job.

The story of Nemo is a story typical of the bravery and courage of the sentry dog. On the night of Dec. 5, 1966, the 75-pound black and tan shepherd became the first canine hero of the Vietnam war.

Saved Handler

The dog was on duty with his handler, Airman 2.c. Robert A. Throneburg of Charlotte, N.C., at Tani Son Nhut Air Base near Saigon when the dog warned of soldiers. The Viet Cong guerillas opened fire, wounding both Nemo and Throneburg. But Nemo attacked with such ferocity that his handler had time to alert base security forces.

Nemo is credited with saving Throneburg's life. The soldier was hospitalized in Japan for some time and then returned to civilian life.

Nemo, now five years old, carries the ugly scars of the night battle. A bullet entered below his right eye and penetrated the roof of his mouth. He lost his eye and the side of his face is badly scarred. A sentry dog since 1964 and a one-year Vietnam combat veteran, Nemo now makes periodic personal appearance trips with Capt. Robert Sullivan, who is in charge of sentry dog training at Lackland. Purpose is to help recruit new dogs.

Although many citizens donate their German Shepherds for military use, the government will pay up to $125 for qualifying animals. Owners who wish to make their dogs available are asked to contact their nearest Air Force recruiter.

Like a soldier, a sentry dog has to meet rigid physical standards before he is "inducted." The dog must be between one and three years old, weigh at least 60 pounds, and be at least 23 inches high at the shoulder.

Written Air Force specifications state that the dogs must be "sound, or a sturdy, compact, working type, revealing evidence of power, endurance, and energy. The condition should be that of an athlete in good health, with good muscle tone, clear eyes, and alert attitude."

The animals also must show evidence of "typical German Shepherd character, as defined by breed standard." These include alertness, aggressiveness, steadiness, vigor, and responsiveness. Gun shy animals cannot be accepted.

And, because sentry dogs are used primarily for night patrol, the animal can be any color but white.

The Story of the Sentry Dog is one of a transition from the living room rug to the swamps and fields of Vietnam. This German shepherd was purchased from a citizen, trained at Lackland Military Training Center in Texas and is ready for duty. The Air Force is badly in need of canine recruits.

Rural Shiocton GI Now a Dog Handler

Jerald R. Schmidt, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger A. Schmidt, route 2, Shiocton, graduated last month from the sentry dog handler school at Lackland Military Training Center. An Army private, Schmidt is assigned to the 988st Military Police Company at Fort Carson, Colo. He attended the Lackland School on temporary assignment from Fort Carson.

It's Sweet Potato or Yam Time Way Down South

Orange sections and chopped pecans mingle with the smooth, velvet-like pulp of baked Louisiana yams. Pile the mixture high in the shells and pop the yams into the oven for a last minute heating.

POST-CRESCENT FOOD EDITOR
By Lillian Mackesy

South of the Mason-Dixon line, when folks talk about potatoes they mean sweet potatoes or yams. White potatoes as we know them are Irish or Irish potatoes to the Southerner. So geography does make a difference and in cooking that's what makes regional dishes so exciting to collect.

Sweet potatoes . . . or yams . . . are among the most easily prepared vegetables and their rich, sweet taste combines beautifully with other foods to make them one of our most versatile as well. Unless they are the jumbo type, the potatoes will be tender in a little more than 30 minutes. Most people like them scrubbed with their skins on and roasted. It's good to scoop their chestnut sweetness from the shell.

However, they take to parboiling admirably. Then sliced thickly and browned in melted butter, they are delicious. Stuffed or candied, they have come to be part of the harvest tradition at Thanksgiving and other holiday meals.

This last weekend marked the great Yam Festival at Opelousas, La., known as the yam capital of the world. Here, in the heart of Cajun country, in central Louisiana, farmers have taken advantage of the long growing season and rainfall to produce some of the best yams known to man.

The harvest is just over and the whole countryside traveled to Opelousas to become involved in a three-day festival, complete with recipe contests, crop competition, the selection of a queen for a bang-up parade and coronation ball.

So, it is from this area that the following recipes come with the blessing of the Louisiana Yam Commission.

Roast pork and fresh sweet potatoes find a common denominator in a buttery cider sauce. Use some of it to baste the roast and the rest to pour over potatoes in a casserole.

ORANGE PECAN STUFFED YAMS

- 4 medium Louisiana yams
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 tablespoon grated orange peel
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon nutmeg
- ¼ cup toasted chopped pecans
- 4 orange sections
- 4 pecan halves

Bake yams in 400-degree oven 15 minutes; reduce temperature to 375 degrees; continue baking 45 minutes or until tender. Scoop out yams, reserving ¼-inch shells. Mash yams with butter, orange peel, salt and nutmeg. Fold in pecans. Fill yam shells. Top each with orange section and pecan half. Bake 10 to 15

Doorbells started ringing just after dusk Tuesday as young witches, goblins, princesses and clowns carried out the ritual of trick or treat. Little ones were often accompanied by mothers or older brothers or sisters who stayed in the shadows while the children filled their bags. The recreation department sponsored parties for the young children at elementary schools and for teens, a dance at Appleton High-West. At left, David Townes manages a realistic crone look for Halloween. At right, Tom and Doug Phelps watch the program. Both pictures were taken at Edison School. Below is part of the group that danced at the high school.

Marketing Memo

Turkeys, Broiler-Fryers Buys for Month

The poultry section of most food markets will be featuring turkey this month, says Rosemary Stare, consumer marketing specialist at the University of Wisconsin. Frozen inventories of turkey are far above a year ago.

Broiler-fryer production this month should be about the same as last year making this another economical protein buy. Egg supplies continue good and retail reasonably.

Pork production during September was above 1966 levels, thus lowering current prices on this meat. Beef features continue to highlight chuck cuts and ground beef. More reasonable prices on hindquarter cuts including steaks are expected soon. Lamb cuts remain fairly high in cost with best buys available as occasional features.

Local markets feature bargain prices on potatoes. Although national production this year is slightly below 1966, it remains 12 per cent above average. Right now, as the harvest ends and storage space fills up, the shopper will find special prices on potatoes.

Price tags on oranges may be somewhat higher in cost, but not excessively so. However, with the current 25 to 30-cent price on head lettuce, be sure the heads purchased are firm and crisp.

California Valencia supplies are diminishing fast and navel oranges won't be ready until Thanksgiving or later. Oranges will be available, but don't look for bargain prices for the next few weeks.

Apples continue to be a good value for the next week or so as harvest draws to a close.

Good quality cantaloupe, crenshaw and honeydew melons are coming from California. A new growing area has lengthened the melon season, making them available up to December.

Squash remains an excellent buy. The hard-shelled squash is available in large or small sizes to fit family needs.

Salad ingredients are featured at attractive prices. Escarole, endive and romaine have shown little price change. Peppers, cucumbers, and green onions continue to show attractive prices.

Tomatoes and head lettuce are

Vary, Accent Meal With Salad Variety

Salads add accents of color, flavor and texture to community meals but often pose problems for menu planners who are afraid to try something different, says Mary Mennes, institution management specialist at the University of Wisconsin.

Cabbage is a low-cost salad ingredient and can be sparked up in a variety of ways. Add onion juice, green pepper and red cabbage for a snappy slaw. Or for a sweeter salad, combine pineapple, apples and carrots with cabbage.

Crisp Greens

Use more than one kind of greens when preparing tossed green salad and try to have the greens crisp and torn in bite size pieces. There are many variations of tossed green salads by adding other vegetables, fruits or julienne strips of meat or cheese. Dry greens before refrigerating and add dressings just before serving for best results.

Fruit salads have boundless possibilities and Mrs. Mennes suggests you use fresh fruits whenever possible. Experiment with several kinds of dressings such as honey-orange, honey-lime, french, etc.

Individual Salads

Individual salad bowls are good for serving tossed salad and salad plates are nice if you want to arrange salads with greens, fruits or vegetables. Individual salads add an attractive touch to the tables. For these individually prepared salads do preparation ahead of time, arrange on plates, and then refrigerate on trays. You may have to set up an assembly line just shortly before serving to add last minute touches.

If you are serving a buffet meal, gelatin salads are best molded in large flat pans or individual molds rather than ring molds. After the first two or three servings have been taken out of a large gelatin mold, the salad begins to look messy and unappetizing.

San Jose Elects Negro as Queen

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — San Jose State College which had to cancel a football game last month during campus racial troubles will have a Negro homecoming queen Saturday for its game with the University of Wyoming.

She is Valerie Dickerson, 20, one of about 100 Negroes in a student body of 22,000. She was elected in a campuswide vote last weekend.

Miss Dickerson, whose 35-20-35 figure must have helped her campaign, is outspoken on racial matters.

Make Kooky Rings With Cupboard Ingredients

By VIVIAN BROWN

It's fashionable to wear little and big kooky rings on the fingers...lots of rings, too!

Many kooky rings seen in department stores are inexpensive plastic—great blurbs of white, green, red, orange. Some girls match rings, bracelets and earrings.

If you want a wardrobe of rings, you can have lots of fun making them with pantry ingredients. You can make a little circle for the small finger or add a little bow or knob to vary designs. Or you can make big chunky rings.

The cupboard ingredients can be mixed in a jiffy. Take 2 cups of baking soda and 1 cup of cornstarch. Add one and one-quarter cups of cold water. Mix until it is smooth. Bring to a boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Cook a minute longer or until the mixture resembles moist mashed potatoes. Remove immediately. (Be sure to remove the mixture before it gets too hot and ruins the consistency.) Turn it out on a plate, cover it with a damp cloth and when it is cool enough to handle, knead it a little bit. (This means you will sort of push it down and fold it over each time.)

Girls who have experimented with such clays before, advise that you have some ideas of what you want to make before you begin.

To make rings, roll the "clay" out on a waxed paper to one-quarter inch thickness and with a knife and ruler cut strips about one-quarter inch or width preferred. The length of the strips naturally depends on the circumference of your finger. (You can take your measurement with a piece of string and lay it flat next to the clay.)

Moisten the two ends of each strip before pressing them together to form a firm bond. You can roll little balls of the clay, moistening and pressing the balls into the clay band to give the strips variety or you can make a braid of several strips for a different kind of ring. Another idea is to put three plain strips together and color each strip a different color. If you want to etch the ring or knob, do it with the tip of a knife or a paper clip.

Place finished rings on a wire rack in a warm (350 degree) oven that has been turned off. Leave in oven for about half an hour.

Manville's Will Contested by Ninth Wife

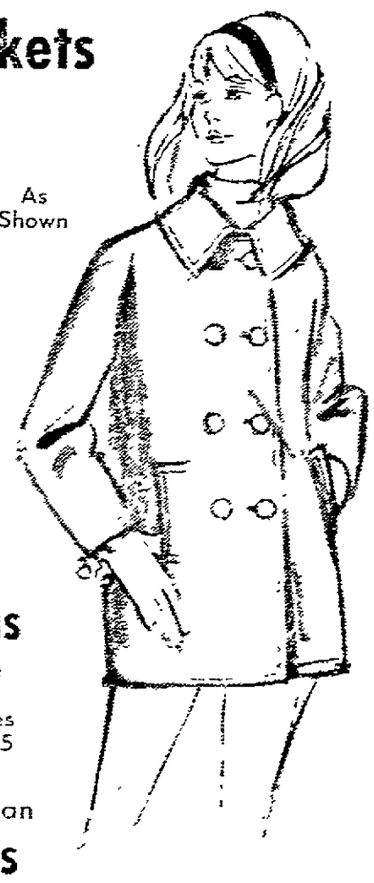

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — The late Tommy Manville's wife No. 9 sued in Westchester County Surrogate's Court Monday to try to keep wife No. 11 from inheriting the asbestos heir's estimated $20 million-plus estate.

No. 9, Anita Roddy-Eden, claims that her 1955 divorce from the millionaire playboy was invalid. She asked the court to award her a widow's share in the estate.

Manville, who died earlier this month, left everything to his last wife, No. 11, former waitress Christina Erdlen Manville.

Oswald Widow Seeks $500,000 In Compensation

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The U S government has been sued for $500,000 by Marina N. Oswald Porter, the widow of the man named by the Warren Commission as the assassin of President John F. Kennedy.

Mrs. Porter, in an action filed in U S District Court here, asks the $500,000 as compensation for the government's seizure of Oswald's personal effects.

She listed more than 300 items, ranging from hunting knives to shirts and sweaters, as having belonged to Oswald at the time of his death. The petition stated "the U S. attorney general has taken all right, title and interest in these items."

Oswald's personal effects were to be stored in the National Archives, according to a special law passed to that effect.

Leaf Duster Works Way Up Every Week

By PHIL THOMAS

NEW YORK (AP) — Ada Lyons starts at the bottom and works her way up every week.

She's a leaf duster for 300 artificial plants scattered over 33 floors of a Manhattan skyscraper.

Mrs. Lyons, 30, starts her plant cleaning rounds at 5:30 p.m. and dusts her last leaf six hours later.

Each week she starts on the first floor and works up, floor by floor. By the end of the week she finishes up on the 33rd floor.

Mrs. Lyons is the only leaf cleaner among the 10,000 employes of National Cleaning Contractors, the maintenance division of Kinney National Services, Inc.

Special Qualities

Her supervisors say she was picked for the job because she has a sensitive touch, is patient, can work alone, and isn't disturbed by tedium.

As Mrs. Lyons, who dusts leafs at the rate of one a minute, says "I like to clean them. I don't get bored."

Mrs. Lyons' tools are a sponge, a bucket of soap and water, a feather duster, a bottle of spray. Each leaf is cleaned individually.

Some plants have dozens of tiny leaves. Others have only a few but they're great, big things. Some of the plants are pot size. Others are taller than Mrs. Lyons, who stands five feet. She uses a ladder to clean these.

Good Reason

Why so many artificial plants and so few real ones?

Economic mostly?

"A big artificial plant costs about $45," says a spokesman. "A big live plant costs about $50. A live plant has a life span of about six months in a place like this. With care, an artificial plant will last indefinitely."

Set Women's Exercise Class

Kaukauna Unit To Host County Council Dinner

KAUKAUNA — The American Legion Auxiliary will be host unit to an Outagamie County Council dinner session at St. Mary Catholic Church hall at 6:30 p.m. Nov. 21.

Reservations may be made for the beef dinner until Nov. 17. Reservations will be accepted by Mrs. Norman Meinert and Mrs. Oliver Wheaton.

A general business meeting and special entertainment is planned.

Horse Escapes, Door Closes

Own Resolution Leads To Most Senate Noise

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — That loud noise in the Senate is from the barn door that slammed when the horse trotted away.

In this case the barn door was the overwhelming approval given the President—in the Tonkin Gulf resolution of 1964—to use whatever force he thought necessary to stop Communist aggression in Southeast Asia. The vote was 88 to 2.

The horse that got loose is the war in Vietnam. Now a horde of senators are unhappy about this dragged-out war which they authorized if President Johnson thought it necessary.

They could have had no doubt in 1964 that the resolution might lead the United States into war. That it could do just that was made clear to them by Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., the man who captained the measure through to approval.

He told them it could happen before they voted. But Fulbright, who has been all over the lot on how much power a president should have in foreign affairs, is now for curbing the president.

The Constitution has never given a president a completely free hand in the foreign field. But about the only real restriction it puts on him is this: Any treaty he makes with a foreign power must be approved by two-thirds of the Senate. Dealing with the Senate this way was often painful. To make life easier for themselves presidents eventually began making executive agreements with other countries. They had the effect of treaties but didn't need a two-thirds Senate vote.

But when it came to using U.S. forces overseas for one reason or another, presidents often got congressional approval. Often they didn't. The armed forces have been used 137 times without a formal declaration of war and in most cases without any say by Congress.

Johnson didn't ask Congress for an okay when he sent troops into the Dominican Republic's revolution in 1965 but he did get congressional approval, through the Tonkin resolution, before using troops in Vietnam.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, has proposed his own resolution which he wants it to approve. This one would say a "national commitment" to another country by a president must be approved by Congress as a treaty or in some other declaration.

But, as noted, Johnson asked precisely for such approval before the Vietnam war began. Yet, what is a "national commitment"? Those words are made of rubber. They could be used to apply to almost anything a president might undertake with a foreign power.

As the war began to seem bogged down, Fulbright and others who had approved the Tonkin resolution became uneasy and critical of Johnson. One of the most memorable complaints came from Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J.

Case, who voted for the Tonkin resolution, said Johnson had misused it because he "had taken advantage of the restraint and responsibility of Congress." He called this "highly irresponsible" on Johnson's part.

But from what he said next it wouldn't seem Congress showed much responsibility. Just the contrary. Case said "our consent to so sweeping a grant of power was not only a mistake but a failure of responsibility on the part of Congress." This could be interpreted as meaning a self-conscious bunch of senators, ill at ease now for not paying attention to what they were doing, are blaming Johnson for it.

Some members of Fulbright's committee want to water down his resolution, saying no more than perhaps something like this: That a president must get congressional approval before he uses U.S. troops overseas, although again this is what Johnson did.

Whatever resolution the Senate approves, it will be no more than an expression of how the Senate would like the president to act. It doesn't have the effect of law and any president could ignore it.

One way the Senate could really put the screws on Johnson would be to rescind the Tonkin resolution approved three years ago. But even Fulbright isn't suggesting that and, if he did, it would probably get no place.

Drive Begun to Aid Financing For Recreation

Constitution Change Would Enlarge Areas Of State Assistance

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Assemblymen interested in outdoor recreation and natural resources protection have begun a drive to change constitutional law to enlarge state government powers in those fields.

First approval has been given by the legislature's lower house that would amend the constitutional provision on state-financed internal improvements by adding to the list county parks and public waters, such as rivers and lakes.

Constitutional revision requires the approval of both legislative houses in successive sessions, and ratification in a popular referendum.

Support Indicated

The ease with which the legislators approved the plan indicates it will probably have substantial public support.

The constitution of 1848 prohibiting state involvement in works of internal improvement, reflect the experiences of some of the earlier states in railroad, canal and other enterprises.

In this century the legislature, with popular consent, has moved frequently to make exceptions. Some of the most familiar examples include highways, airports, ports and harbors, state forests and veteran's housing.

The current measure was offered by members representing districts where water sports are important recreational assets, suggesting it may be a prelude to such improvements as harbors of refuge for small boats, dock and landing facilities and others that have been proposed in the past in bills suggesting state aids for those objectives.

Meanwhile, state officials are preparing a campaign in support of an amendment already approved by the lawmakers twice, that will be on the referendum ballot in spring. It would expand the state's powers to spend beyond the two tenths of a mill state property tax now levied for reforestation and forest protection.

Xavier Students, Alumni Mark Homecoming

The Panther was very large and very pink, but certainly not ferocious. The sophisticated feline presided over the homecoming dance decor Saturday evening at Xavier High School. Looking at the decoration are Jim Oates, Marg Blick, Cathy Schultz and alumnus Dan Van Sistine At right is part of the group of juniors, seniors and alumni who danced at the party. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Homecoming at Xavier High School this year was a series of programs and activities that kept students busy and having a good time. Floats were constructed for many days, and Thursday the Junior class decorated the school halls. The parade was scheduled at 5:30 p.m Friday, with the homecoming court presented at a pep rally in the Xavier Gym The queen was chosen by lot during halftime of the game against Lourdes

Freshmen and sophomores danced Friday evening after the game

Juniors and seniors, as well as visiting alumni, partied at Xavier Commons Saturday evening, with a "While We're Young" theme carried out in the form of a plush night club in a 'Pink Panther' decor

The queen, Sue Goulet, received her crown at 10:30 p m.

Dave Gage was general chairman of the dance, with Maureen Kavaney and Lynn Carew planning decorations. Sue Bates had charge of game night: Katie Miller and Mike Dengel, publicity: Joyce Mollon, invitations, tickets and acknowledgments: Judy Konz and Tom Harris, servers, and Jenny Rechner, homecoming court

Italians Romantic For Spring

By LEONORA DODSWORTH

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — Romantic muslin dresses, demure and very fetching in prim and proper navy blue and white, were given the big hand at the boutique fashion shows in Florence Tuesday.

Made by Krizia of Milan, they summed up the softer look which is making all those tough guy clothes the girls have been strutting around in look both hard and old hat Navy was the big hit at the shows but white and flag red ran it close Often all three went together

Flag Colors

Billy Ballo was a case in point with a smart cruise collection that waved the patriotic red, white and blue flag. Ballo's clothes were designed for the smart woman in her 30s —white linen rajah jackets and calf-length skirts in printed terry cotton jersey tank tops and to-reader pants

There were lots of the skimpiest bikinis—the newest have deep V-cut bras and are trimmed with brass rings—but a weighty word on that subject came from La Mendola with a maillot that was so heavily bead-embroidered it would have been downright dangerous to wear it anywhere near the water

For those who regret—and there are some who do—that brilliant, clashing colors are no longer favored by the Italians, La Merdola jazzed things up just like old times with a series of long sexy dresses and capes in a kaleidoscope of colors

Stories of Mom's Hard Labor Upset, Scare Expectant Mother

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My wife is 22, in excellent health and is expecting our first child in about six months. Everything was fine until her mother began to scare her to death with stories about labor. She told my wife that her own labor was so excruciating that she lost her voice for two days because she screamed so much. She also told her she had bitten her lips so hard that the cuts didn't heal for three weeks.

Last night my mother-in-law talkied my wife into having a casesarean instead of a natural birth. My own mother says my mother-in-law is crazy and that she should stop filling my wife's head with rubbish. My wife says if she can escape the agonies of labor by having a caesarean, why not? I don't know what to say. — Expectant Father

Dear Ex: A caesarean is a major operation and no obstetrician will perform it unless there is a medical reason. Merely to escape labor is not a medical reason.

Mother-in-law is a generation or two behind the times. Ask your wife's doctor to tell her about the help that will be available during labor. She needs reassurance, not horror stories.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Two years ago, when I was 12, I wrote you a letter and asked how to be popular. I felt like the ugliest and dumbest person in the whole world. When I received your answer I was really mad at you. Your reply was so cornball that I wanted to write again and ask you to send me a nickel because I felt I had wasted the stamp.

Landers

Two weeks later I found your letter stuck in a book. (I though I had thrown it out.) I read it again. You wrote, "The way to have a friend is to be one. If you want to be interesting to others you must be interested in others — and show it." Suddenly I wasn't mad any more. It made sense. I decided to try it.

I forced myself to smile and speak to people I had ignored for years. I discovered a lot of nifty kids all over the place. I thought, "Gee, they have changed." But I came to realize that I was the one who had changed. Pretty soon I wasn't thinking about my ugliness and my dumbness any more. I was thinking about how neat it was to be friendly. After a while I didn't feel ugly or dumb anymore.

So now, I am writing to say "thank you" and to ask you to print my letter. If it worked for me it can work for others. When I get a few dollars ahead I am going to send you a nice gift to show my appreciation. You changed my life. — The New Me

Dear New You: Your letter was a beautiful expression of appreciation and I am grateful. As for a gift — I never discourage giving because I know that giving does as much for the giver as for the receiver. So, if you want to do something nice for me, put a couple of dollars in an envelope and send it to you local Heart Fund.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mrs. Knowles Approves

Redecorating Bill Goes To Governor for Signing

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The state Assembly Tuesday took final action on a bill designed to block Mrs Dorothy Knowles' redecoration plans for the state executive office reception room and sent it on to her husband Gov Warren P. Knowles for consideration.

The bill confirms a Senate amendment which adds six legislative members to a nine-member citizen and professional board which would oversee all renovation of state buildings The original bill appointing the board had passed the lower house on a 94-0 vote

Mrs Knowles has said she will urge the Governor to sign the bill into law which effectively, for the time being at least, stops a plan she has presented to paint the walls of the ornate room a light gray

Room Praised

The state capitol's executive office reception room is one of the most striking rooms in America' one of the nation's leading artists and critics said when it was opened a half century ago He cited its color as a major item of quality

Louis Untermeyer described the room as one that 'will rank with the finest imaginative thought we have ever produced and in sheer force of color it surpasses them all It will answer in the highest sense the peculiar demands of decoration — a thing which some of our most inspiring sets of paintings do not begin to fulfill '

His comments are found in the 1917 Blue Book the official state publication for the year in which the new state capitol was officially opened

Propose Painting

Mrs Knowles an interior decorator in private, has proposed painting the dark wood walls of the room a light grey in order to make the room less depressing and a better work place for press photographers

Her plans have raised a storm of legislative opposition in the state legislature, but were backed by Secretary of Administration Wayne McGovran who presently controls state capitol redecoration

She also has proposed that the wood inlaid floor, long covered with carpeting, be repaired and that new curtains and upholstery be prepared for the room Little opposition has been raised to that segment of her plan

Second Suspect Charged in Theft of Car, Truck

Another man has been charged in connection with the Oct 2 theft of a car and a large flatbed truck which was recovered by conservation wardens near Medina

Leonard Barth 24 721 N Morrison St was arraigned in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Tuesday afternoon on a charge of taking and driving without consent a 1960 model auto owned by Van Steen Ford Co Appleton

Judge Gustave J Keller continued the case to Friday afternoon to give Barth time to retain an attorney Barth is in jail under $1 500 bond

Outagamie County authorities allege that Barth was with Woodie Flowers also of Appleton when the 1960 auto was taken from Van Steen's lot and was driven to Diamond Transportation System Inc route 1 Appleton where Flowers took a large flatbed truck owned by a Dover man

Flowers pleaded guilty of taking the truck and is now serving a reformatory term

Woman's Tears Stop Kidnaper

WICHITA (AP) — I started bawling like a big kid and told him I won't get into the car If you're going to kill me kill me here Mrs Mollie Black a liquor store clerk related Tuesday in describing how she dissuaded a bandit from kidnaping her

The armed bandit robbed Mrs Black operator of a liquor store of about $100 and two billfolds but relented from kidnaping her when she broke into tears

She said he threatened to kill her a dozen times and told her to get in his car

Big Business in Wisconsin

Tourism Results in Billion Dollar Take

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Tourism has become a billion dollar business in Wisconsin

Based on university research and survey programs state businessmen have found that the tourist and recreation industry brings between $900 million and $1 billion in direct business dollars into the state's economy

And the secondary use of the funds earned in such industries creates over $1 billion in secondary sales and business uses of the money by state firms according to the research

The totals have been reported in a Madison business community newsletter circulated in the capital city

Resorts' Sales

Leading the list in primary sales are resorts which gather over $174 million a year in Wisconsin

Hotels, motels and guest houses earn an additional $60 million, and restaurants do almost $85 million in business

Groceries earn an additional $109 million in tourist funds, and transportation gains $85 million

Hunting, fishing, and skiing receipts total more than $165 million placing them high on the list and camping and trailer charges earn an additional $23 million

Additional items push the total cost to the $1 billion mark

Direct Taxes

Direct state taxes are paid with about $30 million and mortgage payments draw an additional $172 million Real estate taxes are paid with an additional $123 million, and food products for the industry account for $196 million

Wages in the industry total more than $172 million and insurance alone totals over $32 million a year, according to the researchers

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

Above, Irene cooks keep on boiling spaghetti for days to make the lasagne trays frozen for the Holiday Folk Fair. At the right, members of the Slovak group fill huge trays with close to lots of pastries. These will be served from their booth in the Corn Crib.

Calorie Counting Out at Folk Fair

For one weekend — Nov. 17-18-19 — at Milwaukee's Holiday Folk Fair, calories will be low on the totem pole. They are forgotten.

Whether in the Sidewalk Cafe or the little Caravansary, in the more than 50 hot meals offered, as in the mountain of pastries to eat or take home, there is maximum nourishment. The more than 50,000 expected visitors will need it to view an Arena filled with 34 cultural exhibits, to miss none of the imported crafts from 28 countries which fill the World Mart and to find a seat in the Auditorium for the folk spectacle, "Me and Marco Polo," or swing into a polka in the Old World Gardens.

Armenian cheese bouregs, Croatian sarma, Greek spinach pie, Latvian roast goose, Italian lasagne are made for strength-giving. So are German marzipan tarts, Swiss apple fritters, Serbian strudel, Syrian-Lebanese baklava and Slovak filled crescents. They all will be there at the various nationality food booths.

There will be pastry at the Folk Fair which will appear in at least 10 different versions. It is made easily. It requires no nuts, no raisins, no cream.

Even Mother Hubbard, when her cupboard is bare, could turn out a huge batch.

The Swiss call this pastry "knee patches." The Lithuanians call it "birch branches", and the Norwegians, "poor man's cookies." The Czech name for it is "listy," meaning leaves, while the Slovaks call the pastry "celestial crusts." It is "chrusciki" to the Polish, "chrusty" to the Ukrainians, "diples" to the Greeks and "izudreita" to the Israelis.

Recipes differ only in slight degree, as the two following examples demonstrate:

CZECH LISTY

- 2 cups flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- ¼ stick butter or oleomargarine
- 1 whole egg
- 3 egg yolks
- ½ cup vinegar
- ½ cup water
- Fat for frying
- Powdered sugar

Sift together flour, salt and sugar. Mix in butter in small pieces size of peas, crumbling butter into flour with fingers. Add whole egg and three yolks, blending well.

Combine vinegar and water together in a cup. With a knife, stir into mixture a little at time. Use only enough liquid to make fairly stiff dough. Knead well.

Divide into three balls; roll one at a time on floured board until about one-sixteenth-inch thick. Cut into pieces about 2 x 3 inches.

Drop a few at a time into deep, hot fat, turn once so that both sides are golden brown. Remove from fat with tongs; drain on absorbent paper. When cool, sprinkle both sides with powdered or confectioners sugar. Serve piled high on large platter.

NORWEGIAN POOR MAN'S COOKIES

- 4 egg yolks
- 3 tablespoons butter
- ½ cup powdered sugar
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon cardamon
- 1 tablespoon brandy or half vinegar, half water
- ½ cup to ¾ cup flour
- Hot fat
- Powdered sugar

Beat egg yolks slightly; beat in butter, sugar, salt and cardamon, blending well. Stir in liquid. Add enough flour to hold dough together (rather stiff). Chill 30 minutes, then place on floured board and roll one-sixteenth inch thick. Cut into two inch strips, gash with knife down the center.

Drop into hot fat; fry until golden brown, turning once. Drain on paper towel. When cool, sprinkle with powdered sugar.

Real Expert Just Leaps Into Fire

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

In the recent Team Selection Tournament in Atlantic City, N.J., two famous experts optimistically bid six hearts on the hand shown today. The slam was tempting but unsound since the odds were 3 to 1 against declarer. A slam is a sound contract only if declarer has at least an even chance to bring it home.

New York expert Bill Root, who was eventually picked for the 1968 Olympic team with his partner, Al Roth, made the slam by taking his best shot. He won the first trick with dummy's ace.

Root gulped and put in the jack of spades. The odds were 3 to 1 against hitting both the king and queen of spades in the East hand, but this was still Root's best chance.

When the jack of spades held, Root made all 13 tricks by ruffing both low spades in the dummy. East could have saved one trick by splitting his spade honors on the first round of the suit, but the overtrick was unimportant.

Misreads Situation

At another table another famous expert muffed the slam by misjudging an opponent on the first round of spades. When East played low, South thought it unlikely that East would have ducked with both the king and queen. South therefore played a low spade instead of the jack, hoping that one of the opponents held only K-Q-x of spades or that the defender who won the first spade would fail to return a trump.

A trump came back, of course, and South went down. The odds were about 11 to 1 against this declarer. It was bad enough to be in the frying pan with the odds 3 to 1 against him, but he made it worse by jumping into the fire of diamonds, discarded two diamonds on the top clubs and led a spade from dummy.

East craftily played low, hoping that South would try a finesse with the nine if he held A-J-9 of spades. Root gulped and put in the jack of spades. The odds were 3 to 1 against hitting both the king and queen of spades in the East hand, but this was still Root's best chance.

Advice From Leading State Doctor

MDs Urged to Cooperate, Participate With Medicare

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — It is time for the medical profession and its leaders to change their traditional position of opposition and to begin to participate in federal Medicare programs, a past president of the state medical society has told the Wisconsin medical profession.

Dr. John H. Houghton of Wisconsin Dells, who served as president of the Wisconsin Medical Society in 1965 and 1966, has delivered that blunt message to his fellow medical workers in a guest editorial in the latest issue of the Wisconsin Medical Journal, official publication of the society.

"Perhaps it is time for us and for our leaders to change our traditional policy of opposition to one of participation," Dr. Houghton writes.

Revised Thinking

"There are many of us who have revised our thinking to the point of realizing two things. One is that government, whether it be local, state or federal, has a legitimate part in certain aspects of health care of the people.

"The other is that future health legislation is inevitable," he warns his colleagues.

"It seems to me that medicine has a duty and a moral obligation to participate in the formulation of future health legislation, always striving to keep it within the framework of legitimate government activity."

He calls upon the profession to pause and re-examine the first year's progress of the Medicare program.

"One conclusion is that it is not all bad," he suggests.

"Socialistic Ingredient"

"In spite of its socialistic ingredient of providing benefits because the recipient reaches his 65th birthday, we can recall many golden agers who would have been hard put financially to pay for medical and hospital expenses provided now by Medicare."

Dr. Houghton writes that the program "was conceived by the social planners, and after a more or less shotgun wedding, it was brought to term without the help of the medical profession."

The birth of the program, he concludes, was "of somewhat questionable legitimacy.

"However, the baby was born," he emphasizes.

The government then turned to the medical profession for "postnatal" advice and assistance, and the medical profession did a good job in providing it, he suggests.

Continue Involvement

The medical profession must continue its involvement, he argues, admitting that there are many in the profession who disagree with his advice.

"We, as a profession, need to take part in the planning of future health legislation. In other words, we must have political obstetricians as well as political pediatricians. I am certain that the American Medical Association from its vast reservoir of talent can produce these men. . . What is past is past. Let us now concentrate on the future. Let us work for better health legislation for the good of all the people, preserving the free enterprise philosophy that made our nation great."

Seek Bids for Shoreline Work

Bids for riprapping of the shoreline on the Barket Access near Shiocton, a county recreation area under development for the past two years, are now being taken by Outagamie County.

Specifications on the project are available from the office of Vern Geiger, director of the county Soil Conservation Service office. Bids must be submitted to the county clerk's office by 9 a.m. Monday, Nov. 13.

The riprapping project is designed to prevent erosion of the shoreline.

Greenville Services

GREENVILLE — A 13 hours service is planned Sunday, Nov. 12 at St. Mary Church, Greenville.

Brillion Teen Jailed for Vandalism

Michael Rupiper Also Admits Thefts At Freedom School

A vandalism and theft spree at Freedom High School cost a 19-year-old Brillion youth six months in the Outagamie County jail Tuesday afternoon.

Michael Rupiper pleaded guilty in County Court Branch 2 of doing criminal damage to property at the high school, and of the theft of several items from the school. He and a 16-year-old Freedom youth, a student at the school, were taken into custody following investigation by county police. The younger boy faces Juvenile Court action. He was released to his parents but reportedly has not been allowed to return to school.

The Freedom boy also faces court action for entering the high school on three other occasions, for burglarizing Geenen's Shopping Center and vandalism at St. Nicholas Cemetery.

Stole Phonograph

Authorities said that Rupiper and the younger boy were in the high school Sept. 25. At that time Rupiper stole a phonograph, six dozen arrows, two bows, two pairs of boxing gloves, and 15 bow strings.

He was charged with criminal damage to property for his part in extensively vandalizing the school. Investigators said he sprayed lockers and hallway floors with fire extinguisher fluid, ripped papers from a bulletin board, smeared blood over walls, tore a door off a restroom, took two mirrors off walls, smeared red paste about the school, poured fuel oil on the industrial arts room floor, and broke a window.

Shiocton Man Injured When Auto Overturns

Junior L. Collar, 42, Shiocton, suffered neck and shoulder injuries about 11:15 a.m. Monday when his car left Outagamie County Trunk A at State Road, and tipped over in a ditch.

Collar told police he was rounding a curve, while southbound on A, when his 1966 car skidded out of control. Police estimated damage at $1,500.

Bankruptcy Petitions Filed by Five Residents Of Fox Valley Area

Five Fox Valley residents, including two from Waupaca, filed voluntary bankruptcy petitions in U.S. District Court.

Jack D. and Phyllis C. Jung, both route 1, Waupaca, filed petitions. Jung, a carpenter, showed liabilities of $24,989 and assets of $562, with $527 exempt. She showed liabilities of $24,939 and assets of $527, with the same amount exempt.

Carl E. Schimmers, 531 Park St., Combined Locks, a millworker, filed a petition listing liabilities of $8,858 and assets of $1,395, with $815 exempt.

Richard R. Randall, 1312 N. Main St., Oshkosh, a carpet layer, petitioned with liabilities of $30,855 and assets of $6,352, with $610 exempt.

Donavon H. Weltz, route 2, Omro, a mason, showed liabilities of $5,636 and assets of $969, with $516 exempt.

Kimberly Boys Admit Looting Drink Venders

KIMBERLY — Four juvenile boys, ages 15 and 16, have been apprehended by village police and have admitted a series of thefts from soft drink machines in the village during the past month.

The boys, who had a key to fit the machines, opened them and took money and soft drinks. The boys were released to the custody of their parents after agreeing to make restitution.

Oneida Man Jailed for Beating Step-Mother

Charged with battery in connection with the beating of his step-mother, Leonard R. Doxtator, 31, route 1, Oneida, pleaded guilty Tuesday afternoon and was sentenced to three months in jail.

He appeared in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 after a complaint was brought by Mrs. Phoebe Doxtator, who said the incident occurred at her home Sunday. Police said she was injured.

UW Fox Valley Center

Scholarships Assist 59 Capable Students

At the Fox Valley Center of the University of Wisconsin, $25,739 in financial aids and private scholarships will go to 59 students this year. This is about 9 per cent of the student body and averages $435 per student. However, some receive more, and many a lot less.

Locally, the Appleton Woman's Club and Junior Woman's Club provide a two-semester scholarship and an extra $50 for books. There are three Kimberly-Clark two-semester scholarships. An anonymous donor has given two scholarships of $125 each.

Appleton Coated Paper gives a one-semester scholarship. The Center Student Senate offers two scholarships of one semester each, and the Fox Valley University Center League provides a $50 scholarship.

Other Funds

There are many other opportunities open to the qualified student who has rough financial going, including the work-study program, a fund that provides work for needy students. The federal government contributes 85 per cent of the fund and the university, 15 per cent.

The Center's Student Affairs office finds jobs on campus or in non-profit organizations, up to 15 hours during the week, or 40 hours during vacations. Hopefully, the work-study jobs will coincide with academic interests, or in other ways increase students' educational experiences.

Comments from students now receiving work-study aid at the Center reflect their use of the money.

"Work-study aid provides that 'little bit more' that allows me to attend the Center," said an Appleton coed. She would have had to work while attending college anyway, but having a job on campus allows her to attend all classes and keep up on a full-time basis.

A freshman coed from Menasha said, "If it were not for work-study aid, I could still attend college, but it would be a lot harder on me." She worked for two years while in high school and saved enough money to cover her tuition, but her savings don't provide enough for clothing, books or recreation.

"Without financial aid it would be impossible for me to fulfill my plans for a career in physical therapy," the Menasha coed added.

Special Problem

A special student, wanting to enter the field of illustration and teaching art, has bigger financial problems because his home is not in this area. He expected to attend only one or two classes each semester while he worked.

Last fall he could not attend at all, because he had little money available. Now, with work-study aid, he is a full-time student.

Many scholarships and grants come from the State of Wisconsin. This aid, like most, is based on the financial need of the student. State honor scholarships from $100-$800 a year go to students at the tops of their graduating classes.

State leadership scholarships, a maximum of $900 each, go to freshmen and upperclassmen who demonstrate scholarship and leadership qualities.

U. S. Economic Opportunity Grants for students with exceptional economic need, allow $200-$800 per year.

National Defense loans provide a maximum of $1,000 an academic year and may be renewed up to $5,000 for undergraduate work. There is no interest due while the student is in school, and the loan can be repaid when the student begins work.

Fifty per cent of the payment on this loan is cancelled if the student goes into teaching for five years, with additional reductions if he teaches the handicapped or persons in low income areas. The federal government provides 90 per cent of this fund, the University the other 10 per cent.

"No one need miss college if he can do the work," says Mrs. Lillian Gerould, student adviser for financial aid at the Center. Mrs. Gerould is planning a project to make high school students aware of the many types of financial aid available. Then they will be better able to plan their future studies and not fear to set their sights on a college education, she believes.

Students in need of information or advice about financing a college education may contact Mrs. Gerould at the Fox Valley Center Student Affairs Office.

What Quality Beef Does A&P Sell?

That's a fair question. But not an easy one to answer because we have our own quality standards, different from any other meat merchant.

These standards don't fit exactly the familiar terms you know for grades of meat. As an example, did you know that some beef, graded U.S. Choice, just doesn't meet our "Super-Right" specifications? It's true! You see... we don't buy by grade. We use our own high standards to bring you the best values.

That doesn't mean we don't approve of such grading—not at all. It just means we're very fussy about the beef we label "Super-Right." It stands to reason we have to be or A&P wouldn't be America's number one meat merchant.

Colt Passing Rate Is 279 Yards a Tilt

NEW YORK (AP) — New York's offense still is the best in the National Football League. Green Bay's defense is the best and the Sunday scoreboard proves the point.

The Giants, who rolled to a 38-34 victory over Cleveland's powerful Browns, have been averaging 392 yards per game

Green Bay, which has limited the opposition to an average of 212 yards a day, was stung by the St. Louis attack of Jim Hart but still managed to beat the Cardinals 31-23 Monday night with their defense.

The Los Angeles Rams are tops in running with 159 yards a game.

Batimore's passing attack rolls up 279 yards a game although it has produced only 12 touchdowns passing as compared to the Giants' total of 18.

That stingy Packer defense is first in total yardage allowed and also in pass defense. However, the Cards shot a few holes in that pass umbrella and gained 289 yards in one game through the air. Green Bay's average against passers still is only 90 yards per game. The Rams have the best defensive rushing average, 75 yards per game.

St. Louis has had its passer caught only five times, (three by Green Bay Monday night) and San Francisco has smeared the enemy passer 22 times although it had trouble protecting its own John Brodie against Detroit last Sunday.

Indians Heads 3 Contenders For Rose Bowl

Minnesota Favored By 12 Points in Contest at Iowa

By JOE MOOSHIL

CHICAGO (AP)—Want a rundown on the possible Big Ten Rose Bowl representative? Ask Michigan Coach Bump Elliott. He's been stung by all three.

Included among Michigan's five losses this season are defeats at the hands of Indiana, Minnesota and Michigan State. The Wolverines this season don't play Purdue, the fourth team currently on the move for the Big Ten title. But the Boilermakers are ineligible for the Rose Bowl because of the no-repeat rule.

Michigan lost in the final minutes to both Indiana, 27-20, and Minnesota last week, 20-15. The Wolverines were crushed by Michigan State 34-0.

Different Teams

"Indiana and Minnesota are two different teams," Elliott told the Chicago Football Writers via telephone Tuesday, "although both of our games were similar in that we lost to both the same way.

"Indiana is a quick team with the wide open option," said Elliott. "They strike quickly and hurt you.

"Minnesota is awesome in size and brute strength. They can crush you and they have had a lot of help with their forward passing."

Undefeated Indiana is rolling towards what could be the greatest year in Hoosier football history. The Hoosiers have a 6-0 record, are ranked seventh nationally and are tied for the Big Ten lead with Purdue and Minnesota with 3-0 records.

Michigan State, the defending Big Ten champion, is saddled with a 2-4 record for the season but is 2-1 in the conference and very much alive for the Pasadena trip during the holidays.

Good Contenders

"Both Indiana and Minnesota are good contenders and will be in the running all the way," said Elliott. "Michigan State? That's another story.

"The day we played them the roof fell in," continued Elliott. "It's difficult to compare. The day we played them I thought they were the best team we'd seen all season. Evidently they are not."

Little is expected to unfold in the Big Ten race this week since the four contenders play second division teams and all are heavily favored to win. How-

Perennial Substitute Hawkins Becomes Starter for Colts

Has Caught Passes for 2 Touchdowns

By GEORGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE (AP) — Alex Hawkins has become a starter at end on the Baltimore Colts. But the old hawk has no illusions of grandeur.

"I'll be just as happy to be back up as long as we win," said the nine-year veteran of the National Football League. "I don't mind being a substitute as long as I think I can help."

Hawkins has done that. As a substitute for a substitute, he has caught passes for two touchdowns which have helped keep the Colts the only undefeated team in professional football.

One was in a 24-24 tie against the Los Angeles Rams with only five days of practice after his return to the Colts from the Atlanta Falcons where he went last year in the NFL expansion. The other was Sunday at Washington where he led all receivers by gaining 95 yards in Baltimore's 17-13 victory.

Perkins Hurt

He started the game because Ray Perkins, already listed as a sub for Raymond Berry, was bothered with a pulled leg muscle.

For most of his seven previous seasons with the Colts, Hawkins labored on the specialty teams—punts and kickoffs. Even there, though, he gained fame as Captain Who—a nickname acquired when he was introduced in pregame ceremonies along with the offensive and defensive captains of the Colts.

When Hawkins was reclaimed from the discard list this season, it naturally was assumed he would be limited to appearances on the specialty teams. Coach Don Shula was of the same mind, but said that Jim Welch had done such a good job as specialty captain he would retain the title

But the hawk will get it after all. Welch suffered a back injury Sunday and will be out of action for several weeks.

Hart 'A Good One'

Nitschke Lauds Poise, Quickness of Cards' Rookie Quarterback

By KEN HARTNETT

GREEN BAY (AP) — Linebacker Ray Nitschke of the Green Bay Packers, after 10 years in the National Football League, yields praise as if it were yardage. So he paused and pondered when asked about rookie Jim Hart of the St. Louis Cardinals.

He then gave a carefully considered reply: "He's pretty good." The 23-year-old quarterback touched the NFL's top pass defense for two touchdowns and 317 yards Monday night in a game won by the Packers 31-23. The Packers had never seen Hart before except on film.

"He gets rid of the ball real quick," Nitschke said. "He's got real good protection and real good receivers and runners. He gets back real quick and he's got a real strong arm and a lot of poise for a young quarterback.

Lot of Respect

"We had a lot of respect for him going into the game and coming out of the game, we still respect him."

But, said Nitschke, Hart has not been fully exposed. "He's got to come around the circuit more than once," Nitschke said.

Tackle Henry Jordan, a more liberal dispenser of verbal bounty, agreed. Each time a quarterback plays, tiny flaws that defenses can pick out begin to show. Play-calling tendencies become clearer.

It becomes more obvious which receiver the quarterback will look to in a jam. Defenses can adjust accordingly.

"He's got a long season," said Jordan. "If he can last the whole season and still be as cool as he's been thus far, we've got to say he's a good one."

Jordan, who has an intricate set of moves as any tackle in football, told of one play in which he thought he had Hart set up.

Got Rid of Ball

"I thought I was really going to club him before he threw his pass. But he got rid of the ball and got out of my way and I still don't know how he did it. And I think he completed the pass.

"You hate to give a guy an honor but I think he's going to be one of the great ones. Why he threw the ball off balance once and he threw it 50 yards.

"You hate to make a comparison. You hate to say he's one of the great ones. But I'll say this. He's a plenty good one."

Vern Law Will Be Buc Pitching Coach in 1968

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates announced Tuesday that recently retired Vernon Law will be pitching coach next year.

Law, 37, retired last season after 18 years on the mound for the Pirates. His career record was 162 victories and 147 losses.

Law finishes out the coaching staff under the new manager, Larry Shepard. The others are Alex Grammas, Don Leppert and Bill Virdon.

Law's best season was 1960 when the Pirates won the World Series. He was 20-9 for the season and won two in the Series and was given the Cy Young Award for the best pitcher in baseball.

2 Lions Clubs To Fete AHS-E, AHS-W Teams

The two Appleton Lions clubs will sponsor fall sports banquets for the two Appleton public high schools on consecutive days.

The Evening Lions club will honor the Appleton East football, volleyball and cross country teams at 6:30 p.m. Nov. 14 in the school Commons.

At 6:30 p.m. Nov. 15, the Noon Lions club will fete Appleton West's gridders, harriers and volleyball players at the American Legion clubhouse.

Ron Roberts, Lawrence University football coach and member of the Appleton school board, will be guest speaker at the East banquet.

The West banquet program will be provided by the school's athletic department. Bob Lloyd will be master of ceremonies. The deadline for AHS-W reservations is Monday noon, Nov. 13. Tickets are available at Berggren's, and the Court Cigar Store.

MADISON (AP)—Sports Writer Lew Cornelius of the Capital Times remains in serious condition at a Madison hospital today.

Cornelius suffered head and other injuries in an automobile accident Oct. 25.

Art Powell Out For Rest of '67

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The Buffalo Bills said Tuesday split end Art Powell, who underwent knee surgery last Friday, would be lost to the American Football League team for the remainder of the season.

A spokesman said the injury to a cartilage in Powell's left knee was more serious than originally diagnosed.

Brothers Graff Together Again

Reunited at Home With Casts From Football Injuries

The brothers Graff played together on Appleton Xavier championship football and basketball teams . . . they golfed together . . . and they participated together in many other activities before they were split up by Terry's graduation and subsequent enrollment at McAllester College (St. Paul).

Now, Terry and Brad are unexpectedly reunited—in a less desirable form of togetherness.

Both have casts on their legs, as a result of football injuries, and are recuperating at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Graff.

Brad, a Xavier junior, was leading the Fox Valley Catholic Conference in scoring before he injured his left knee in midseason. He had surgey several weeks ago and must keep the cast on for a total of six weeks.

Player of Week

Top NFL Defensive Honor Accorded Nobis

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Hulking linebacker Tommy Nobis is doing "a lot more thinking" on the field this year, and it's beginning to pay off for him and the Atlanta Falcons.

The payoff for the Falcons was their first victory of the season last Sunday, 21-20 over Minnesota. For Nobis, the personal dividends included his selection as The Associated Press Defensive Player of the Week in the National Football League.

The 238-pound Texan nabbed two Viking passes for interceptions, setting up one touchdown and scoring another.

The red-haired, freckle-faced Nobis, quick despite his bullish build but with no illusions of great speed, picked off a pass by Joe Kapp of the Vikings in the second quarter and returned it to the Vikings' 23. Four plays later, Randy Johnson passed to Tommy McDonald for a touchdown.

In the final quarter, Minnesota's Ron VanderKelen threw hurriedly, and the ball hit Karl Rubke's helmet, bouncing about 30 feet in the air.

Paul Flatley of the Vikings and Nobis clawed at the ball, but both fell with Nobis claiming the ball while flat on his back. Hauing himself up rapidly, he rambled 41 yards, taking one defender with him into the end zone for what proved to be the winning touchdown.

It was only his third pass in-

McCormick Wins Young Award in NL

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP)— Lefty Mike McCormick, baseball's Comeback Player of the Year, is the happy winner of the Cy Young Award as the National League's outstanding pitcher of 1967.

"I think this is the realization of every pitcher's dream," Mike exclaimed at his home in Mountain View, some 40 miles south of Candlestick Park, where he performs his heroics for the San Francisco Giants.

"It certainly is the cake-icing of my playing year.

"In all honesty, my family and I are very elated.

"It's the highest award a pitcher can get. There's not much more I can say."

The award was voted Tuesday by the Baseball Writers Association of America, and McCormick got 18 of the 20 votes cast by the writers — two from each league city. Ferguson Jenkins of the Chicago Cubs and Jim Bunning of the Philadelphia Phillies got one vote each.

McCormick's magnificent 22-10 record was tops in the league and led the Giants to a strong second-place finish in the pennant race.

At the age of 29, and once considered washed up, he pitched 14 complete games, worked 262 innings, and had an earned run average of 2.85.

Marvis Buboltz Hits National Set of 648

Season High for Area Women Includes Games of 199, 233, 216

Miss Marvis Buboltz set a season high for women as she pounded a national honor count of 648 in the Hit and Miss League at the 41 Bowl Tuesday night.

Miss Buboltz, who said this morning: "I guess I just got lucky," cracked a 199 game to start with and then followed with a career high of 233 and closed with a 216 game.

The once-a-week league keg-ler, who also substitutes in another circuit, had a strike up in the seventh frame of the last game and then doubled in the eighth to clinch the 600. "That took some of the pressure off," she recalled.

Miss Buboltz, who has been bowling about 10 years, carries a 150 average in the league. Her best previous series was a 570 rolled last season in the same loop.

Other top scores from the Hit and Miss loop last night included a 222 game and 514 series by Darlene Beyer and a 502 series by Pat Malley.

Percy Anderson fired a 190 game and 529 series to lead keglers in the Nite-Out League at Sabre Lanes Tuesday.

In the Ten Pin Toilers League at Hahn's Lanes Tuesday, Arlene Coenen rolled a 220 game and 525 series. Lu Schlender had a 203 singleton.

Tess Wilson topped the Tag-a-Long League at the 41 Bowl last night with a 204 game and 514 series. Marion Lappen rolled a 502 set and Fran Woehler had a 193 line.

In the Kimberly Ladies League at Jerry's Lanes Jeanne Maas had counts of 192 and 502 while Elaine McCann rolled a 208.

The Kitchen Cheaters League at Hahn's Lanes Monday was paced by Leone Uetzman's 202 game and Virginia Tegen's 539 series. Leone finished with a 504 and Irene Mittlestadt also had a 504 total.

terception as a pro and his first touchdown since he played quarterback as a sophomore in high school.

His hectic dash to the goal brought the usual kidding. "That field sure was long," said the sign a teammate taped on his locker.

"You were so slow they had started the instant replay on television before you scored," his father, Tommy Sr., quipped.

"I think this guy is the greatest middle linebacker in football," Falcons Coach Norb Hecker said. "His development has exceeded our wildest dreams."

Ken Masaros Shares Mixed, Men's Badminton Crowns

Appleton's Ken Masaros shared the winners' circle in both the mixed doubles and men's doubles divisions to highlight competition in the second annual Invitational Mixed Doubles Badminton Tournament held at Jefferson School last Saturday.

Masaros and his wife Leta rallied to beat a Milwaukee couple, Betty and Jim Wanek, 6-15, 15-8, 15-11, to capture first place in the mixed doubles. The Masaros duo had reached the finals by beating John Burton, Milwaukee, and Joan Kalfahs, Neenah, in the semi-finals while the Waneks had taken the measure of Appleton's Dave Murray and Green Bay's Shirley Wolfe.

The Appleton pair of Masaros and Dave Murray topped Bob Rahr of Appleton and Don Weissinger of West Allis to win the men's doubles title. The scores were 4-15, 15-11, 17-16.

Vera Henrichs and Stella Peplowski, both of West Allis, copped women's doubles honors rallying to win after losing the first set to their two Appleton opponents, Mary Heinecke and Ruth Bateman. The scores read 15-18, 17-14, and 15-8 for the winners.

In the senior men's doubles, John Burton and Bob Salentine of Milwaukee defeated Ken Henrichs and Gene Rasch, West Allis, for the title, 15-9 and 17-16.

Consolation winners were also crowned. They included John Burton and Bob Salentine (Milwaukee), who defeated H Didurania (Appleton) and Ken Henrichs (West Allis) 21-9, in the men's doubles Doris Beyer and Franciosa Denicola (West Allis), who defeated Amy Durdell (Appleton) and Barb Pharris (Green Bay), 21-20, in the women's doubles; and Jan Bartelt and Char Schacte (Madison), who defeated Pat Weissinger (West Allis), 21-10.

NOTES and NOTIONS

John L. Faustian

Things weren't too bad on the forecasting front last week — with the conspicuous exception of the National Football League. I feel fortunate to have come out of the NFL's topsy-turvy weekend with a .500 (4-4) mark Overall, this corner hit on 70.3 per cent (26 right, 11 wrong, 1 tie) last week, for a season standard of .718 (186-73-15).

Packers over Colts — This will be a real toughie either way, and the game should be another suspenseful saga like the Bay-Cardinal tussle. Even though the Colts are unbeaten this season and are about "due" to beat the Packers, I can't help but feel that the "masters of the big play" will pull it out again.

Indiana over Wisconsin — We've gone along with the Badgers a number of times, and they've come close to scoring that first win, but not close enough. The odds are stacked against them this week when they visit the domain of the steamed-up, unbeaten Hoosiers.

Lawrence over Grinnell — The power-laden Vikes can wrap up a clear title a week ahead of schedule, and they aren't about to miss the chance of doing it before the home folks.

Appleton East over Green Bay East — The teams appear evenly matched, but the Patriots will have a little something extra going for them — the desire to give Coach Claude Radtke a surprising .500 finish in the school's inaugural season.

Preble over Appleton West — The Hornets have the better of it, on paper, but it isn't out of the realm of possibility for the Terrors to win — if they produce their best effort of the season.

Other NFL games — Dallas over Atlanta, Detroit over Chicago, Cleveland over Pittsburgh, San Francisco over Los Angeles, Minnesota over New York, Philadelphia over New Orleans, Washington over St. Louis.

Other MC games — St. Olaf over Cornell, Beloit over Monmouth, Coe over Knox, Ripon over Carleton.

Other FRVC games — Fond du Lac over Manitowoc, Green Bay West over Sheboygan South, Sheboygan North over Green Bay Southwest.

Hawks Record Ninth Victory

Zelmo Beaty Paces St. Louis; Seattle Tips Bulls, 114-104

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Zelmo Beaty is off to one of his best starts in the National Basketball Association. So are the St Louis Hawks.

The Hawks made it nine victories in 10 starts by defeating Baltimore 114-103 Tuesday night with Beaty showing the way with 28 points. The victory strengthened the Hawks' hold on first place in the Western Division.

Seattle beat Chicago 114-104 and San Francisco whipped New York 108-103 in the other scheduled NBA games.

Six Straight

Beaty, a 1962 Little All-American with Prairie View, is the No. 1 scorer for the Hawks. He tallied six straight points in the last period to erase a Baltimore lead and put the Hawks comfortably ahead on their home court.

Walt Hazzard, former UCLA star, led Seattle to its home court victory over Chicago with 34 points. Six of them came in a row with the Sonics ahead 105-100 to put the game out of reach of the Bulls. It was the ninth straight defeat for the winless Bulls.

San Francisco won its fifth in a row and handed New York its sixth straight defeat. Nate Thurmond, with 26 points and 27 rebounds, paced the Warriors.

BY LEE REMMEL

The so-called "big play," by the kaleidoscopic nature of football is a spur of the moment affair.

But it is born on the practice field and in the classroom, says the Packers' scholarly defensive captain, Willie Davis, who should be something of an expert on the subject.

Willie, it may be remembered, was the man who cemented the National Football League's 1966 Western Division championship for the Pack when he separated the elusive John Unitas from the football with a crunching tackle in the mire and drizzle of Baltimore's Memorial Stadium last December.

Not Happy Accident

Teammate Dave Robinson fell on that fumble — on the Packer 16-yard-line — in the final minute to quash a desperation drive by the Hosses, who had been forging irresistibly down field, to preserve a 14-10 Packer victory.

Reflecting upon that salutary collaboration as he looked to next Sunday's rematch with the Colts in Baltimore, Davis let it be known that it was not merely a happy accident.

"I definitely was hoping to make him fumble when I approached to hit him," Willie explained. "I realized he didn't see me — I was coming in from the blind side — so I tried to pull his arm down at the same time I tackled him to separate the ball from his grasp."

"These things happen so quickly, it's just a reaction thing, of course," he said, but subsequently noted. "I think what we did on that play was part of our alertness."

'Never Quit On A Play'

"Coach Bengtson (defense coach Phil) points out every situation where you can make a big play. And Coach Lombardi always says, 'You never know when the big play is going to come.' "

"That is why the guys hustle — why you never quit on a play — because you never know when that big play is going to come . . What I did in that Baltimore game last year was the outgrowth of our coaching situation . . . It's the thing I've been coached to do."

Someone, Dr. Feel Good soberly ventured, undoubtedly will have to come up with a similar maneuver if the Packers are to get past the Colts come Sunday.

"This year, we'll probably have to have other great plays to beat him . . . Over the years, Unitas has been a very devastating quarterback, and you have to have great plays to beat him."

Although the Packers have beaten the Colts six straight times, the perennial all-pro is confident this knowledge will not influence the world champions' approach — either way.

"Whenever I go out to play a ball club, I don't think about past history," he declared. "You think about what you have today, and what they have today. Past records aren't too important."

The fact that the Packers will be meeting Baltimore only once this season because of the NFL's new divisional alignment also is not likely to change the emphasis on the game, Willie said.

"Whoever you play, you've got to play them with the idea that any team can beat you on that given day."

"And, of course, in this case, there is a real strong rivalry between the teams because we've both always been up near the top . . . Anytime you beat a good ball club, it means something to you."

How, as leader of the platoon, does he evaluate the Pack's league-leading defense? After pondering briefly, the articulate ex-Cleveland Brown replied, "We have some guys who are reaching their peak, some who are going through their peak, and probably others who are leveling off."

"As long as we have the desire and the determination, I don't see why we can't continue to play good defensive football."

"We have great personnel — our cornerbacks (Herb Adderly and Bob Jeter) and our safeties (Willie Wood and Tom Brown) probably are the best in the league."

"As a result, we in the line have confidence that we can go all out to rush the passer because we know we're going to get that extra second from the coverage."

"I think," the bull-shouldered Grambling alumnus summed up, "just playing with each other has given us confidence. I think experience is very important to defense . . . "

Hull Will Set NHL Record On Next Goal

NEW YORK (AP) — The next goal Bobby Hull scores will make him the highest scoring left wing in National Hockey League history.

Chicago's blond bomber hit three times last week and zoomed into a tie for the NHL scoring lead with Montreal's Yvan Cournoyer. Each has 13 points—Hull on nine goals and four assists and Cournoyer on six goals and seven assists.

Hull, who has surpassed hockey's once impregnable 50-goal plateau in each of the last two seasons, now has 379 career goals and is tied with Ted Lindsay for the all-time lead among left wingers.

Three players—two of them from Boston's surprising Bruins—share third place behind Hull and Cournoyer with 12 points apiece. Fred Stanfield with 4-8-12 and John McKenzie 2-10-12 are the Bruins who are tied with Montreal's Jean Beliveau 7-5-12.

The Canadiens' team of Gump Worsley and Rogatien Vachon share the goaltending lead with a combined average of 1.68.

Lamar Hunt Seeks 99-Year Lease for Sports Complex

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Lamar Hunt, owner of the Kansas City Chiefs' American Football League team, has offered to pay over $52 million for a 99-year lease on the proposed twin-stadium Jackson County sports complex.

Hunt would form an operating company to control the entire layout — including the football and baseball stadiums with their removable roof, parking, concessions, and a tract that could be developed for auto racing.

The company would provide office services, advertising, public relations, promotion and season ticket sales for both the Chiefs and the new American League baseball team Kansas City will have in 1969.

The organization would pay $750,000 a year for the original 40-year lease, a 20-year renewal option at $500,000 a year, a second renewal option at $375,000 a year, and a 19-year renewal option for $250,000 a year.

That would total $52,250,000 over the 99 years.

Jackson County voters approved a $43 million bond issue last June to build the sports complex, scheduled for completion in 1970.

Rangers Hand Kings 6-1 Loss

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Kings brazenly romped unbeaten in their first five games in the National Hockey League.

But the expansion club was soundly initiated Tuesday night.

The rough New York Rangers with a 6-1 victory handed Los Angeles its first loss. The Kings have two draws.

The Kings moved to a 1-0 lead after 1:31 of the opening period Tuesday night but from there on New York goalie Ed Giacomin was tough.

The Rangers tied it 1-1 in the second period, and Vic Hadfield and Reg Fleming scored back-to-back goals within 24 seconds. Rod Gilbert capped the New York scoring with his 100th goal in the final minutes of the game.

Bobcats Open League Season

Face Iron Rangers At Home Saturday And Sunday Nights

GREEN BAY — In a mood rare for a coach who lost his opening game of the season, Green Bay Bobcat Coach Peter Buchmann is anxiously awaiting this week's invasion of the Marquette Iron Rangers that will mark the face off of the 1967-68 United States Hockey League season.

The Bobcats dropped a 4-2 decision to the United States Olympic team in an exhibition that opened their campaign Saturday night but Buchmann admitted he was "rather pleased" with the game.

Obviously, however, he will not be so easily satisfied this weekend when Marquette opposes the Cats at 8 p.m. Saturday and again at 7 p.m. Sunday in the Brown County Arena. League play is not exhibition play and the Iron Rangers have been particularly fierce rivals of the Bobcats for many years.

But against the Olympics, Buchmann found his forces "got stronger as we went along, which surprised me considering the small amount of practice we had before the game. I expected the opposite to be true. . .we'd tire as the game progressed. But we really showed hustle and determination."

Praises Blockers

Steelers's Don Shy Top Offensive Player

NEW YORK (AP) — Rookie Don Shy knows how it feels to be a potential goat one minute and a football hero the next.

When the former track star fumbled a New Orleans punt in the fourth quarter Sunday, horns began to sprout. But Shy quickly recovered and, five plays later, scooted 33 yards for Pittsburgh's winning touchdown.

Shy's feat of gaining 108 yards on only 10 carries in the Steelers' 14-10 victory over the Saints, earned him The Associated Press' recognition as Offensive Player of the Week in the National Football League.

The Steelers' No. 2 draft choice (they had traded away No. 1) was a great track star at San Diego State where he competed as a hurdler and also in the decathlon.

Opportunities Developed

Shy started the season as the Steelers' third halfback behind Cannonball Butler and Dick Hoak but has moved up when opportunities developed through injuries and his own ability.

Speaking to staffer Ben Thomas after the game in New Orleans, Shy said, "That was the first time I ever handled a punt." (He fumbled but recovered on the Saints' 48 midway in the last quarter.)

Shy passed on the credit for the winning touchdown run to his blockers. "We trapped the end and I got two great blocks," he said, "one from Earl Gros and another downfield from Roy Jefferson."

Shy got into the game after Butler was injured in the second quarter. He had run only 17 times for 55 yards before Sunday's game but wound up the top rusher of the day.

Milwaukee Gets Boost In Congress

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Baseball-hungry Milwaukee got a boost in Congress and a blast from Chicago Tuesday.

The boost for the city which was stripped of major league baseball after the 1965 season came from seven congressmen, including Sen. Jacob K. Javits and four of his New York State colleagues and Wisconsin Reps. Clement J. Zablocki and Henry S. Reuss.

The congressmen said in a joint statement that the American League should not award baseball franchises to Seattle, Wash., and Kansas City until other cities, specifically Milwaukee, and Buffalo, N.Y., are given a hearing on their franchise applications.

"Although the baseball industry is exempted from the anti-trust laws, Congress has so far permitted it to run its own affairs. But this privilege carries with it the corresponding duty to act fairly and responsibly in the public interest."

In Chicago, P. K. Wrigley, owner of the Chicago Cubs hit at a plan by the Chicago White Sox to play nine American League games in Milwaukee next season. He said it could lead to chaos.

Mead Wildlife Area Draws Many Hunters

By BOB DES JARLAIS
of the Wisconsin Rapids Tribune

WISCONSIN RAPIDS (AP) — More than 2,200 duck hunters from at least 11 states showed up for opening weekend two weeks ago on a relatively new Wisconsin wildlife area that produced a two-day kill of 4,000.

Nine years ago, only 70 duck hunters were on hand on opening day at the George W. Mead Wildlife Area — 25,000 acres of wilderness stretching across 40 square miles of parts of Wood, Portage and Marathon counties.

"The use of the area has grown tremendously," said John Berkhahn, manager of the giant-sized project since its inception in the spring of 1959. "We might have stepped on some toes but this year over 1,400 duck hunters showed up on opening day."

A gift to the Conservation Division of the Department of Natural Resources by its namesake, the Mead Wildlife Area is "certainly one of the finest in the state and probably the Midwest from a waterfowl aspect" in the eyes of its manager.

The original gift of 20,000 acres has grown to approximately 25,000, and 28,000 acres now are in the total purchase proposal plans of the Conservation Division. "But we don't necessarily have to have all of it," Berkhahn said.

More Productive

The 35-year-old Berkhahn, a 13-year veteran of the division rates the Mead Wildlife Area as "a little more fertile and has more productive water" than the nearby Sand Hill Game Farm of Meadow Valley areas.

"It was originally thought of as a refuge, but federal policy is to look at and not touch whereas this area is open to hunting and we welcome all types of use," Berkhahn emphasized.

"Our users include bird watchers, sightseers and berry pickers as well as hunters and, in the long run, they will outdo the chase with a gun."

The wild river valley making up the Mead Wildlife Area is surrounded by fairly intensified farming country and Berkhahn said the division sharecrops the 1,800 acres of farm land included in the area.

The wet marsh, farm and wood covered lands, including 17 water flowages ranging in size from 25 to 1,100 acres, also are peppered with quail, pheasant, ruffed grouse, woodcock, bear, deer, rabbits and squirrels.

"Quite a bit of effort is devoted to these other areas or aspects of the land," Berkhahn said, giving rise to 10,000 duck hunting days, 5,000 small game hunting days, 7,000 for bow and arrow deer hunting and 9,000 for gun deer hunting.

The flowages are all no deeper than two to three feet, but 25 per cent of the entire area can now be flooded. Vehicular travel is prohibited and motorboats are allowed only on the main channel.

"We get a little grumble from the road hunters, but for every one of them there are 500 who like to find a way to get where they want to go," Berkhahn noted.

He said he tries to keep the area as natural, wild and hard to get to as possible.

Known as the Dancy Drainage District in the early 1900s, the area is crossed by the Little Eau Pleine River. During the fires, droughts and floods of the 1930s, much of the land was turned back for taxes before being acquired by Consolidated Papers, Inc.

Twins Hike Prices On Most Seats

MINNEAPOLIS—ST. PAUL (AP) — The Minnesota Twins are raising prices on most seats for the 1968 baseball season at Metropolitan Stadium.

Box seats will be hiked from $3 to $3.50 except for some auxiliary stands along the left field foul line, which remain at $3. All reserved seats in the three-deck structure will go up 25 cents, to $2.75. General admission remains at $1.50. Taxes are included.

The Twins management, announcing the increase Monday, said they were in line with rising operating costs. It is the first increase in admission since the Twins moved here from Washington seven years ago.

Coatta Dejected Over Loss to NU

UW Seems Doomed to One of Worst Seasons

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin Coach John Coatta says it would be difficult to draw comparisons between undefeated Indiana and teams that have tangled with his Badgers so far this season.

That could be good news for Wisconsin fans.

Wisconsin has dropped five games, tied one and is still looking for its first victory as it prepares to take on surprising Indiana at Bloomington.

With each passing Saturday, the odds increase that the Badgers likely will finish with one of their worst seasons since the school first fielded a team in 1889. That year's club wound up 0-2.

Coatta, former star Wisconsin quarterback who is in his first season at the Badger helm, says he believes his club will win yet even though the schedule appears to be getting no easier.

Game at Home

After Indiana Saturday, the Badgers encounter Ohio State, Michigan and Minnesota. Only the Michigan game will be at home.

In their last three games, the Badgers lost 13-11 to Pittsburgh, tied Iowa 21-21, and lost to Northwestern 17-13.

"We thought we could win the last three at home- but we didn't," Coatta said as he reflected on the contests.

Wisconsin's opponents had only a six-point advantage over those three games, 51-45, yet the Badgers were denied victory.

Coatta appeared especially dejected over the Northwestern loss.

"We hit them right up to the last bell," he said. "Our kids, just like the coaches, felt we were going to win it right up to the end. It really hit 'em hard."

Looking ahead to the Hoosiers, Coatta said, "I think we can win. But it's going to be a very difficult chore."

Coatta said Indiana has good speed and has shown it "can do a lot of things offensively" in compiling its flashy 6-0 slate.

The 38-year-old coach said he planned to start quarterback John Ryan despite a less than impressive performance against Northwestern.

Ryan completed only eight of 25 passes for 56 yards. But Coatta attributed the poor average to Northwestern's defense linemen, who twice spilled Ryan for 17 yard losses.

Coatta named defensive tackles Tom Domres and quarterback John Boyajian, Ryan's backup man, as co-captains for the Indiana clash.

Wisconsin owns a lopsided 14-4 edge in he series between the two schools. One game ended in a tie. In their last encounter in 1962, Wisconsin trounced the Hoosiers 30-6.

Travis Williams No Longer Drops 'Loaf of Bread'

GREEN BAY (AP)— The St. Louis Cardinals may have been done in by a rookie with a loaf of bread under his arm when they lost to the Green Bay Packers 21-23 Monday night.

The rookie, Travis Williams, broke open the game with a 93-yard kickoff return that wiped out a Cardinal lead.

Veteran tackle, Henry Jordan, whose locker is next to Williams', told the story:

"Early in the year, he fumbled in practice a couple of times and came back to the dressing room real dejected and disgusted with himself.

"So I said to him, 'Travis, here in Green Bay we don't consider that thing a football. In Green Bay, that's bread. That's 25 Gs. And you know something, he hasn't dropped it since."

Joyce and Tuagy's Gains Seventh Win

KAUKAUNA — Joyce and Tuagy's Bar (7-0) continued its march for the Touch Football League crown with a 26-6 win over Triangle Tap.

The winners scored on four touchdown passes by John Lambie. Two went to Dick Promer.

Giddings and Lewis rolled to a 43-7 win over Modern Bar. Gary Romenesko ran for two touchdowns with pass interception, scored on two passes from Jay Van Thiel and ran for a score to account for five TDs.

St. Pius Wins CAC Flag Football Title

St. Pius (3-0) won the inter-school title in recent Catholic Activities Council (CAC)-sponsored Seventh and Eighth Grade flag football.

Other participating schools were St. Therese, Sacred Heart and St. Joseph. Most of the play was on an intramural basis.

ever, this is the week where a slip could be disastrous.

Minnesota goes to Iowa as a 12-point favorite. Michigan State is at home and rates 14 points over Ohio State. Purdue is at Illinois and a 13-point favorite while Indiana is a 14-point favorite against Wisconsin at Bloomington where Coach Johnny Pont says the fans are pinching themselves to see if it's all true."

Michigan, meanwhile, is at home and hopes to crack a five-game losing streak at the expense of Northwestern which will be a one touchdown underdog.

was injured in the final quarter of last Saturday's game between McAlestre and St. Thomas of St. Paul. He injured the ligaments of his right knee, the one that was operated on a year ago. The cast is designed to strengthen the knee.

Playing for the McAlester varsity team, the 195-pound Terry was leading the Minnesota Intercollegiate Conference in scoring and was the second-best scorer among Minnesota's 17 small colleges. Early in the season, Terry had rushed for 63 yards as McAlester beat St. John for the first time in six years and had gained 107 yards rushing and 81 in pass receiving as his team beat Augsburg, 21-8.

Antigo Back Selected for Preo Award

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Fullback Chuck Schlienz of Antigo, whose line-slashing rushes triggered successive upsets of two of the state's most highly regarded teams, was named Wisconsin high school football "Player of the Week" today.

Schlienz won The Associated Press honor after scoring three touchdowns and four extra points in Antigo's 35-20 surprise of sixth-ranked Madison Edgewood last Friday night.

The defeat was the first imposed on the Crusaders in 19 games.

Schlienz, a 6-foot, 220-pound senior, scored two touchdowns and racked up 120 yards a week earlier in a 19-13 conquest of Schofield, then the state's top-ranked team. He gained 200 yards against Edgewood.

Lakeview, K-C Takes 'Y' Volleyball Lead

Lakeview, Kimberly-Clark won seven of eight games to take the first-week lead in the Appleton YMCA Fellowship Volleyball League. Play resumes tonight.

Appleton Trophy (5 - 3) and Pond's are tied for second in the standings. Reison's (2-6) and Appleton Coated Paper (7 - 1) trail.

Color and Count the Leaves To Win a Magic Trick Set

BY CAPPY DICK

A boxful of Hocus Pocus magic tricks — 20 tricks in all, enough for a complete magic show for family and friends — is the national grand prize in today's easy contest for boys and girls.

Five of these Hocus Pocus sets, manufactured by the S. S. Adams Company, pioneer maker of magical apparatus, will be awarded, one for each of the five neatest, most original correct contest entries received from all the cities where this column is published.

The local prizes will be sets of "mini-tools," five of the tiniest tools that really work — scissors and shears that open and close, pliers that grip, a tiny screw driver and a miniature penknife that opens and closes. These curios may be worn as charms, or carried as pocket pieces.

The contest requires young readers to count and color the leaves in the picture above. Clip out the picture and paste it on paper. Print the correct number of leaves beneath it, along with your name, age, address and zip number. Decorate the entry in any neat original way, using paints, crayons or cutouts. Finally, address it to Cappy Dick's Hocus Pocus Magic Contest at the Post-Crescent and mail it before midnight of day after tomorrow.

Name of the winners will be published here. Their prizes will be sent to them by mail. Judges' decisions will be final. All entries become Cappy Dick's property; none can be returned.

Tomorrow: How to have rocket fun with balloons.

Count and Color

Included in each grand prize will be such classical effects as the Linking Rings and the Rice Bowl. All necessary apparatus plus the performing secrets will be provided.

In addition I will give away 5 local qualifying prizes in each city, including the Fox Cities. These will be awarded to the boys and girls who send in the 10 neatest and most original correct contest entries from each location. Entries winning these local awards will be qualified for consideration by the judges in their search for the five entries deserving the national grand prizes.

Jack Benny Hosts Kraft Music Hall

BY TV SCOUT

8-9 (Channel 5) — Jack Benny stars on The Kraft Music Hall's "Fiddler on the Loose," a splendid potpourri of Beethoven and buffonery, with the accent on the latter. Jack's musical support comes from violinists Michael Rabin and Henny Youngman, cellist Morey Amsterdam, pianist Liberace and vocalist Astrud Gilberto ("The Girl From Ipanema"). There is also a "rock" group called the Blue Magoos. (C)

6:30-7:30 (Channels 11-9) — A very good cast gets "A" for effort on Custer but the show fails anyway. The Colonel is up to his eyeballs in trouble with his travelling companions on a stage coach as well as with the Sioux who attack them. (C)

6:30-8 (Channel 5) — John McIntire makes the first of a series of starring appearances in The Virginian, sitting in for Charles Bickford. He plays Clay Grainger, brother of John and brings along Mrs. Grainger (Jeanette Nolan). The story is about an ex-lawman (John Anderson) whose wife is accidentally killed by a visiting cowhand. (C)

7:30-8 (Channels 2-7) — There isn't too much in the way of situations but there is much good dialogue on The Beverly Hillbillies. It has to do with a real estate salesman summoned by Jed when he takes a notion to buy Granny some bottomland (C)

8-8:30 (Channels 2-7) — Oliver opens up a Pandora's box on Green Acres which he wishes he had left unopened. He realizes he has been paying storage fees for three years on something Lisa bought and he doesn't even know what it is. (C)

8-10 (Channels 11-9) — "The Bedford Incident" on The Wednesday Night Movies is a cold-war thriller about a naval patrol in the North Atlantic starring Richard Widmark as a psychopathic destroyer captain willing to sacrifice almost anything to bring a Russian submarine to the surface. Sidney Poitier plays a reporter-photographer, documenting a "peaceful" naval mission.

9-10 (Channels 2-7) Dundee and the Culhane is loaded with side plots and empty little ploys in too far-fetched situations about the proper art of dueling . . in the old west. Dundee takes the case of a widow who is suing a duelist. He killed her husband and she wants $50,000 in damages. (C)

9-10 (Channel 5) — Comedian Don Rickles turns in a fine dramatic performance on Run For Your Life. Naturally, he plays a comedian, but a has-been who has been accused of assault while on a road tour. When Paul Bryan hears of it and goes to take the case of his friend, he finds the atmosphere in the small backwater town loaded against Rickles. (C)

After 22 Years on the "Ozzie and Harriet Show," Ozzie Nelson returns to straight acting in "The Impossible Years" in the role of Don Defore. Ozzie Nelson Takes To New Comedy Role

'It's a Breeze,' Says Veteran Director, Actor in TV Show for Last 22 Years

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ozzie Nelson, still looking just a few years older than a college sophomore, has returned to the acting game for the first time since the end of his long-run television series.

Ozzie is playing the Don DeFore role as David Niven's next-door neighbor in "The Impossible Years," MGM's version of the Broadway comedy hit.

"It's a breeze," says Ozzie. "For 14 years I directed as well as appeared in our TV show. It's delightful just to read the lines and let someone else do all the work."

In September 1966, "The Ozzie and Harriet Show" went off the air after 22 years of broadcasting—eight in radio. What were Ozzie's feelings?

Getting Difficult

"Mixed," he recalled. "The show was getting pretty diffuse, because of the way the family had grown. We had Ricky and Kris going in one direction, David and June in another, and then there was Harriet and me—the older posse. It was getting harder to hold everything together.

"Also, the boys had their own careers to consider. David did a fine job of directing some of our shows. He did some of the Burl Ives shows, and he was so good they wanted him to direct them all. But he couldn't, because he was tied up on our series.

If the Nelsons had any hurt feelings about being turned out to pasture by ABC, they were assuaged by the fact that they remain on full salary for another three years, then on partial salary for two more. Plus, they are owners-ABC has a 20 per cent share—of the 435 half-hour shows they made over the years.

Not on Rerun

Ozzie shrewdly kept the series off the rerun market. Now he is beginning to release the films.

"To get the project started, I sold the 200 to the local station, KTTV, for five years at a half-million dollars. They're running them every weekday night at 6:30."

What else have the Nelsons been doing since the series went off the air? Ozzie reported that David continues as an actor; he was on the MGM lot for a "Hondo" guest starring. Rich has also done some acting jobs and keeps up his singing career.

"Harriet and I haven't done much, except for a week as co-hosts on the Mike Douglas Show," said Ozzie. "She has a very realistic attitude toward performing: she's a third generation actress, you know. Once when we were talking about the possibility of doing another series, she said, 'Oh, I just couldn't face getting up at 5 a.m. again.'"

Proxmire Blames War, Tax for LBJ Popularity Slump

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said Sunday President Johnson is in a temporary popularity slump because of the Vietnam war and Johnson's proposed income tax increase.

The Wisconsin Democrat made the statement on a Metromedia television-radio program "Opinion Washington."

Proxmire said an improving picture in Vietnam and a refusal by Congress to pass the tax increase would help bring Johnson out of the slump.

"I would hope that the Congress would help him out by not passing his tax increase, and in that case, I think we could have a continuation of our prosperity without serious inflation," Proxmire said. He indicated he felt Congress would be doing the President a favor by refusing the tax boost.

Proxmire said the mounting casualties and increasing costs of the Vietnam war were key reasons for the decline in Johnson's popularity.

Pop Music Gap

Teen-Ager May Not Dig Big Band Era, but Parents Certainly Will

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Gee, dad, what's so great about that?" asks the teen-ager as his father moons over a record of Benny Goodman's "Sing, Sing, Sing."

Nowhere is there more cleavage in the generation gap than in the field of popular music.

Just as the older generation can hear nothing but noise in the electrified music of today, so the youngsters fail to find any magic in the long-ago strains of Goodman, Miller, Dorsey, et al.

But the oldsters have their memories. Now such memories can be bolstered be a comprehensive new book called "The Big Bands," by George T. Simon MacMillan $9.95. The price is steep, but many a middle-aged swing buff will find it worthwhile.

Book on Subject

Simon was in town to talk about his book, and he appears to be a splendid choice for chronicling the big-band era. He started playing drums in high school and at Harvard. He adds, "I was good enough to play in the first Glenn Miller band; but then, he was a good friend, and tolerant as well."

Later he turned to writing about bands for the defunct Metronome magazine. From 1935 to 1955 he reviewed all the great ones. Hence "The Big Bands" is an intensely personal volume, but authoritative as well. In recent years, Simon worked as a television consultant on band shows and now he's executive director of the Recording Academy, which gives out the Grammies.

His credentials are the best, and the book contains just about everything you'd want to know about the band business, then and now. I asked if he had any particular favorites.

Talks About Favorite

"Well, let's see now," he mused. "I guess the band that could do most things well was Tommy Dorsey's. It could handle beautiful ballads with singers like Frank Sinatra and the Pied Pipers; it also had some fine swing musicians like Bunny Berrigan and a great arranger in Sy Oliver.

"But I think the most exciting band was Jimmy Lunceford's. For romantic moods I loved Claude Thornhill's band. Then, of course, you have to recognize Benny Goodman, who started the whole big-band era. And Duke Ellington for his great contributions over a 40-year period. And what about Woody Herman?"

Likes Big Bands

Obviously he is a man who likes bands. Like others of the swing generation, Simon lamented the passing of the big-band business. What killed it? Several things" he explained. "The musicians helped, by their attitude. During the war musicians were scarce and those who remained civilians asked for exorbitant salaries. Those who had been in the service didn't want to travel after the war, and that made it hard to organize a band.

"The sentimentality during the war gave rise to singers like Sinatra, Jo Stafford and Perry Como, and music became more of a vocalists' business. Also the musicians' strike against record companies kept bands from recording for two years.

"Because of economoc factors many of the ballrooms in this country were turned into bowling alleys and other things. Television arrived, and people didn't go out of the house for entertainment any more.

"Will big bands return? Not until there are places for them to play."

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

Right, short periods of time, with a chance to rest in between episodes of concentration, result in more effective learning than does trying to stick to it for too long a time. Studies show that it is better to take a rest or a change of pace to break up a major learning task than to plug away at it without frequent rest periods. For example, six 10-minute intervals of hard practice usually is more effective than one full hour.

Do men want their wives to have lives of their own?

Yes— No—

Yes. A recent men's forum concluded that married life is happiest when neither the husband nor the wife is solely dependent upon the other for fulfillment. When a wife has a life of her own and is capable of developing her own talents and finding fulfillment as a person, she is a more interesting companion and not so demanding of her husband.

Most Americans see themselves as middle-class!

True— False—

False. Two surveys, conducted seven years apart, found that a slight majority of Americans regarded themselves as belonging to the "working-class." In the earlier survey, 51 per cent regarded themselves as working-class people, in the later one, 59 per cent did. Almost none were willing to admit they were "lower-class." It seems likely that many who classified themselves as working-class actually did resemble more the middle-class.

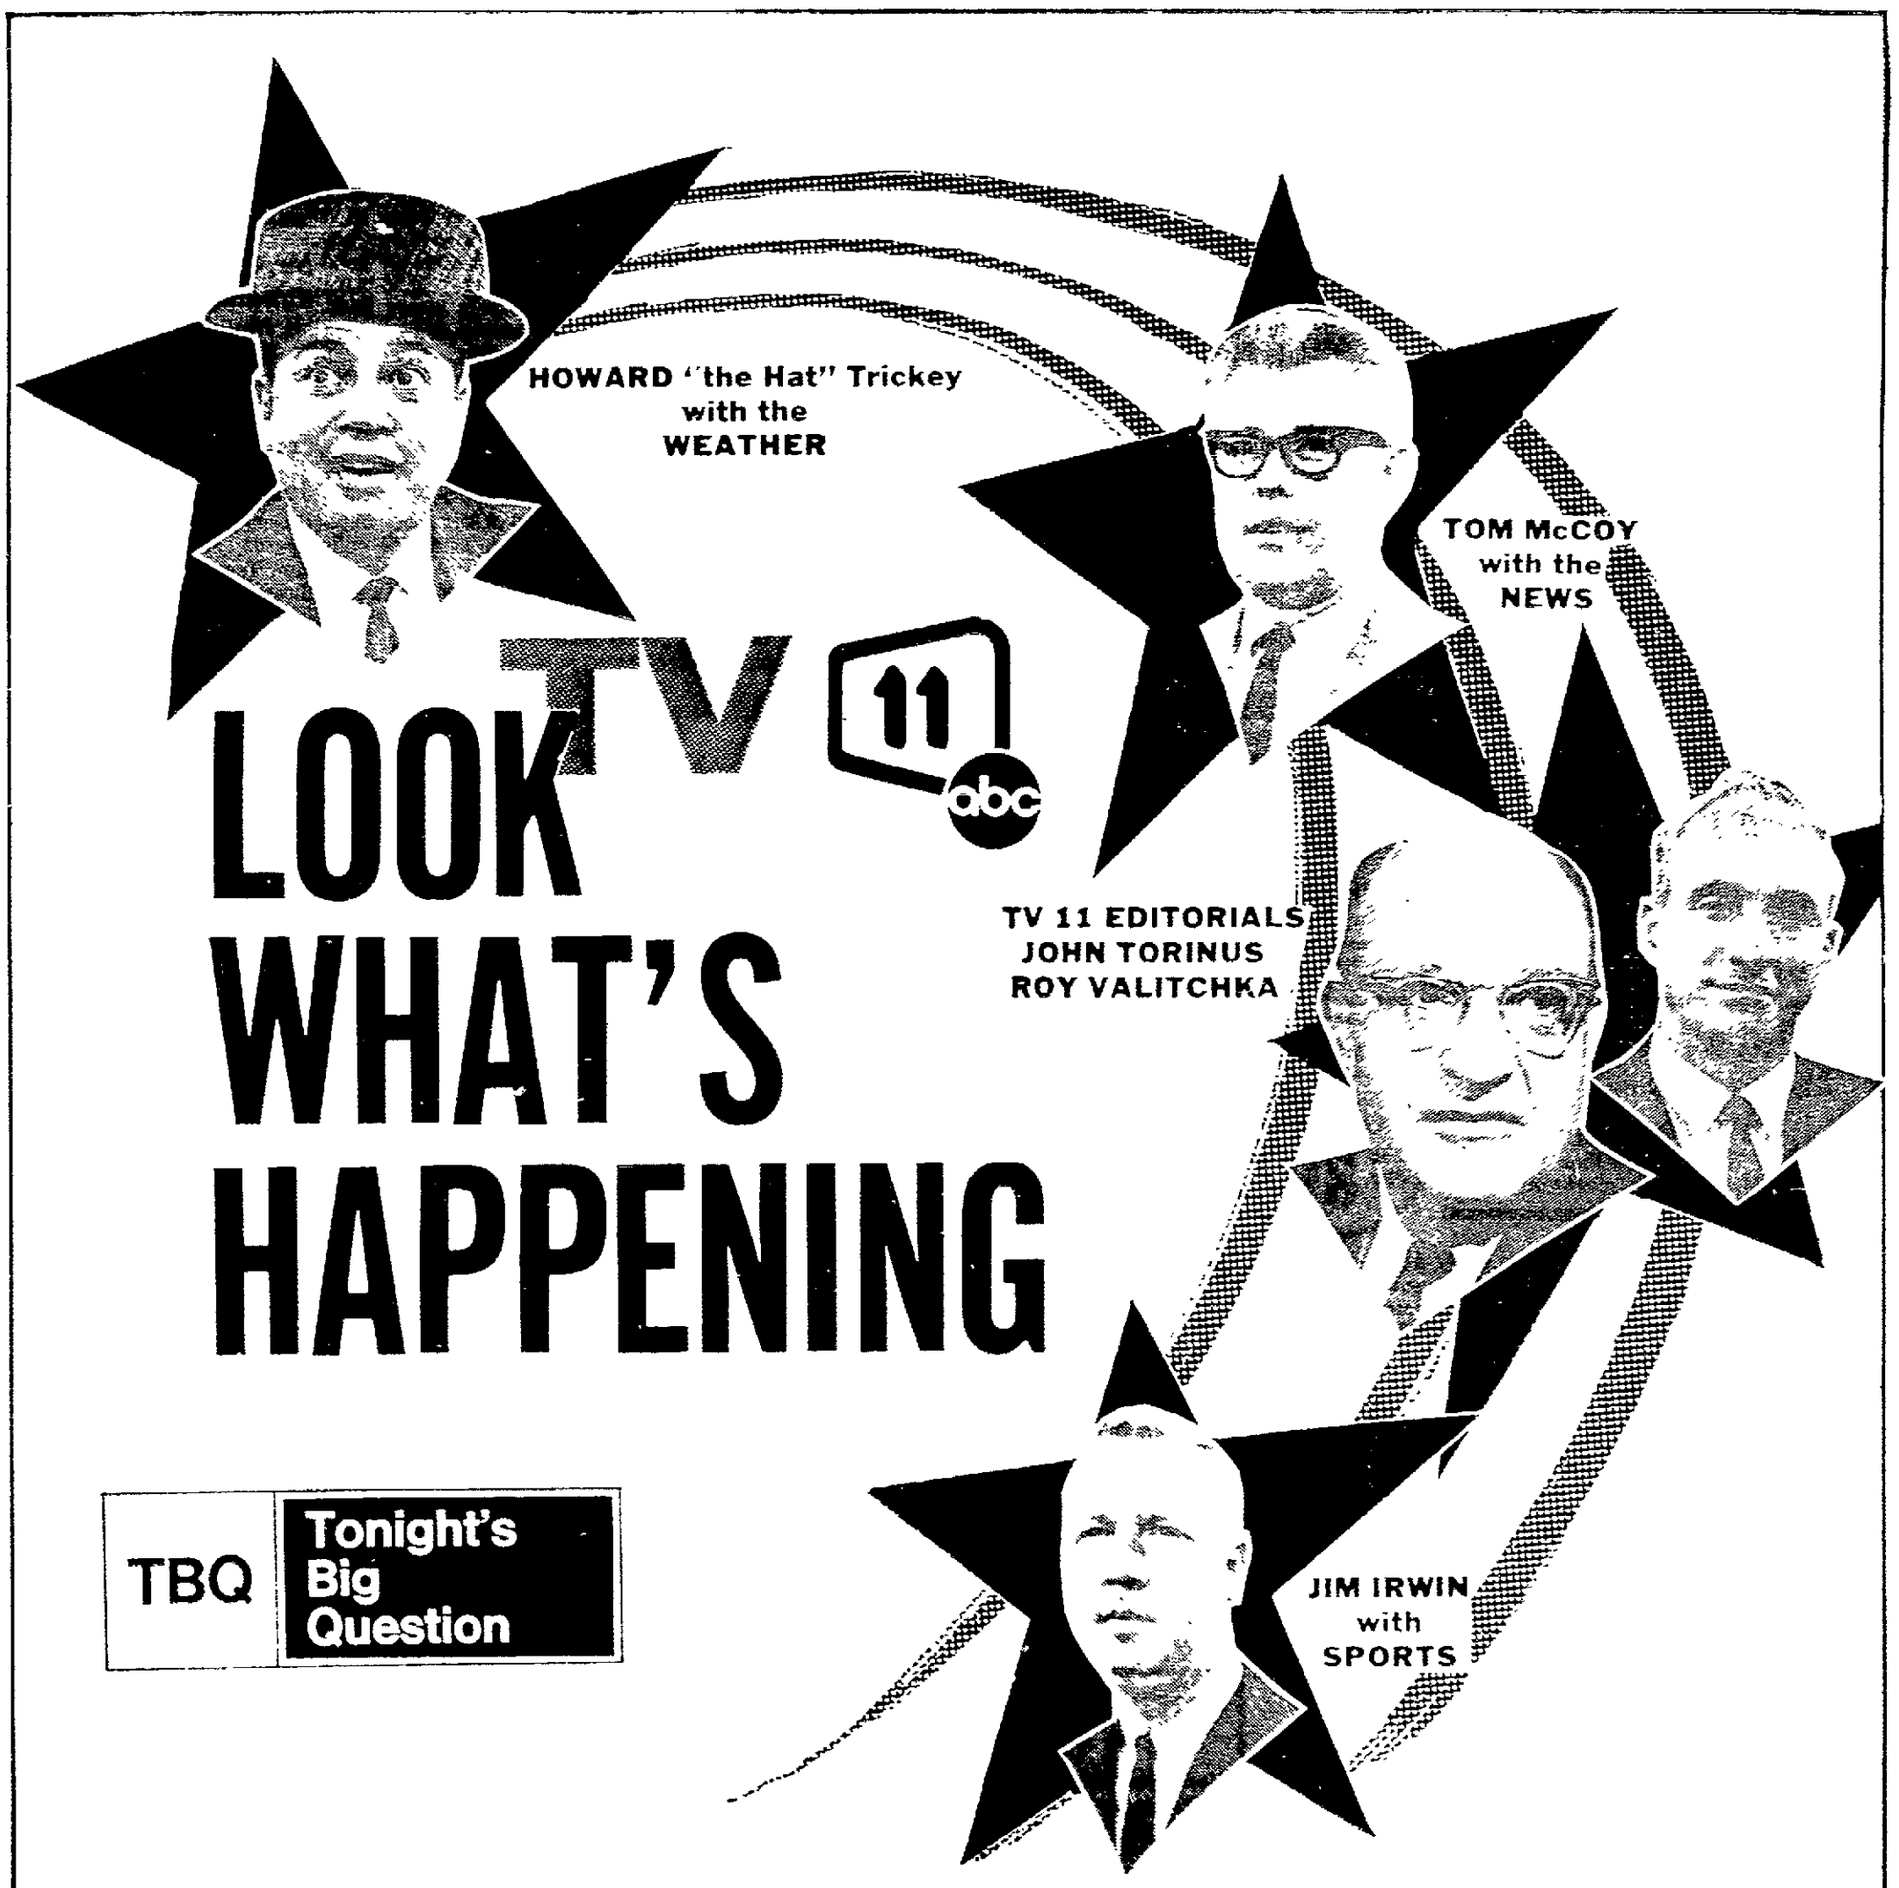

Modern Huck Finns Return to Check on Commotion of Search

HOPEWELL, Va. (AP) — Robert Williams and Lacey Hall, both 14, pushed off on a raft into the James River Friday morning and didn't come back that day, nor the next.

All day Saturday, Civil Air Patrol planes and rescue squadmen searched the river for miles around. Sunday they were joined by the Coast Guard.

And, at 10 a.m., Robert and Lacey turned up—three blocks from their homes here—wondering what all the commotion was about.

Why, said the boys, they had merely floated their raft to a small island and stayed two nights. Then they rode the raft home again.

Search for Bank Holdup Clues Continues

Calumet Authorities, FBI Agents Quiz Residents, Motorists

SHERWOOD — The search continued today for a lone gunman who made good his escape after he robbed the Sherwood State Bank of $9,600 in a mid-afternoon holdup Monday.

Calumet County sheriff's authorities, and agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, were here Tuesday afternoon questioning more people in hopes of finding leads in the case.

Authorities reportedly made a "selective" stopping of vehicles traveling through Sherwood, for the purpose, it was learned, of "making inquiries" as to persons in the bank area at the time of the holdup Monday.

Question Motorists

Most of Tuesday's questioning of motorists was done shortly before and after 3 p.m., the approximate time the bank was held up the previous day.

Although authorities would not state positively if they had new leads after the questioning, Calumet Sheriff Irvan Vice said it was possible the information obtained could be "fruitful." He did not elaborate. Another source hinted authorities might be tracking down leads.

The gunman is believed to have fled the scene in a 1966 or 1967 white Ford, that may have been driven by an accomplice who was waiting outside during the robbery. Authorities said Tuesday there was "strong suspicion" there might have been a second person involved.

Youth, 18, Jailed After Bar Fight

One of two teen-agers involved in a fight Sunday night at Some Place Else Bar, 3240 E. Wisconsin Road, was sent to jail for 30 days, while the second youth, who was injured, was fined $50 and costs or 46 days in jail.

The jail sentence was imposed on Russell Paeth, 18, 1530 E. Glendale Ave., after he pleaded guilty of disorderly conduct. His past record was considered in imposing sentence, the court noted. The court was told that Paeth was involved in a stabbing incident earlier this year near a Town of Grand Chute beer bar.

Paeth was charged in connection with a fight Sunday night that also involved John Clark, 18, 426 E. Coolidge Ave. Clark was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital with a deep face laceration. Clark reportedly suffered the cut when Paeth struck him with a beer glass during a fight at the beer bar.

Clark was fined Tuesday afternoon when he pleaded guilty of disorderly conduct. The youths were charged following investigation by county police.

Cheesemakers Open Parley

Decisions Made at Green Bay Expected To Affect Industry

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — A giant enterprise is represented by the Wisconsin Cheesemakers Association, holding its 76th annual convention in Green Bay today and Thursday.

Because of the state's strong position in the cheese industry, decisions made by the association on policy matters here can be expected to weigh significantly on the entire cheese industry.

The delegates will be asked to act on proposals for limiting and controlling cheese imports. They will also consider marketing and promotional activities, product research, and dairy plant security.

700 Expected

About 700 persons were expected for the sessions this afternoon and Thursday at the Hotel Northland.

Lloyd Dickreli, Junction City, as president of the association, presided at the annual council session this afternoon. An open meeting will be held Thursday afternoon, with a cheese grading clinic scheduled for 10 a.m.

Miss Kristin Williams, as Alice in Dairyland, and Dale Boness, marketing specialist for the State Department of Agriculture, will be guest speakers for the banquet Thursday evening.

Bowlby Candy Denies Plans to Move Business

Owner Recently Established Home In Waupaca Area

WAUPACA — An announcement made here Tuesday that Bowlby Candy Co., Appleton, is moving its candy manufacturing kitchen to Waupaca was premature. There has been no definite decision to move the plant, according to E. J. Bowlby, owner of the firm.

The announcement was made by a radio station.

Bowlby said he had met briefly with members of the Waupaca Industrial Development Corp. and discussed possible locations in Waupaca. "But that is all," he said.

Move Home

"I have moved my permanent home to the Waupaca area and some people have asked me to move my plant. Because of this I met with the industrial group, but any move is still a little far-fetched," Bowlby said.

"I just can't sell a building here and leave the old employes and move out of Appleton," he said.

The site recommended by the industrial group is on the city's west side and would require a considerable amount of fill and removal of trees.

"If anything would develop, maybe someday I would take it into consideration, but I don't want to hurt any of my employes in Appleton and therefore won't make any hasty decision," he said.

Schools Plan Fall Concert At Hortonville

HORTONVILLE — The high school music department here will present its fourth annual fall concert and variety show at 8 p.m., Nov. 9 in the school gym.

Groups participating in the concert will be the junior high chorus, the high school mixed chorus, girls glee club, madrigal group and the newly organized chamber choir.

The first program will feature a "Pops" concert, with Ernest Broenman, band director, acting as guest conductor for the chamber choir on one of the numbers.

Also featured again this year will be two sets of Tinkling Dancers doing a dance with bamboo poles. A group of seventh graders will also perform a routine to the song, "I've Got Rhythm."

The variety show will be enlarged this year and will feature songs and dances from the Gay 90's.

The program will be under the direction of Miss Kay Jacobson, vocal music instructor.

Bunching Expenses Can Reduce Income Tax

BY SYLVIA PORTER
(In collaboration with the Research Institute of America)

If you're among the millions who regularly take the standard deduction, an easy but highly effective way to save on taxes is to try to bunch your actual expense deductions into either 1967 or 1968 so that your actual expenses are higher than your standard deduction and then to take the standard deduction in the other year.

Switch Expenses

Say your adjusted gross income runs about $11,000 a year. Say your annual outlays for real estate taxes, deductible medical expenses, contributions, etc., ordinarily come to about $1,000 a year. Your total actual deductible expenses over two years thus will be $2,000, but since the expenses total about $1,000 each year, you have been taking the 10 per cent standard deduction each year.

But you might be able to switch your expenses so that your actual deductions in either '67 or '68 exceed the standard deduction while your actual deductions in the other year shrink to far below the standard deduction. This will save taxes for you.

Assume you have paid $700 in deductible expenses so far in '67. In December, you receive an extra $600 of deductible bills which you would normally pay in '68. By paying the $600 this year instead, you would be able to deduct $1,500 for actual expenses. Because of this $600 payment this year, your actual deductible expenses would fall to $200 in 1968. So in 1968, you take the 10 per cent standard deduction of $1,000. Your deductions for the two years come to $2,500 instead of the $2,000 you normally would be taking. And all this you achieve simply by paying the $600 one month sooner.

If you cannot pyramid your actual expenses into this year to raise your deductions substantially above the standard deduction, perhaps you can reverse the procedure by postponing as many actual expenses as possible from 1967 until 1968. Then next year you would combine your '68 actual expenses with the postponed '67 actual expenses — and maybe even part of your '69 actual expenses — to bring you over your standard deduction for '68. The actual expenses which would give you no tax benefit in '67 can thus help save taxes for you in 1968.

Medical Costs

Switching medical expense payments between 1967 and 1968 may also save taxes.

In each year, you can deduct only the medical expenses which exceed 3 per cent of your adjusted gross income, which means you completely "waste" your medical expenses if they don't exceed the 3 per cent floor in either year. But if you can shift any medical expense payments from '67 to '68, or vice versa, you may be able to lift them above the 3 per cent limit in at least one of the years. Assuming you itemize your deduction, this will give you a tax benefit from at least part of your medical expense payments. This year, the 3 per cent wastage rule applies to all persons, regardles of age; before this year, persons 65 or over were exempt from the 3 per cent rule. (There's a chance Congress may try to save the exemption for those 65 or over; if it is restored in time for '67 returns, I will cover this in a column later.)

To show you how this shifting can pay off, say your adjusted gross income will be $10,000 in 1967 and $10,000 in 1968. Say you already have spent $300 on medical expenses this year and you plan to have $200 of dental work done in December for which you ordinarily would pay in January. You normally would have another $100 of medical expenses next year. If you pay your dental bill in January, you'll wind up with $300 of actual medical expenses in each year and no deduction in either year.

But if you pay your dental bill just one month earlier in December, you will create a $200 itemized medical deduction for '67 ($500 of this year's expenses less 3 per cent of $10,000). A warning, though, you can't prepay and deduct in 1967 payments for medical or dental work to be done in 1968.

Menasha Man, 43 Injured in Fall

George Hopfensperger, 43, 712 Ninth St., Menasha, suffered a back injury about 9 a.m. Tuesday when he fell at an apartment construction site r N. Mason and W. Bell streets.

He was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital by the fire department rescue squad, and was then transferred by Lindy's Ambulance to Theda Clark Hospital, Neenah.

Firemen said the man was walking on basement floor joists when he slipped and fell about nine feet, apparently striking his back on drain tiles on the basement floor.

Clipping Not Necessary For Tongue-Tied Baby

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Our son was born six weeks early and tongue-tied, although we didn't realize it until the doctor let it slip. The doctor said the cord wouldn't have to be clipped and it shouldn't interfere with his talking or eating.

When we mentioned it to friends they said he would stutter and be unable to talk right later in life. We are so confused we don't know what to believe. — Mrs. D. H.

This condition should be watched for the first year, since some change can occur with growth of the mouth structures. It used to be believed that the cord should be clipped when this was detected, but in more recent years it has become apparent that this is not always so. Sometimes there is enough growth so clipping is not required. Therefore, follow your doctor's advice rather than being worried by what others say. If clipping is necessary, it can be done later.

If the tongue can be protruded to touch the lips or moved sidewise to touch the corners of the mouth, surgery is not necessary. An infant will move his tongue to these areas if they are touched with an object such as a spoon or cotton applicator.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any danger in eating too many eggs? My mother used six dozen eggs last week in her cooking and for meals. I understand that eggs are high in cholesterol and that too much cholesterol can cause heart trouble, gall stones, etc. Is that "true". Are we in any danger? — S. B.

Six dozen eggs for how many people? It is true that eggs contain cholesterol, but so do many other foods. In fact, some cholesterol is necessary for health.

The exact relationship of cholesterol to hardening of the arteries (and hence heart or other trouble) is still the subject of intense study and it probably will be some time before we have positive answers.

The exact relationship of cholesterol to hardening of the arteries (and hence heart or other trouble) is still the subject of intense study and it probably will be some time before we have positive answers.

Personally I see no harm in having eggs in moderate quantities — an egg a day or even two, seems to me to present no peril. I would, however, certainly be cautious beyond that, and not make continued and heavy daily use of eggs. One or two I wouldn't consider heavy use. Half a dozen a day, or any such number, would seem to me to be unwise.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have been keeping company with a man for about a year now. He has asked me to marry him, but now I have found that he has been taking psychiatric treatment at a clinic here.

My mother and dad and son said to marry this man because he has a lot of money; that is, his dad has a business. I could leave him after I married him and received a lot of money. Do you think this would be a safe marriage? — Mrs. E. L. S.

"Psychiatric treatments" is as vague as saying he has been having "medical treatments" for something. This man may have been getting psychiatric help for some relatively minor or even trivial emotional problem. Or he may have some serious personality disorder. You have given me nothing to go on.

There's one thing, though — I hope the man has sense enough not to marry some mercenary person who figures she can get a lot of money from him and then walk out.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have often heard that if a person eats watermelon and then takes baking soda he would die. Is this true? — J. J. B.

No, of course it's not true.

Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Dr. Molner in care of The Post-Crescent for your copy of his booklet, "How To Take Care of Your Heart," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Cabinet-Style Government Urged in State

Governor Asks Historic Move Of Rules Groups

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — Gov. Warren P. Knowles moved Tuesday to install the cabinet-style government, first in the history of state administration, that was blueprinted in the Kellett Reorganization Act adopted by the Legislature several months ago.

In letters to the eight major state service and regulatory organizations reformed and broadened under the reorganization, Knowles asked for reports by Nov. 15 on experience thus far, problems that require his personal attention, and such modifications by administrative rule or legislation that may be required in the event conditions change.

Follow Purpose

Announcing that after the turn of the year he proposes to meet with the major cabinet-level department chiefs at intervals of two weeks, he made it clear that he intends to follow the purpose of the Kellett law to provide a closer opportunity for the governor to follow day to day operations of the major programs to fulfill his duties as the state's constitutional chief executive.

The Knowles "cabinet" members will be Wayne F. McGown, administration; Don N. McDowell, agriculture; Wilbur Schmidt, health and social services; Joseph C. Fagan, industry, labor and human relations; Douglas Welford, local affairs and development; L. P. Voigt, natural resources; James R. Morgan, revenue, and G. H. Bakke, transportation.

State Services

The policy meetings, the governor said, would enable him to keep closely informed on major state services, while providing opportunity also for improved mutual understanding by the ranking officials involved who under previous administrative systems were often isolated from each other.

Knowles said he is delighted with the team of administrators that has been put together under the reorganization law.

But he urged his subordinates, all of whom owe their jobs to his pleasure and do not have statutory tenure, to reassess goals, objectives and programs for the next 14 months, referring to the length of his own remaining term.

"All of us have the opportunity to give a new breadth of leadership under our modernized structure that will have a far-reaching impact in our concern to administer the state in a responsible and meaningful manner," he wrote.

Winners, who will receive cash awards as well as an opportunity to appear twice with the orchestra, were Timothy Mueller, pianist; Lise Shearer, violinist; and Young, a clarinet student of Dan C. Sparks at the Lawrence Conservatory.

Young is from Des Plaines, Ill., and is a member of the Lawrence band and orchestra.

Giddings & Lewis Report Business Increase in '67

Giddings & Lewis Inc. has reported record sales and earnings for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1967, the Kaukauna firm has announced.

Figures released by Ralph J. Kraut, chairman of the board and chief executive officer, show net shipments for the nine months were $60,588,000, nine per cent above the $55,438,000 for the same 1966 period. Unaudited net income after taxes amounted to $3,580,00, up 16 per cent over the $3,081,000 for the first three quarters last year.

Earnings per share were $2.41, down slightly from the $2.46 reported for the same 1966 period. Kraut said the decrease was due principally to increased average shares outstanding as a result of the sale of previously unissued common stock. Average shares outstanding were 1,485,000 in 1967 and 1,250,675 in 1966.

"Our backlog of unfilled orders rose to $91,266,000 at the end of the third quarter, up from $81,777,000 at the same time last year," the chairman said. "Net new orders were $63,583,000 compared with $85,685,000 for the same 1966 period."

Kraut said, "The continued strength of orders as well as an expected increase in the rate of shipments during the fourth quarter indicate another good year for the company."

Heavy Guard Greets Humphrey on Arrival In Malaysian Capital

Flies Over Battle Zone In Vietnam

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey arrived in the Malaysian capital from Saigon today as hundreds of steel-helmeted riot police guarded against a repetition of the violence that broke out during President Johnson's visit last October.

Humphrey's effigy was hanged in Penang, a hotbed of leftist activity 180 miles to the north, a few hours before he arrived in a big U.S. Air Force jet.

Some 200 youths massed in downtown Kuala Lumpur Tuesday night but scattered when riot police arrived.

Half an hour before Humphrey's arrival 100 young members of the left-wing opposition Labor Party paraded along a main street with "Humphrey Get Out" banners but dropped their signs and walked away when a light drizzle started.

The Labor party has charged that Humphrey will try to involve Malaysia in the Vietnam war. However, Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman gave assurance Tuesday that the government would not send troops to Vietnam although it would continue to train South Vietnamese police officers.

Little Fanfare

Humphrey's arrival was accompanied by little fanfare. An elaborate ceremony including the traditional reviewing of a guard of honor was canceled

New Political Storm

Britain's Brown Orders Publisher to 'Shut Up'

LONDON (AP) — Foreign Secretary George Brown was at the center of a new political storm today after telling the nation's biggest publisher "it is about time you shut up" and calling British newspapers "the most prostituted press in the world."

There was a demand from the Conservative opposition that Prime Minister Harold Wilson fire Brown.

"Enough is enough," said Duncan Sandys, a member of the Conservative Party government that Wilson's Labor Party unseated three years ago. "For the sake of Britain's good name, Mr. Wilson has a duty to make a change."

Brown turned on Lord Thomson of Fleet at a banquet the publisher gave for American executives Wednesday night, then later waded into a 10-minute row with newsmen covering the banquet.

Starts With Joke

Brown's outburst apparently was set off by a joke Thomson made in introducing him

According to the London Daily Express, the joke concerned a George Brown who was advised by his doctor that if he wished to live to be 100 years old he should give up smoking, drinking and women.

The point of the story was that even if the patient did not live that long, in these circumstances it would seem like 100 years.

Brown hit right back, putting aside his prepared text to attack the Canadian-born publisher, apparently for a series of articles his London Sunday Times is running about Harold Philby, the former Foreign Office man who spied for the Soviet Union for 30 years until he defected to Moscow in 1963

Thomson tried to interrupt him but Brown silenced him with, "I didn't interrupt you.

'Great Disservice'

"You are doing—your papers are doing under your control—a very great disservice to this country and a very great disservice to the affairs which we ought to be controlling," Brown said

"I am your guest but I must make this quite clear: I think you are overdoing it and I think it is about time you stopped

"It is about time we stopped giving the Russians half a start on what we are doing. It is about time you shut up

"If you don't want to be a Cyrus Eaton..." and here Brown went back to his prepared speech on "Britain in a Changing World." He made no further reference to Eaton, the American industrialist who has maintained close contacts with Kremlin leaders.

Thomson, who publishes a number of papers in the United States, took the attack with good humor.

He told his guests: "We don't always take George very seriously, and now you have a very good picture of the man who is foreign secretary of this great country, the Right Honorable George Brown."

When newsmen approached Brown for confirmation that his attack on Thomson had been prompted by the Philby disclosures, a 10-minute scene followed, terminated by Brown's calling the newsmen "the most prostituted press in the world," a quote from the late Labor Party leader Aneurin Bevan.

Brown has long been angry with the British press for its comments about what it calls indiscretions his drinking has led him into. He was enraged by newspaper photos in September showing him frugging at a party in New York, and at a subsequent Labor Party ball he and his wife ran out when cameramen besieged them.

Americans Liked, America Disliked

Europeans Find Much Fault With U. S. Policies, but Stay Grateful

By JAMES F. KING

LONDON (AP) — The image of the efficient American is as bright as ever in European eyes—but the image of the United States is clouded and confused.

The war in Vietnam, a summer of riots and reports of an alarming crime rate have raised mixed reactions and emotions

"You people have taken over the world leadership we once had and you're welcome to it, mate," a Cockney cabbie in London tells his American passenger

A Gaullist Cabinet minister in Paris warns against "the Americanization of French life"

An Italian clerk in Rome says: "I feel sorry for the Americans and we owe them so much."

British officials feel the United States is preoccupied with promoting its own interests, notably in Asia where the chief challenge has arisen.

On the economic front, there is concern that huge U.S. companies will gain control of science based industries that hold the key to West Europe's future

Sir Paul Chambers, head of Britain's giant Imperial Chemical Industries and an advocate of British entry into the European Common Market, warned against U.S. domination becoming "a menace to the whole economy of Western Europe."

Britons still look at the United States as the land of opportunity. But there's still plenty of criticism

One British reporter, after a 6,000-mile trip through the United States, reported that he found "confusion, irritation, bewilderment"

"Attitudes are hardening," he said. "There is less tolerance"

Nevertheless, more than 6,000 scientists, technologists and engineers—along with scores of doctors—left Britain last year for the United States for more money and better chances of promotion.

Brain Drain

A government report, while expressing concern about the "brain drain," quoted one aeronautical engineer who emigrated as saying about Englishmen working with him: "Almost without doubt, all would prefer life in England. This is a cultural wilderness."

Ken Mills, 45-year-old aviation expert, emigrated to the United States last year, began making more money than ever before in his life, but still came home again. He told friends: "My younger son could not join us in America without the risk of being called up for Vietnam."

A recent public opinion poll showed 63 per cent of Britons questioned were against taking sides in any major world crisis that brought the threat of war between the United States and Russia.

But while British are looking more to Europe, the Guardian said in a recent editorial: "Our links with the United States must remain."

'Kind of Different'

To Eileen Grant, 19-year-old stenographer, "Americans seem kind of different from us—terribly serious about some things that aren't important to us, like the fuss over the Beatles saying they were more popular than God. As if it really mattered."

American prestige in France is probably lower than it has ever been. The Frenchman seldom carries over his resentment against "America" to the individual "American."

President Charles de Gaulle is waging, with some success, a systematic campaign to undermine the moral credentials of the United States and pledging to keep France independent of "American hegemony."

The Vietnam war has provided De Gaulle his biggest weapon. The overwhelming majority of Frenchmen—remembering their defeat in Indochina when

Playground Fall Fatal to Neenah Boy

6-Year-Old Slips On Monkey Bars Prior to School

NEENAH — A six-year-old school boy died early this morning after falling from monkey bars in the playground area of Roosevelt School.

Richard Elbe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emory Elbe, 236 Grant St., was dead on arrival at Theda Clark Memorial Hospital around 8:30 a.m.

The boy was playing with other youngsters a few minutes before school started today. Witnesses said the boy was climbing to the top of the monkey bars when he slipped and fell to the concrete.

He was knocked unconscious by the fall, according to school officials. Several of his companions called Mrs. Laura Fry, the first grade teacher, who rushed to the scene to apply mouth-to-mouth resuscitation

The Neenah Fire Department ambulance carried the boy to the hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

Firefighters Get Aid From Weather

ORANGE, Calif. (AP) — An encouraging weather forecast heartened crews today trying to surround brush and timber fires that have burned 140,000 acres in Southern California.

Four deaths are attributed to the fires. Structural damage has exceeded $4 million.

Rising humidity and an influx of cool, marine air were expected to aid hundreds of weary firefighters.

The fires, erupting Sunday, were whipped by dry winds gusting up to 100 miles an hour as humidity dropped in some areas to 1 per cent. But the wind died down to breezes Tuesday.

Most of the blazes were reported near containment

Pair Charged With Holdup in Illinois

LA PORTE, Ind. (AP) — Two men wanted in a suburban Chicago bank robbery in which two policemen were slain were seized Tuesday night at a lake cottage used by one of them as a hideout 11 years ago.

A posse of federal, state and county police officers, acting on a tip, went to the cabin and arrested Clifton O. Daniels, 29, Wilmington, Ill., and Henry M. Gargano, 35. Gargano was found in bed, seriously wounded and "too weak to move."

Two women in the cabin at Fox Lake 12 miles southeast of this northern Indiana city also were arrested. Police identified them as Mary F. Cook, 30, and Annette Gargano Leonardo, 29, both of Lemont, Ill.

Recover Money

Daniels and Gargano were charged in the $80,783 holdup Friday of a Northlake, Ill., bank. The FBI said most of the loot was recovered in the cottage

A gun battle at the bank between police and the three masked robbers killed officers John J. Nagle Jr., 31, and Anthony P. Perri, 41. Two other policemen were wounded along with Ronald D. Rams, 35, one of the robbers who was charged with two counts of murder

About 17 officers went to the lake cottage. Most summer cottages at the resort were vacant.

FBI agent Harold A. Berger of South Bend, who led the raid, said the cabin was owned by Gargano's grandfather and that Gargano "used it as a hideout in 1956 after a bank robbery in Francesville, Ind."

Berger said lights were seen inside. Using a bullhorn, he ordered the occupants to come out with their hands up. The two women came out first and related that Gargano was wounded

Daniels backed out as instructed. He was grabbed by FBI agent Eugene Norris who quoted him as saying, "We don't want any trouble." "They came out just as instructed," Berger said. "We had apprised them the place was surrounded and there was no avenue of escape."

State police said two guns, both loaded and cocked, were on a bed stand beside Gargano, "but he was too weak to reach them."

Papers, Buses Halt in Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati was hit with double trouble today

The city of about 500,000 population was without newspapers and without city bus service

A shutdown of the city's two daily newspapers started Monday with a strike by photoengravers which then spread to other unions. Today 800 members of the Amalgamated Transit Union struck the Cincinnati Transit Co. in another contract dispute.

The transit strike, the first in 54 years here, caused massive traffic jams on a rainy morning as workers had to use private transportation to get to their jobs

Assembly Dilutes Highway Measure

Agrees to Increase State Patrol By 55, Inspect Some Vehicles

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin assemblymen, balking at a proposal to hike the State Patrol force by 100 men, have approved a lesser increase in a key highway safety program bill.

On a lopsided 96-2 vote, the Assembly forwarded the measure to the Senate Tuesday. The bill calls for a 55-man increase in the State Patrol and random inspection of motor vehicles

Neither provision is as strong as the one proposed last spring by Gov. Warren P. Knowles, who had sought a 100-man increase and mandatory inspections.

Major Setback

Knowles suffered a major legislative setback when he lost his highway safety program on a 44-45 vote in the Assembly

Backers of the program have decided in the current fall session to separate the safety issues into separate packages

Heated debate preceded successful attempts to slash the size of the proposed State Patrol increase.

"If you don't want state cops on the highways, then you shouldn't have any state speed laws," argued David Obey, D-Wausau, assistant minority leader.

Assemblyman G. K. Anderson, R-Waupaca, countered that local law officials could handle the job of law enforcement. He said he felt there already were sufficient numbers of state officers.

Under the bill, 18 of the added patrolmen would be assigned to inspection teams for random vehicle inspection.

Legislative approval would be required for certain changes in standards for vehicle inspection after Jan. 1, 1969.

The Assembly defeated attempts to specify the number of unmarked patrol cars that could be used by officers in patrolling the highways

Calls Columnist Liar

Reagan Raps Report of Homosexuals on Staff

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan has denied a report by syndicated columnist Drew Pearson that two former members of Reagan's staff "were engaged in homosexual activities."

"He's lying," Reagan told his regular weekly news conference Tuesday. Once he pounded the speaking rostrum with his fist

"I'm not going to dignify Drew Pearson by even attempting to answer anything as scurrilous and as ridiculous as this report."

In a statement issued in Washington, D.C., Pearson said "the facts in this case are incontrovertible and he knows it."

The column was published in some newspapers Tuesday but others did not print it. Pearson did not name anyone to whom he referred. At Reagan's news conference, which lasted 15 minutes, no one was named

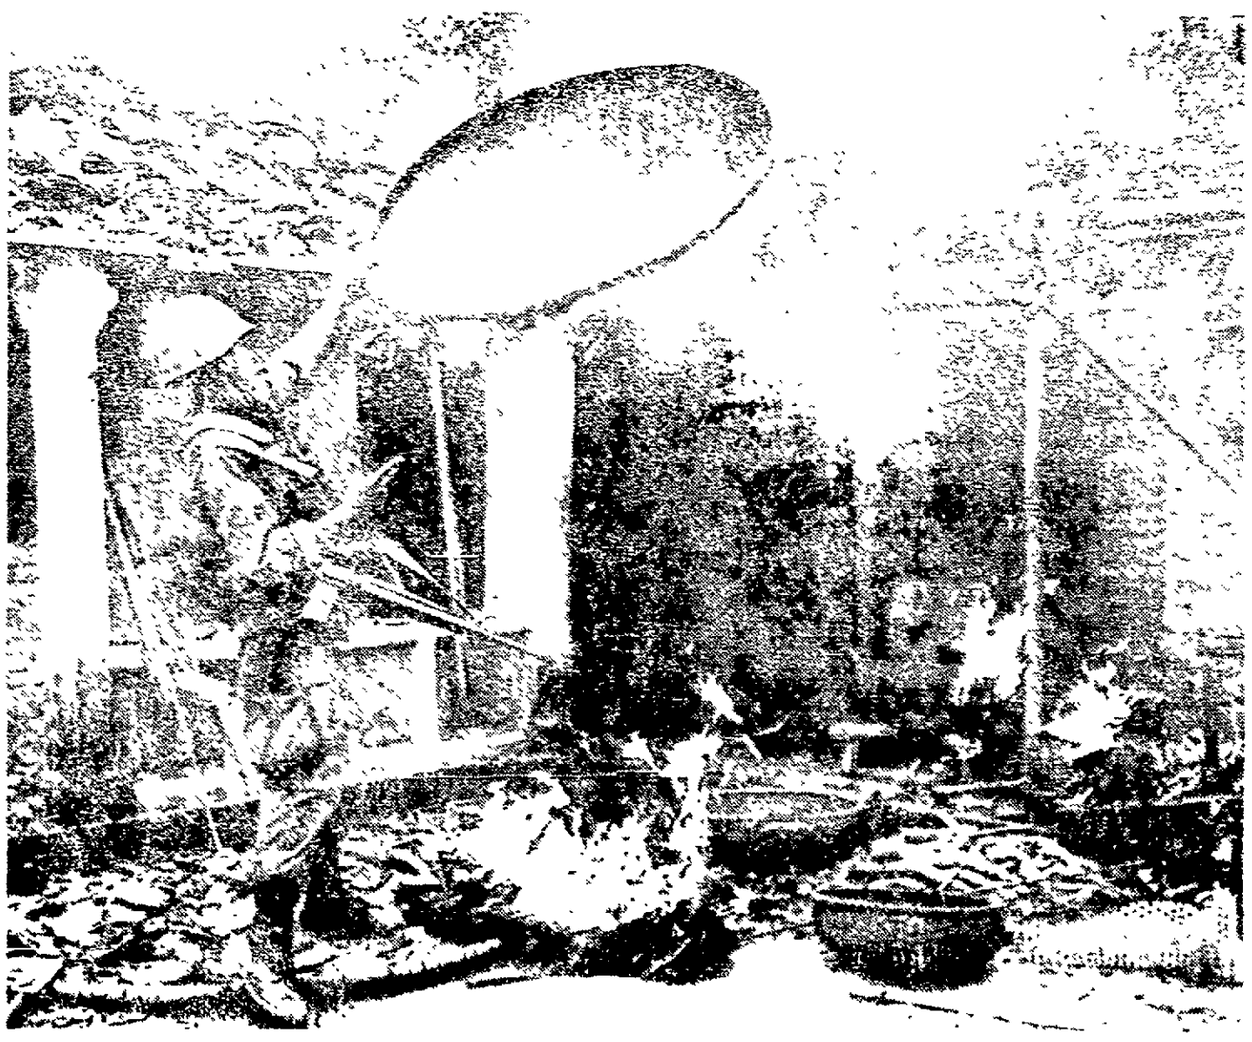

'Twisting Facts'

The columnist said Reagan "has the happy faculty of twisting the facts to suit his own end." He said Reagan "has been posing as Mr. Clean and yet tolerated two homosexuals on his staff for approximately six months and did not act regarding them until he was pressured."

"I am not interested in the men concerned," said Pearson. "They are unfortunate victims of a disease and should be given psychiatric care but the public is entitled to know the facts about a man who has ambitions to become president of the United States."

Police Suspect Father In Deaths of 7 Children

ARCADIA, Fla. (AP) — DeSoto County Sheriff Frank Cline said today a motive—a father's anticipated collection of life insurance benefits—had been established in the insecticide poisoning deaths a week ago of seven children

Cline told a news conference he was flying to Jacksonville to arrest Clare the previous deaths of five other children of James Richardson, a citrus packer held here on a child neglect charge

Cline said he had information that five of Richards's children, aged five months to seven years, died in Jacksonville "over the past few years."

The sheriff said he would leave Arcadia immediately after a coroner's inquest Thursday.

'Going to Burst'

"The motive was remuneration for life insurance, the cause of death was eating something which contained parathion which was in the pots of food when the children licked clean at noontime the day they died," Cline said

DeSoto County Judge Gordon Hays, present at the news conference, told newsmen Cline "feels like this is going to burst wide open."

Cline said he had no immediate word whether the cause of death of the children in Jacksonville was accidental. The sheriff said the children were Richardson's by a previous marriage.

Richardson, 32, was originally booked into county jail Tuesday night on a charge of first degree murder but later warrants were issued charging him and his wife, Annie Mae, 29, with child neglect

Judge Hays said bond was set

Private Money Promised For County Park Purchase

Ask County For $75,000 In Budget

A minimum of $25,000 in private funds was promised Tuesday by Gordon Bubolz toward the purchase of Mosquito Hill for an Outagamie County Park. At the same time, Bubolz urged the county board's Executive Committee to restore at least $75,000 to the 1968 county budget for the same purpose.

Bubolz, chairman of the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission, told the committee that citizen support is being engendered for the project and that a "1,000 acre club" is being considered. Citizens would become members of the club by donating money sufficient to purchase one acre of park land.

Monday Meeting

He said an informational meeting has been scheduled for 8 p.m. Monday at the Outagamie County Bank to acquaint citizens with park programs and needs for the county with the possibility of creating a park and recreation conference of citizens.

Bubolz did not tie the private funds to the county also appropriating funds but indicated this would be considered. Supv. Joseph DeBruin, Town of Buchanan, chairman of the Parks and Recreation Committee and a member of the Executive Committee, asked Bubolz "if we get $75,000 (in county funds), how much can we expect in private funds?" Bubolz replied with "a minimum of $25,000."

Was 'Stunned'

Bubolz said he had been "stunned" to learn that the committee had cut the $150,000 request of the parks committee from the proposed budget.

The Finance Committee had cut the request from the budget but had indicated the Parks Committee could go to the contingency fund later in the year for money if options on the Mosquito Hill land were picked up and the county board went along with purchase plans.

Lawcon Funds

Anticipated $75,000 in matching Land and Water Conservation (LAWCON) funds also were deleted from the budget although DeBruin said Tuesday they do not anticipate any problems in getting the funds.

Board Chairman Sylvester Esser, Appleton, stood fast against any effort to have the Finance Committee restore the funds to the budget. He said the Parks Committee could bring in a resolution from the floor next week to have the entire board put the money back in.

Bubolz termed Mosquito Hill as the only outstanding area in the county for year-around park activity.

Intensions Announced

Romney Plans to Sample Winnebago GOP Climate

OSHKOSH — Gov. George Romney of Michigan, an early rider on the Republican presidential nomination merry-go-round, will swing into Winnebago County next week to take a grab at the brass ring of county GOP support.

Although not yet an officially announced candidate, Romney has said he intends sometime in November to make his formal declaration.

Wilbur Renk, Sun Prairie, chairman of the Wisconsin Romney for President Committee, has announced Romney's appearance Wednesday, Nov. 8, the end of a two-day swing into this state's crucial nomination campaign grounds.

Wallace Zahn, Oshkosh, chairman of the Winnebago County organization backing Romney, said the appearance is slated for 7:30 a.m. at the Pioneer Marina.

The event will be co-sponsored by the local Romney organization and the county Republican Party. With tickets priced at $2.50 each, neither group expects to profit from the appearance, spokesmen said today.

According to Renk's announcement, Romney is also slated to address LaCrosse County GOP partisans Tuesday morning at a similar breakfast session, make a major speech at Madison during the afternoon to University of Wisconsin students and later attend a private get-together with his state campaign organizers. Other activities are being planned, Renk said.

Official state GOP policy requires official units of the party including the county organizations to stay clear of supporting any of the several probable contenders for the nomination in next April's presidential primary election.

However, each of the candidates is to be given every courtesy and all the public exposure he desires, local officials explained. "We are to expose them and expose them only," was the way Robert Stauffer, Oshkosh, Winnebago County GOP chairman explained the rules set down by state chairman Ody Fish.

Romney is the first of the several frequently mentioned individuals likely to have their names on the GOP ballot next spring who has scheduled an appearance in Winnebago County. He appeared earlier this year just outside Appleton in this county, but as a guest of Outagamie County Republicans.

Changes in the state's primary laws have made Wisconsin even more significant as a pre-party convention battleground.

Since all commonly recognized candidates will be listed on the primary ballot unless they deny in writing that they want the nomination, it is likely that all the serious candidates will appear in the state. Fox Valley voters, as residents of one of the state's more populous regions, can expect to get first-hand looks at most candidates between now and April.

Appleton Store Owner Dies Unexpectedly

George A. Wohlford, 57, 700 S. Memorial Drive, owner of Wohlford's Fashion Corner, died unexpectedly Tuesday morning shortly after he was admitted to St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps said that a post-mortem examination would be held to determine cause of death. The Brettschneider-Trettin Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements, which are incomplete.

The Appleton Fire Department rescue squad took Wohlford to the hospital about 9:35 a.m., shortly after his wife found him lying on the kitchen floor.

Wohlford, who was born in Kansas, was an Appleton resident for several years.

VTE-12 Levies Leave Trail of Protest in Counties of Fox Valley

Sharp increases in vocational training levies have left a trail of protest from town to city halls throughout four Fox Valley counties.

And there were reports here Monday that disenchantment with the reorganization of vocational school programs is snowballing in the state.

Elected city, village and town officials — fearing major property tax increases — say they are for vocational education but not the big tax bite it now will require under district setups.

This was a sampling of the opinion expressed when a meeting was held here by representatives of a four-county region.

Compare Levies

Officials compared tax levies of the old system with the new (1967 and proposed for 1968).

Appleton, for instance, reported the levy for vocational purposes this year about $30,000 and next year the new area board seeks $376,478. "It's just plain murderous and the people can't stand it," was the way Mayor George Buckley put it.

The only exception to the general pulse was the position of City Manager Angus Crawford, Oshkosh, who abstained from voting on a resolution calling for the area vocational board to revise its budget.

The Oshkosh levy increased only $40,000, it was noted.

There was criticism aimed at school boards and superintendents and in the direction of Madison, the claim being made that the state shifted some funds away from local municipalities

Laird Urges Dairy Farmers to Organize for Political Muscle

Congressman Asks Co-Ops to Support Dairy Stabilization Bill

FOND DU LAC — Speaking with the voice of a united minority could give the American farmer some of the political muscle he needs in Congress, 7th Dist. Rep. Melvin Laird, R-Marshfield, told delegates to the 38th annual meeting of Pure Milk Products Co-op (PMPC) here Tuesday.

He called for support from PMPC for the Laird - Proxmire dairy stabilization bill which Laird has introduced in every Congressional session since 1956.

He urged the farmers to unite behind a national dairy marketing organization as the "best way to insure a bright future." Laird said the milk withholding action of a few months ago dramatized this need on a national scale.

Best Way Out

"With more and more farmers being driven off the land in this period of profitless prosperity, the major farm groups hopefully will unite behind this proposal." He felt such an organization was the best way out for the farmers' "present economic difficulties."

He said recent action by the tariff commission on dairy imports showed what the industry could accomplish with a united front.

Laird's bill would establish a dairy stabilization board elected by the nation's milk producers. The board would establish a two-price system to guarantee a minimum price of 90-100 per cent of parity for all milk sold for domestic consumption while surplus milk would be sold at a price not to exceed the actual disposal price on foreign markets, industry or feeds.

Base Quota

Milk producers would be assigned a base quota on the basis of his average production during the preceding three - year period.

President Paul Affeldt of Sparta asked the membership to join organizations in promoting increased use of dairy products and urged them to put time, effort and dollars into the battle to fight these imitations."

He termed dairy import control legislation a "must" and indicated it may be introduced as an amendment to some other bill in the future.

Affeldt was skeptical of merger talks because none had shown the "benefits that producers would gain." He promised, however, to continue keeping abreast of changes along this line in the industry.

General Mgr. William Eukles said PMPC must expend its activities into research and promotion on dairy products and find new uses for milk products. Controling imports and imitations also is important, he said.

"Control of pollution and more strict security regulations on buyers will force consolidations and larger, more efficient processing and milk assembly facilities," he said.

He saw more consolidation of milk orders on a regional basis and called for similar order provisions. He felt an order for manufactured milk was especially needed.

Milk Co-Op Rejects Merger With PMA

Angry President of PMPC Asks Economists to Explain Benefits

FOND DU LAC — An angry President Paul Affeldt lead a majority of delegates at the 38th annual meeting of Pure Milk Products Co-op (PMPC) here Tuesday, to dump a proposed study aimed at a future merger of PMPC and Pure Milk Association (PMA) of Chicago, another major Midwest dairy bargaining cooperative.

A number of operating dairy cooperatives are associated with PMA in the marketing of fluid milk in Chicago.

By their vote, the delegates turned a deaf ear to an earlier plea voiced by 7th Dist. Rep. Melvin Laird, R-Bear Creek, that the agricultural industry join together for a common purpose or lose what little voice it has in Congress.

Proposed Study

Delegates Roy Kirchner and Gilbert Reopke of the Clintonville local had proposed formation of a committee composed of a delegate from each local plus the state board of directors, and representatives of PMA, to study the matter in hopes of deriving more member benefits. The findings would have been presented in detail to the membership before any decision was reached.

The proposal was twice presented and twice tabled by split votes.

When Kirchner charged the state board had refused to meet with PMA, Vice President Don Uehlman retorted that meetings over the past 20 years had produced few results.

Affeldt, in reference to a recent meeting with dairy economists from Midwest universities, said their plans would have provided for officers of the cooperatives concerned, but offered no promise of help to the producers. "Until such time as the economists can come up with an idea that you, the backbone (dairy farmers), can get something (from mergers) why are you in such a hurry for merger," he demanded.

Directors Split

The proposal found some of the directors split on the issue. One felt conditions couldn't improve, while two major organizations selling milk in Chicago disagreed. Another affirmed Uehlman's view that past talks had been to no avail.

Some delegates felt it would be a mistake to pick committeemen who did not fully understand the problems of the industry to help make the study. They felt it would destroy what progress had been made in the past.

Affeldt took note that PMA officials were attending the convention. He said his date book indicated they had met in the past with their representatives and added, "We are willing to meet with them at any time."

Delegates reaffirmed their desire for PMPC to continue working as a broker in selling thier milk to the highest bidder and achieve highest prices possible for the producer members.

In an effort not to lock the door against future developments, delegates also voted to "continue to join with other farm groups" to achieve higher prices and increased use of dairy products.

Coroner Rules Man's Death Was Result of Heart Failure

A 46-year-old Appleton man who was being transported to St. Elizabeth Hospital when the fire department rescue squad he was in collided with a car Sunday night died of congestive heart failure and apparently was dead before the crash.

The ruling was issued today by Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps, who had ordered a pathological examination on the body of Albert C. Small, 126 N. Story St.

Small was on a stretcher in the back of a fire department rescue car when the car collided with an auto driven by Richard J. Garvey, 49, 15 Meadowbrook Court, at the intersection of S. Memorial Drive and W. Prospect Avenues. The accident occurred about 11 p.m. Sunday.

Firemen had picked up Small at his home, where he was stricken. They said later that when they put him into the rescue car, he did not appear to be breathing, nor could they detect a heartbeat. After the accident Small was taken the rest of the way to the hospital by the fire department's large rescue bus. He was pronounced dead on arrival.

Kemps said there were no marks on Small's body to indicate he had been injured in the crash. Three persons, including the two firemen in the rescue car, and Garvey were hospitalized with injuries. All have been released from St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Sewage Plant Construction

New London to Get Grant

NEW LONDON — City officials have been notified they will receive $15,340 in the form of a state grant in aid for sewage treatment plant construction currently underway.

The amount matches a grant from the federal government a year ago and is the second of three expected installments amounting to one-third of the $172,480 construction cost. Between 50 and 60 per cent of the cost could be covered by state and federal funds.

DRD Approval

Recently, the State Department of Resource Development (DRD) informed the city it met qualifications for up to 25 per cent state aid on the cost of the sewage addition facility. Federal funds also are handled by the department and allocated to Wisconsin communities requesting them.

The DRD a year ago gave 21 state communities approval for federal aid, but because of the amount allocated to the state, said that the normal 30 to 33 per cent offers of federal assistance would be distributed over three years so more projects could get underway immediately. Several of the communities were under orders of pollution abatement by the DRD's resource and health division.

Work on the sewage plant addition is proceeding satisfactorily, Ray Pelishek, public works director, reported recently. Nearly all of the concrete work has been completed by Bahr Construction Co., Manitowoc, general construction and mechanical equipment contractor.

Keep in Reserve

An activated sludge system is being constructed by the Manitowoc firm. The sludge tank is about 37-feet in diameter and 15 feet deep, and capable of treating the entire waste of the city's residential and industrial area.

The trickling filter system currently in operation will be used as a reserve unit according to council discussions.

A 1965 order from the State Board of Health ordered the city to stop polluting the Wolf River with discharge coming from the sewage plant. While part of the problem was insufficient treatment of wastes, inadequate storm sewers is an underlying factor.

Steps are being taken by the city to divorce its storm sewers from the sanitary system. A $185,000 project installing storms in the southwest part of the city are being made for storm sewer installation in the southeast part of the city.

Infiltration of surface, or rain water, into the sewage system reportedly cut into the efficiency of the sewage plant.

Brillion Picks Captains as Top Players

First Championship Team Also Names Junior Quarterback

BRILLION — The most valuable players on the high school's first undisputed championship football team were chosen this week by coaches and team members.

Dennis Miller, senior back, who carried the ball 18 times for a 15.9 yard average and 287 total yards, was picked most valuable offensive player of the year.

Stan Piepenburg, senior center, who received the most points on the coaches' tackle chart, was named the most valuable defensive player.

The two were co-captains.

Russ Hansen, junior quarterback, received the Eugene Stebane Memorial Award given each year to the most improved junior football player. Hansen had a total offensive mark of 990 yards, including 675 passing.

Brillion shared the Little Nine Conference championship with Wrightstown in 1946, but this year's first place finish (8-1), marks the first undisputed championship in the school's history.

Calumet K of C Hears Talk on Life in Venezuela

HILBERT — Judith Mierzwa, Sheboygan, discussed her two years service with the Peace Corps in Venezuela following the annual corporate communion and breakfast for the Calumet County Knights of Columbus Council at St. Mary Church here Sunday.

Miss Mierzwa, who learned Spanish in this country in order to speak the predominant Venezuelan tongue, told of the substandard living conditions there, and noted the poor construction of houses and the inadequate diets of the people. Families are handicapped, she said, because parents lack responsibility.

Paul Ruhland was in charge of arrangements for the breakfast prepared and served by St. Mary Christian Mother Society. The event also marked the 23rd anniversary of the Rev. John Schmitt's ordination. He is pastor of St. Mary and council chaplain.

Nixon Woos Wisconsin

The scene was a gathering of organization Republicans. The event was a birthday salute to Ninth District Rep. Glenn Davis. The speaker was former Vice President Richard Nixon, soon to be a declared candidate for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination.

The components of last weekend's Nixon appearance in Wisconsin will be repeated many times in the months before next April's presidential primary. It is clear that Mr. Nixon's past associations with the state's formal Republican organization will be his strong suit in the primary. He carried the state in the 1960 presidential election. He has continued to labor in the party cause. He can now present what the politicians call IOU's for a return for his past service.

Wisconsin voters will witness what is being described as the "new Nixon." He appears more relaxed and appears to be more of a fatalist, perhaps a result of events which have thrust him back on the political stage after his narrow defeat in 1960 and the violent death of the President who had defeated him. He has an ability to joke about his election loss and to sympathize with the losers, like the 1967 University of Wisconsin football squad.

But one thing will not be changed. Mr. Nixon has made it clear that he does not intend to cloud over his position on the Vietnam war in the pre-convention months. This will make the Wisconsin primary particularly meaningful because of the conflicting stance of Michigan Gov. George Romney, who probably will be Mr. Nixon's major opponent in the primary. And Mr. Nixon has plainly stated that the Wisconsin primary is one of the events which will make or break his candidacy.

In his weekend appearances, Mr. Nixon did not use the words "domino theory" in expressing his views on Vietnam. But he said the war must be brought to a conclusion in a way which makes it clear to Russia and China that their policy of exporting revolution has failed. There is no point in bringing the boys home from Vietnam if other boys must fight a similar war five years from now, Mr. Nixon said.

At this point in his campaign, Mr. Nixon stops short of recommendations though he warns against the "get it over with" school of thought if such thought means a use of nuclear weapons. The war could be ended tomorrow with nuclear weapons, but this would mean a world war, Mr. Nixon said.

Mr. Nixon also calls for an end of trade in strategic goods with Russia or any other nation which is sending help to North Vietnam.

Mr. Nixon's firm agreement to the basic administration explanation of the importance of Vietnam will differ with many important spokesmen in his party. Gov. Romney, for example, said last week in an Arizona speech that the United States has over-committed its conventional military strength in Asia and that our preoccupation with Southeast Asia has weakened the strength of alliances in parts of the world where American interests are more important.

While it makes finding a solution for Vietnam no easier, our own view is that the Vietnam problem must be put within the framework which Gov. Romney and like-minded Republicans are presenting. It is to be hoped that Mr. Nixon and Gov. Romney will debate the issue in clear terms in Wisconsin next spring. The results at the polls could provide a direction to the Republican Party and to the nation on the most difficult topic which the voters must decide next year.

'I wonder how Hannibal did it . . .'

LBJ Is Popular in Mexico

Whatever the popularity polls in the United States show, there was no doubt over the weekend but that everyone in Juarez, Mexico, loved President Johnson. Cheering crowds, estimated at 200,000, waved flags and threw confetti when President Johnson and President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz conducted the ceremonies turning back to Mexico some 437 acres called El Chamizal.

President Johnson called the agreement on the land an example of "what two nations, working together, can accomplish." But while this is true today, the wonder is that it took several decades to reach an agreement.

The Rio Grande River has been the border between Mexico and the United States. But quite some time ago the channel of the river switched and the 437 acres of brush, sand, rocks and scrub timber, once part of Mexico, showed up on the north side of the river. Why anyone wants the area is difficult to figure out. But to the Mexicans it became a symbol of paternalism on the part of the United States and even subtle aggression.

Former Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos worked out with President Kennedy a plan to change the river's channel once more so that El Chamizal would be back on the Mexican side. The United States bought out those who owned land in the area, the channel was switched, new bridges were built, all leading to the official ceremonies last Saturday.

As he usually does, President Johnson employed the occasion to defend American policies although Vietnam was not mentioned. "I have said that it is important to the people of the world that both our friends and our enemies believe that we in the United States mean what we say. Here in El Chamizal we have honored our pledged word. And we will continue to honor all our other commitments."

Some of them, vague and under various interpretations, are not quite so easy to work out as the return of 437 acres of land to the Mexicans.

The King Accepts a Crown

When Mohammed Riza Pahlevi, the Shah of Iran, came to the throne in 1941 he decided not to be crowned King because "there is no pride in being the king of a poor people." But last week the Shah crowned himself King of Kings and Light of the Aryans. And as a monarch in the 20th Century he has been quite a success.

The Shah came to the throne when the British forced the abdication of his father who had seized power from a decadent dynasty. The Shah had been educated in Switzerland and had come to recognize that this was no longer an era of absolute monarchs who could do as they alone wished. When he took over, he set out to inaugurate various reforms but never really became seriously involved until he was challenged by Premier Mohammed Mossadegh who wanted a program of national socialism. After Mossadegh's downfall, the Shah developed a program of land reform, nationalization of the forests, profit sharing in industry, the extension of the franchise and right to hold office to women and compensation to those whose land was given to peasants. Iran is still not a wealthy country but it does stand out as one with extensive reforms where the monarchy is still important.

The Shah obviously feels strongly about handing his title and authority to his son, Crown Prince Riza, six years old. One reason for the delay in the crowning ceremony it is believed was so that the King of Kings would have a male heir in attendance. The law provides that his Queen Farah would serve as regent if the Shah should die before Prince Riza comes of age.

In the always explosive politics of the era, the Shah may not be able to merge his ideas of royalty and the needs of the century. But so far he has succeeded remarkably well.

Looking Backward

'Profession Versus Practice'

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Post for Oct. 24, 1867.

Thousands of sermons have been written on the above subject, "Profession vs. Practice." We do not propose to generalize, but to quote one specific and particular instance in which profession and practice differed very widely.

The editor of the Appleton Crescent (Sam Ryan) professes to be very indignant that the taxes are so heavy, and howls at the Republican party as if it alone was responsible, and as if Democrats, singly or in the aggregate, were faithful, industrious, honest and economical legislators and public officers.

But mark his practice.

When in the Legislature in 186-, he introduced a bill giving additional powers and jurisdiction to the county court of Outagamie and adding $500 to the salary of the county judge — for work the circuit judge could and should do at no additional expense to the county.

The said editor then came home and got the office he had so endowed.

During the past year he has held court — January term, two days, March term, two days, May term, six days, October term, no days. Ten days in all! He has thus received from the tax-payers of Outagamie County $50 a day for work which should be done by the circuit judge!

Who shall say profession and practice always agree, even when the profession is very noisy?

25 YEARS AGO

Wednesday, Oct. 28, 1942.

All wages and salaries were to be put under government control and approval, it was announced that day. The war news was that Americans and Japanese were locked in bitter battle for Guadalcanal Island and, along the Russian border, the weather was forcing the Germans back with the Reds holding their own and making small advances in the defense of their soil.

The one-act play, "Even Exchange," was being rehearsed by the Fellowship League of St. Paul Lutheran Church. In the cast were Miss Mildred Leisering, Miss Eunice Hillman and Robert Steudel. Musical selections to be given at the program were under the direction of Robert Meyer with the following musicians, Miss Margaret Rehlender, Miss Doris Lodholz, Miss Margie Behnke, Miss Marian Temple, Robert Meyer and Carl Leisering. Miss Elda Leisering and Miss Ardis Marks were co-chairmen of the entire program.

Mrs. W. B. Thompson and Mrs. Willard Wieschendorff were co-chairmen for the Harvest dinner at Memorial Presbyterian Church.

10 YEARS AGO

The U.S. atomic submarine Nautilus returned to Groton, Conn., its home base, after a 67-day cruise which included five and one-half days under the Arctic ice cap.

Planning the annual program of the Kaukauna - Little Chute chapter of SPEBSQSA early in November were songster members Frank Hermsen, president; Robert W. Currie, Gene Weyenberg, Robert Hecke! and Harry Bressers. The autumn program was to be given in Kaukauna Civic Auditorium.

Miss Rosemary Dhein, Appleton, was named to the homecoming queen's court at Wartburg College, Waverly, Iowa. Miss Dhein was a junior student at the college.

Taylor Writes

Black Power Means Different Things to Negroes Than Whites

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

BALTIMORE — Nearly 35 per cent of this city's population are Negroes, placing Baltimore third in Negro percentage among the 20 largest cities. In both cause and effect the Negro problem varies immensely in various places, but the time-bomb question of Black Power is in it here and nearly everywhere.

Nothing presses so agonizingly on the hearts and minds of men of goodwill as the Negro problem. At the same time we have a right to be encouraged. Regardless of who claims the credit, surely the Negro in our country is much better off today than ever before. In simple truth, the Negro is much closer to full civil rights and other advances than any Negro leader would have thought possible only a few years ago.

Why not compare the United States with England, for example, and rejoice in the fact that a larger percentage of our Negro population goes to college, and graduates, than the percentage of Britain's white population which goes to college?

DROPS TURN TO LEAD

About 90 per cent of our population are not Negroes. The taxpayers are paying colossal sums — utterly disproportionate to the Negro population — to assist Negro advances. The magazine and TV publicity is likewise so disproportionate and unbalanced that this systematized super-saturation even seems widely resented. Self-seeking politicians, venal for the Negro vote, perform similarly in their sector, which is a subject in itself.

But when you listen to the language of Black Power behind the scenes here, in Detroit or elsewhere, you find that in respect to all advances any golden drops are turned to lead.

They're attributed to a "guilty conscience" among whites and, therefore, merely (and scornfully) defensive.

Taylor

Stokely Carmichael coined the phrase "Black Power." The white population discredits it because the country so correctly discredits Carmichael, H. Rap Brown, Elijah Muhammed, etc. In doing so, however, we clearly miss the appalling difference between what much of the Negro population thinks about Black Power and what the public believes.

First, not among most older Negroes but among the under-30 Negroes, the influence of Dr. Martin Luther King, Roy Wilkins and Whitney Young and other such headlined Negro leaders slides downhill at toboggan speed. They're increasingly called "Uncle Tom" Negroes as if still "enslaved" by the whites. Not one of them, for example, had the slightest influence in modifying the nationwide riots. In fact, President Johnson was warned not to enlist them for this mission even if he could.

We call violent, irreconcilable demands irresponsible. Behind the scenes, millions of Negroes call these "turning Whitey on." They even give the technique a label. It's called "The Game." What is Whitey prepared to accept?

Black Power advocate Dan Watts, for example, editor of The Liberator newspaper in New York, will tell you: "Our problem is: How far can we afford to go before Whitey turns off the bread?" ("Bread" means money.)

RIOTS VS. INSURRECTION

We call what we see "riots." Millions of Negroes call these events "insurrection." What we call "looting" they call "rebellion." They use (and thus excuse) the same term for violence behind the shouts of "Kill Whitey," "Kill Mr. Charley," "Burn, baby, burn," or Adam Clayton Powell's advice in Harlem: "Don't pay your taxes. Don't send your Harlem boys to the Vietnam war."

The official FBI Uniform Crime Report, compiled on the basis of 111,404 arrests in areas comprising 124 million persons, found Negroes predominating over whites by a total ratio of nearly 4 to 1. For murder, manslaughter and robbery it was 13 to 1; aggravated assaults and rape 10 to 1; disorderly conduct 5 to 1; burglary and larceny 4 to 1. Forget it, you're told. In fact, this tragic preponderance is presented as if it were all to the good if it helps "turn Whitey on."

Nor is even our communications belt the same. A Harris poll in Pittsburgh's Negro section, for example, found that only 14 per cent of the Negro community gets its national or local riot ("rebellion") information from news media. It comes word-of-mouth; Negro words from Negro mouths into Negro ears — like wildfire. Logic is a fine thing for setting up computer programs but the Negro communications belt doesn't work that way, nor does anything else — deep down — in the whole sad, incredible monolith that here and elsewhere periodically puts America in a state of brutality and horror.

Wisconsin Report

Knowles Not Likely To Become Involved In National Politics

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The suggestion by Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin, one of the top ranking Republicans in the United States, that he is supporting Gov. Warren P. Knowles for the 1968 nomination for vice president was not facetious. But it is not to be construed literally either, in all probability.

Wyngaard

A reasonable guess is that the influential Wisconsin representative was trying to do a good turn for his friend who almost surely will be on the state ballot again in the elections next year. This would help him to avoid his own involvement in the troublesome pre-convention maneuvering about candidates in which he would otherwise surely be caught because of his rank in the party. Laird's suggestion perhaps was designed also to rebuke the national press and its commentators in a gentle way for their strange inattention to the record of the Wisconsin executive while plugging the aspirations of men of no greater stature or achievement in states less representative.

But there isn't much likelihood that Knowles will make a response. In the first place, politicians don't run for vice president, in the traditions of American politics that have virtually attained the force of rules. Secondly, Knowles has no intention of involving himself in the preconvention nomination politics, or of associating himself with any of the aspirants for the presidential nomination, having resolved to await the outcome of the presidential primary balloting here next spring.

TOO INVOLVED IN STATE

Moreover, even if a candidate for second place on a national ticket cannot gracefully work for it, or even acknowledge his ambition publicly, some preconvention work on his behalf must be arranged. Knowles is so closely involved in state affairs and enjoys his role so thoroughly that he is not likely to make the private national contacts and inspire the publicity that is essential in other parts of the country in such an enterprise.

A revealing illustration of his attitude is the reliable report that the Wisconsin governor could have been elected as a compromise candidate to the presidency of the National Governors Conference from which he returned last week. But he promptly vetoed the idea when it was broached to him, although it would have been as effective a vehicle for attaining a national forum and recognition that has come to a Wisconsin governor in many years.

With all that said, the student of Wisconsin politics may occasionally pause to wonder why this state with its vigorous political traditions, national reputation for progressive governmental achievements and aggressive local political leaders, has figured scarcely at all in the national ticket politics of the country in more than a century.

KOHLER BOOMLET FADED

Former Gov. Walter J. Kohler Jr. a few years ago was the subject of a little boomlet for vice president, tentatively launched by his personal staff. It never caught on beyond the borders of the state. Some of his enemies claimed that the late Sen. McCarthy had his eye on the White House, but his closest friends deny the story.

Elderly Wisconsin Republicans like to muse about what could have happened if the late Sen. Irvine Lenroot of Wisconsin had shown more interest in the desire of his friends to get for him the vice presidential nomination in 1920. Warren Harding was nominated for president, was elected, and then died before the end of his first term. President Lenroot might have succeeded, instead of President Coolidge.

The only real foray into national presidential politics by a Wisconsin politican — and it was more of a protest than a candidacy — was by the late Sen. Robert M. LaFollette more than 40 years ago.

Quarrelling with the party regulars, the famous Wisconsin insurgent ran for president as an Independent in 1924. To the astonishment of the country he gathered in about a sixth of all the votes cast and carried Wisconsin and was given its electoral votes. The strain of that considerable effort upon the man who was then 69 years of age doubtless shortened his life. He died in the following year.

Strictly Personal

Blackness of Skin Belongs to Skin

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

"The whiteness of a man's teeth," observes St. Thomas in the "Summa," "primarily belongs, not to him, but to them."

If the whiteness of the teeth belongs to the teeth, and not to the man, then the blackness of the skin belongs to the skin, and not to the man. And, thus, all the accidental attributes of the body must not be ascribed to the essence of the individual personality.

This is a lesson mankind has not yet learned. We identify, and stratify, and treat persons largely on the basis of their accidental characteristics, which have not deeper meaning.

Then, because our treatment of such persons makes them sensitive and resentful and angry and out of joint with us, we then turn around and blame them for being "different." This is the history of all discrimination and persecution.

Suppose we did this with a child in our family, who had some peculair physical characteristic, one not shared by the rest of the family. But the time the child was adolescent, the weight of disapproval would have shaped (and misshaped) his whole character and personality. Our thinking him "different" would truly make him different; our dislike would make him unlikable.

We can clearly see what would happen in the case of an individual child; but we cannot grasp the analogy to a whole race or section of people who are treated in the same fashion.

What social scientists have lately called "the self-fulfilling prophecy" is hard at work in such cases. Because of our prejudice or fear or ignorance, we expect certain groups to behave in a certain negative way; and the very thrust of our expectations tends to drive them in that same direction. Then we feel "justified" in condemning them, because they have predictably reacted as we thought they would.

In this truly vicious circle, all racial and religious and geographical discrimination is constantly being reinforced — because the objects of our prejudice eventually come to resemble the stereotypes we have cast them in. And our contempt becomes their self-contempt.

The vast revolutions awaiting us in the latter third of the 20th Century may take the form of political revolutions, but they will be racial revolutions in substance, using as their tremendous lever the insane delusion of the white race that the blackness of the skin belongs to the man, and not merely to the skin.

Could Bond

City Atty David Geenen, Appleton, said from a legal standpoint the communities did not have much chance. He said the vocational board as given exclusive taxing authority under the law and also could bond.

Mayor Carl Loehning, Neenah, and others from the Fox Cities said Assemblyman David Martin (R-Neenah) had been contacted and informed of some of the area vocational district repercussions.

Striking another sour note was the claim by several officials that they have been advised the proposed new area vocational school will not be open to high school dropouts. They contended it would be only for high school graduates with diplomas.

"I think we should force them to take dropouts," said Robert Jacobs, Town of Menasha.

Others expressed doubt how the vocational board could prepare a realistic budget and be able to justify it between July and September. There was open criticism of administrative salaries, along with proposed capital expenditures.

Criticizes Educators

"Right from the beginning the educators took this thing out of the hands of the county boards where the legislature had put it," remarked Sylvester Esler, chairman of the Outagamie County Board, referring to the period when the area vocational board was organized.

"Some of these educators have fancy ideas except when it comes time to explain how the people can afford to pay the tax levies they come up with," Esler added.

Some city, village and town clerks said there had been a lack of communication through the whole reorganization, claiming they never received any Vocational, Technical and Adult Education District 12 proposed budget in time to study it.

Should the area vocational board decide to delete the $660,000 in capital expenditures, the Appleton levy would be decreased by $140,000.

1,000 Area Youngsters Participate In New London Halloween Parade

NEW LONDON — Some scattered incidents of vandalism marred an otherwise excellent Halloween Celebration — called the biggest ever by New London Jaycees.

About 1,000 youngsters participated in the annual Kiddies parade which stretched about 10 blocks. The lead police squad car was travelling down N. Water Street when the city's new 75-foot aerial ladder fire truck departed from Villa St. Vincent at the rear of the march.

Taking part in the parade were the New London Police Department, a fire truck, the Waupaca County Voiture 40 et 8 locomotive with members distributing 1,000 flags to youngsters along the parade route, a group of youngsters led by Melvin Borchardt, the Washington School band led by Cornellis Vander Zeyden, Jaycee Sweetheart LaVon Johnson, the Jaycette float, the remainder of the costumed children and the new fire truck.

Jaycees Well Pleased

Participation in the parade was ruled as slightly better than normal and Jaycees were exceptionally pleased with the response of junior high school age youngsters in the costume dance and the manner in which they participated.

The youngsters at the dance not in costumes were out of place as nearly everyone attending was dressed up. The "flower people" or "hippies" were the most popular cult emulated.

About 300 youngsters took part in the dance which featured the "Henchmen" a New London rock and roll band. Records donated by WDUX radio and theater tickets from the Grand Theater were awarded as prizes to junior high school students.

Costume winners were Seventh graders: best couple — Dave McCoy and Terri Waterstradt; best dressed boy — Thor Hanson, dressed as a pony-tailed girl; best dressed girl — Malea Stern and Kathy Jagodzinski, most original costumes — Mary Jo Bult and Kerry Griebenow; funniest costumes — Tom Barrington and Connie Hemke, and gorriest costumes — Pat Quaintance and Judy Ronloff.

Eight graders couple — Dave Johnson and Kathy Klatt, best dressed — Greg Besaw and Pat Beiling, most original — Tom Sanderfoot and Sue Moriarity, funniest — Larry Berzil and Theresa Faucher, and gorriest — Kathy Beno and Tony Roman.

Poster Contest Winners

Ninth graders couple — Mike Hobbs and Barbara Bassewitz; best costume — Ron Springer and Bonnie Learman; most original — Terry Wagner and Robin Hanson, best original Ken Ebert and Joan Pomerening, funniest — Randy Platte and Pam Clardy and gorriest — Carol Woesinick and Jef Rodgers.

Winners in the poster contest for junior high school students were Steve Trauger, Randy Platte, Dave Nolan, Malea Stern, Charlene Close, Laurene Geiger and Debby Poepke.

First place winners in the kiddy costume contest were Mike Bender, Peter Brunner, Jim McGrath, Steve Stern, Phil Schmidt, Dan Stern, Scott and Tammy Langer, Dennis and Peter Johnson, Gary Ostermeier and Dale Daniels.

Second place finishers were Lohn and Randy Schneider, Dawn Patrnio, Mike Reifsteck, Dan and Jeff Allen, Christine Fitzgerald, Bonnie Roberts, Sue Mattick, Ken Lubinski, Scott Scherloff, Steve Taylor and Paul Klinzing.

Some Vandalism

Judges for the kiddie contest were Mr. and Mrs. Norm Kawell, Dr. and Mrs. L. J. Kileen and Mr. and Mrs. Simon Jennings.

Some serious incidents marred the celebration. Normal marking windows with soap and scattering rolls of paper about trees is permissible, but some reports of rocks being thrown through windows and the cutting down of a 12-inch in diameter white birch tree in Hatten Park are being investigated by city police.

The actions of juveniles cutting the trees was particularly dangerous as the tree was left standing on its stump about four feet in the air and laying across a park road. Police said the tree had been cut with a power saw.

A representative of the police department said it was too bad that the actions of a few youngsters always have to spoil it for the majority who behave themselves. Those taking part in the Halloween program were commended by police for their actions.

Denial of Schwartz Claim Recommended

Executive Committee Rules Supervisor's Attorney's Fees Were a Personal Bill

Denial of Supv. Ralph Schwartz's request for reimbursement for legal fees was recommended Tuesday by the county board's Executive Committee. The committee instructed Board Chairman Sylvester Esler to inform the county board by letter that Schwartz's bill was "a personal bill and there is no apparent county liability."

The Executive Committee vote was 8-1 with Supv. Joseph DeBruin, Kaukauna, chairman of the Parks Committee on which Schwartz serves, abstaining from voting. Supv. Patrick Mares, Appleton, cast the dissenting vote.

Schwartz wants the county to pay $536 in legal fees he incurred last spring during a dispute over his seat on the county board. His position was declared vacant when he moved from his district but he was later returned to the board when he moved back into the district.

Ask Further Study

The requests of Sheriff Norbert Marx for additional men on the county patrol and salary increases in the department were held by the committee for further study.

Supv. George Greisch, Appleton, member of the Courts, Justice and Enforcement Committee, said the committee has met with Town of Grand Chute officials and will be meeting again to discuss the possibility of Grand Chute assuming more of its own police work. If this is possible, Greisch indicated, some of the work pressure on the sheriff's department would be eased.

A study of the county's wage policy for part-time employes will be made by the personnel subcommittee as a result of problems in both the sheriff's department and other county offices. The county presently pays $1.50 per hour for part-time help.

Greisch said the sheriff is having difficulty getting capable deputies at that scale and the wage should be raised to $2.50 per hour. Committee members agreed the same problem existed in other offices. A possible graduated pay scale for part-time employes will be studied.

Shiocton High School Play Wins 'A' Rating

Members of the cast are Sheila Gehring, Robert Tenne, Tom Thompson, and Sue Baldwin. Play advisers are Miss Barbara Florence and Ronald Conradt.

The other entry, Freedom High School, received a B rating. Judge was Hans Christofferson of Lawrence University.
